27th Year—No. 1

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE, ANNVILLE, PA.

Thursday, September 21, 1950

Dr. F. K. Miller Assumes Executive Position at L.V.C.

DR. F. K. MILLER

Dr. Frederick K. Miller, assistant to the President of Lebanon Valley College, has been elected acting president of the college. Dr. Miller was named to the post by the board of trustees which convened in a special session immediately following the funeral of the late L.V.C. president, Dr. Clyde A. Lynch.

The trustees announced that Miller will head the institution until a new permanent president is selected. Dr. C. L. Bitzer, of Harrisburg, vice president of the board of trustees, presided over the meeting in the absence of President Dr. E. N. Funkhouser, Hagerstown, Maryland, who is now in Europe.

Miller is well known in educational and athletic circles. He coached basketball at Lebanon High for three seasons starting in the 1936-37 campaign. Prior to that time he was mentor of the Cedar Jayvee Cagers for several years. As a player he performed for Lebanon Valley and for a number of quintets affiliated with the local Y.M.C.A.

Graduating from Lebanon High School in 1924, he immediately enrolled at Lebanon Valley where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1929. He took graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania and earned his Master of Arts Degree in 1931. The young history professor received his Doctor of Philosophy Degree from the University of Pennsylvania in February, 1948.

Dr. Miller was a teacher and coach in the Lebanon schools from 1933 to 1939. He joined the Lebanon Valley faculty in 1939 and has been teaching there ever since except for two years during the war when he donned Uncle Sam's khaki. He was named assistant to the president in September 1948. He also heads the College's history department.

The prominent young educator is active in the American Historical Associations and the Lebanon County Historical Society.

He is the son of the late Rev. Harry E. Miller, for many years pastor of Salem United Brethren Church in Lebanon.

Japanese Girl Attends L.V.C.

Miss Masami Uchida, already a graduate of Yokohama Teachers' College and with two years' teaching experience in Japan, will attend Lebanon Valley College on a four year scholarship arranged by the late college president, Dr. Clyde A. Lynch. She was recommended for the scholarship by Mrs. Behney, her sponsor in the country, and by J. Earl Thomas (lieutenant-colonel, U. S. Army, retired) of Mt. Gretna.

The arrangement which brings her to America to study Christian education is an interdenominational affair. Miss Uchida is of Methodist faith; Mr. and Mrs. Behney are active in Palmyra's Evangelical and Reformed Church; and Dr. Lynch, who arranged for the scholarship, headed a United Brethren College.

Ex-LVC Athlete Named for Gym Job

Pete Gamber, former Lebanon High School and Lebanon Valley College athlete, has been added to the Athletic Department here at the college. Gamber will supervise the athletic plant, which will include the new gymnasium that is now in progress and will also purchase all athletic equipment and serve as trainer for the Flying Dutchmen athletic teams.

Since graduating from Lebanon Valley in 1947, where he was a member of the football and basketball teams, Gamber has been teaching and serving as assistant coach in football and basketball at West York High School.

Gamber makes his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gamber, at the Water Works, and is certainly a welcome addition to the college's Department of Intercollegiate Athletics.

ADMINISTRATION APPOINTS NINE NEW FACULTY MEMBERS

The administration of Lebanon Valley College has announced the appointment of nine new members to the faculty.

George T. Kerr of 1536 Garfield Avenue, Wyomissing, has been appointed Asst. Professor of Chemistry. Mr. Kerr received a B.S. degree in Chemistry from Pennsylvania State College in 1945 and his M.S. from the same institution in 1946. He is working on his Ph.D. and hopes to get his doctorate some time in 1951. Mr. Kerr worked three years at Pennsylvania State College on a research fellowship sponsored by the American Petroleum Institute. He has completed a year's research in organo-silicon chemistry and a year on the theory of viscosity. He was an instructor in Chemistry at the Pennsylvania State Center in Pottsville and has had five papers published in the Journal of American Chemical Society. Mr. Kerr is a member of the Delta Sigma Phi and Phi Lambda Upsilon fraternities.

Lewis W. Bowman from Hopeland, Pa., was graduated cum laude from Lebanon Valley College in June 1950. He will serve as an Instructor in Chemistry while doing research work for his M.A. degree for the University of Delaware. Mr. Bowman is presently engaged in research on a synthesis of para-alkyl benzhydrols. He is a student affiliate of the American Chemical Society and a member of Phi Alpha Epsilon, a scholarship society.

Professors John P. Scholz, a native of Vienna, Austria, and former professor in the Mathematics Department of Wilson College, and Charles B. Ablett, a native of Illinois and former instructor at Southern Illinois University have been elected as assistant professors to the Mathematics Department at Lebanon Valley College.

Dr. Scholz completed graduate work at the University of Zurich, Switzerland, and the University of Vienna, where he received his Doctor's degree. He has written and published several articles and essays on mathematical education and was one of the members who helped translate the well-known book, America's scientific best-seller, "Mathematics for the Millions." Coming to Lebanon Valley from Wilson College, Dr. Scholz was recently appointed a member of one of the State's Secondary School Curriculum Revision committees.

Professor Ablett received the B.S. degree in Mathematics from Southern Illinois University. For the past year he has been pursuing graduate work in Physics and Mathematics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and will also serve as assistant professor of Physics. A veteran of four years in the U.S. Army Signal Corps, Prof. Ablett now holds a commission as First Lieutenant in the Organized children, Charles Timothy, 5, and Reserve Corps. The Abletts have two Susan Lee, 3.

Professors O. P. Bollinger, a native of Rexmont, Pa., and former head of the Science Department in the Manheim Township School District, Lancaster County; and John T. Woodland, a native of Melrose, Mass., and former instructor at Boston University have been appointed to the Biology staff.

Professor Bollinger who attended Steelton and Lebanon High Schools, is an alumnus of Lebanon Valley College, (B.S. degree). He earned his M.S. degree from the Pennsylvania State College in 1937, having attended the Summer Sessions from 1932-37. He has also completed additional post-graduate work. Professor Bollinger has already joined the faculty and he has taught a course in Biology at the Summer School.

Professor Woodland, a graduate of Melrose High School, Mass., earned his A.B. degree from Boston University and A.M. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University. He served as graduate assistant, later instructor, at Boston University and has held teaching Fellowships at Harvard University in both Harvard and Radcliff College courses. Professor Woodland's field of research is insect embryology and histology. He also held an Atomic Energy Commission Predoctoral Research Fellowship in the Biological Sciences and is a former secretary of the Cambridge Entomological Society.

A Post graduate class in 17th Century Lyric Poetry at the University of Pennsylvania is responsible, in part, for Professor B. Lynn Harriman, his wife, the former Adaline Edson, and their two year old daughter Andrea being at Lebanon Valley College.

After earning his B.A. at the University of New Hampshire, Lynn Harriman transferred to the University of Pennsylvania where he obtained his M.Ed. in 1941 and where, during his first day, he met his wife whom he married in June 1942.

He joined the Army in October 1942 serving in the psychology branch of the Army Medical Corps until April 1946. During his four years of service he was stationed throughout the South and Middle West and served in North Africa, India, and later Okinawa before returning home by way of Washington.

With his return to civilian life Professor Harriman worked with the Board of Education of the Veterans' Administration in Philadelphia and in

With the Deepest Sorrow . . .

DR. CLYDE A. LYNCH

Whatever monuments may later be established to the memory of Dr. Lynch, the greatest will be the enduring effects of the work he did here. When a man has served his fellow man and community as did Dr. Lynch; has served to the best of his ability, served with sincerity and humility, then words of praise are indeed futile. The record speaks more eloquently than obituary or epitaph.

We who knew his friendly smile on the campus, who listened to fatherly advice across the desk in his office, will remember him as a man of small stature yet big heart; as a man who could perform with dignity the duties of his office and yet could perform those duties with a personal touch that convinced us of his sincerity; as a man who worked hard at the immediate task, and yet always with the vision ever before him of the greater Lebanon Valley College to come.

Physically he is no longer with us, but through the years to come we shall feel his loving spirit hovering over our classrooms, over our chapel services, over our hearts.

Chapel Service Will Be Memorial

A Memorial Service for the late President Clyde A. Lynch will be held in the regular chapel service, Tuesday, September 26. Reverend Gockley will preside over the service and the obituary for Dr. Lynch will be read by Dean Stonecipher. The main address will be delivered by Mr. R. D. Mowrey of Chambersburg, Pennsylvania.

Campus Women Feted At Tea

A tea for the new women faculty members and wives of new faculty members of Lebanon Valley College was held at the home of Mrs. Frederic K. Miller, 763 E. Maple St., Annville. In attendance were Miss Anne Dunkle, Mrs. W. Maynard Sparks, Mrs. John P. Scholz, Mrs. Charles Ablett, Mrs. O. P. Bollinger, Mrs. Warren Gockley, Mrs. Byron Lynn Harriman, Mrs. Ralph R. Ricker, and Mrs. Turner.

In 1926 Lebanon Valley's Charles Gelbert intercepted a pass and ran 80 yards to a touchdown and Paul Piersol place kicked a 40 yard field goal against Villanova.

Extension Courses Offered By L.V.C.

The Evening Extension School program of Lebanon Valley College was announced by D. Clark Carmean, Director of Extension and Evening Courses. The courses will be given only on campus in Annville and will be offered in education, English, ethics, psychology, religion, and sociology.

Registration took place Wednesday evening, September 20, from 7:00 to 9:00 P.M. in the administration building. The evenings for instruction were determined at that time. Courses may be taken for college credit or teacher certification and all courses are offered by full-time members of the college faculty. A college degree may be obtained by combining extension courses and 30 hours of residence work on campus.

Additional information may be obtained by writing to D. Clark Carmean, Director of Extension and Evening Courses.

In 1937 Tony Rozman kicked six field goals to lead the nation. His kick against Delaware scored from 42 yards out; against Penn Military College and Upsala on successive Saturdays his field goals won for the "Dutchmen."

Announce Dean's List For Last Semester

The office of the Dean of Lebanon Valley College disclosed that the following students maintained an average of 90% or better during the 1950 spring semester.

Sylvester S. Macut, 765 S. 2nd St., Steelton, a junior majoring in pre-medical. Robert K. Miller, 600 Benton St., Harrisburg, a junior majoring in chemistry. Evelyn Toser, 1700 N. 3rd St., Harrisburg, a junior majoring in English. Wm. S. Vought, 2721 Banks St., Harrisburg, a soph. majoring in Chemistry. Donald S. Gingrich, R.D. 1, Hummelstown, a junior majoring in music. Barbara Sue Metzger, 2730 Elm St., Penbrook, a senior majoring in music.

Wm. P. Fisher, 902 Church St., Lebanon, a senior majoring in pre-medical. Paul J. Flocken, 502 N. 7th St., Lebanon, a senior majoring in political science. David D. Neiswender, 113 W. Cherry St., Palmyra, a soph. majoring in music. George E. Rutledge, son of Prof. and Mrs. Edward P. Rutledge, 625 Maple St., Annville, is a junior in the conservatory of music. Clayton R. Schneck, 331 S. 10th St., Lebanon, is a senior in the conservatory of music.

Elma Jane Breidenstine, 715 Pleasure Rd., Lancaster, a junior in the conservatory of music. Donald L. Kreider, 503 E. Front St., Lititz, a junior majoring in pre-medical. Frederick Sample, 645 Chestnut St., Columbia, a junior majoring in mathematics.

Leonard A. Casper, 464 E. 26th St., Paterson, N.J., a junior majoring in pre-medical. Charles E. Bender, 129 Oakdale Drive, Syracuse, a soph. majoring in pre-medical. Walter R. Kohler, 126 S. Fulton St., Allentown, a junior majoring in German. Sterling F. Strause, Summit Station, a junior majoring in chemistry. Joyce Cooley Hammock, 133 Luray Avenue, Front Royal, Va., a soph. majoring in music. David Hafer Andrews, Newburg, Pa., a junior majoring in pre-theological.

Hall Presidents Are Appointed

Resident Women's Student Government Association held the first meeting of the year on Thursday, September 14, 1950. The business of Hall Presidents was discussed, and the following girls were appointed in their respective dormitories: North, Joan Mattern; South, Diane Randolph; West, Julia Thatcher; Sheridan, Arlene Shuey; Bardwell, Jackie George.

Kalo Delphian Outlines Program

Kalo-Delphian is off to another big year. The presidents of the brother and sister societies have met and outlined plans to afford members—new and old—a gala social program for the ensuing year.

Beginning the festivities was a Delphian sponsored get-acquainted-picnic-hike on Tuesday, September 20. President Anne Shroyer cordially invited all freshmen, new students, and members to come along and join the fun.

Highlighting the social calendar for the week will be a variety program jointly produced by Kalo-Delphian.

The first week of October will usher in rush week, for which Delphian is offering a tea and Kalo a smoker.

With the completion of the new gym, the presidents plan to inaugurate many joint meetings and parties.

Seniors Present Varied Program

Saturday evening, September 16, the Senior Class presented the Senior Shindig in Engle Hall. Bruce Wiser, president of the class, was the master of ceremonies. The entertainment included some musical selections by a group of upperclassmen musicians, and the audience participated in group singing. The LVC "German Band" was introduced to the new Freshmen and played some true German songs. George DeLong, acting as Proctor I.Q., held a lively quiz session with some members of the audience. The program ended with the singing of the Alma Mater.

The Senior Class hopes to have a very successful year under the leadership of its officers: Bruce Wiser, President; Dick Schiemer, Vice President; Joyce Carpenter, Secretary; Dick Kline, Treasurer.

W.C.C. Holds First Meeting of the Year

The W.C.C. held its first meeting on Friday noon in the newly renovated quarters in South Hall. The W.C.C. freshmen will be given a party on Monday, October 2 at three o'clock after the "L" Book tests are administered. Jerry Mease was appointed to serve as reporter for the W.C.C. on the LA VIE staff. With the assignments of clean-up duties to the freshman girls, the meeting was adjourned.

CAMPUS CHATTER

by Glenn Woods

Another September has rolled around and everybody has returned to the L. V. campus sporting all those suntans and relating stories of their summer experiences. With freshmen still learning about rules, and upper-classmen hunting their "little brothers" and "little sisters," we begin another year here at L. V. We would like to take this opportunity to welcome the freshmen and we hope that you will have many happy experiences here on our campus. Good luck in all your undertakings.

We've lost our campus mountain and it's been changed into an impressive looking gym . . . hope it's ready for the first basketball game . . . Harry Cooper and Don Degler did their bit in building it this summer . . . it's good to see the third floor of the ad building has the "new look" . . . room 5 is missing . . . South Hall is right in style with its new plaid wall paper . . . Bardwell Hall on Main Street is something new in girls' dorms . . . it's bound to be a popular place . . . speaking of changes, did you notice the new campus styles? . . . plaids have taken over . . . wonder if the plaid tux will make its debut on campus this fall . . . Peg Bower spent her summer in Vineland, N. J., again . . . "Etzie" was telling us of her summer adventures at Ocean City . . . Hershey Park turned into a summer playground for L. V. students . . . Wilbert Hartman, Mark Raessler, Eugene Patrick, Raymond Heberlig, and lots of grads worked there . . . Martin Trostle went to school in N. Y. City and also attended a national convention in the Mid-West . . . he represented the Middle Atlantic Region of the Student Christian Movement . . . Mardia Melroy was a waitress at a summer resort . . . Sara Latsha "slaved" at Pomeroy's lunch counter . . . see the latest thing in cars? . . . take a good look at Wilson Shearer's . . . understand the freshmen are getting their candidates ready for the big election coming up . . . Diane Randolph introduced the freshmen to the famous "Lion Hunt" of South Hall on the hike last week . . . Lucie of West Hall is setting the style for the freshmen "dinks" . . . quite clever . . . hear John Boag is now dean of Snyder's Dorm on Main Street . . . join the "Hollerin' Hundred" yet? . . . it's a great idea, thanks to Johnny Walters . . . see him for details . . . Mel Hostetter's convertible is really taking a beating . . . latest record is 15 from the freshmen "hike."

Have a "yen" for writing? . . . get out your pen and paper . . . there are quite a few openings in the Green Blotter . . . Don Trostle's band sounds better than ever . . . his new vocal group with the band made a big "hit" at the "sock dance" . . . it's good to have Miss Dunkle back in the library . . . Darlene is a popular name in many a "little black book" these days . . . Bruce Wiser is busy again getting the band into "shape" for the big game Saturday night . . . Hilten Bennett is wondering where the Red Shoes is now showing . . . he would like to see it for the sixth time . . . the "L Book" pages are well worn by now from learning the cheers and songs . . . Philo play plans are well under way . . . some freshmen even studied for their library test last week . . . ambitious! . . . record of the week, Goodnight, Irene (the new American folk ballad) . . . what happened to all the bashful (?) freshmen boys on the way home from the hike? . . . need talent? . . . hear that George DeLong, Bob Geib, and Mark Ressler did the Andrews' sister act this summer at Hershey . . . couples that "survived the summer" include: Dick Kline and Barb Metzger . . . Helen MacFarland and George Bartels . . . Spence Williams and Jean Lesser . . . Jim Geiselhart and Joan Orlando . . . Jim Fisher and Gracie Mohn . . . Jim Burchfield and that "cute" nurse from Jersey . . . and Elaine Barron and Bob Fisher . . . it'll be wonderful to see all the movies at the local movie-house that we missed last year . . . Duke of room 300 is giving judo lessons . . . square dancing is going to hit L. V. campus this year . . . attention, freshmen boys! . . . get in training for more of the "campus lawn" activities . . . what happened at the S. C. A. retreat? . . . well, we understand Nancy Myers didn't go to Rio, but she did walk in her sleep . . . just who was the company at the retreat on Saturday night . . . everybody was always having "staff meetings" . . . "Tiny" Kline was seen about campus looking over the "new crop" of freshmen girls . . . What about Tom Quinn's "Leaping Lena!" . . . the car must possess some type of Ford greatness . . . it made it here from West Virginny and then Tom drove it to New York . . . How daring can one get? . . . For the shock of your life just wait'll you see Al Murawski's new sports jacket! . . . What are they running up in the 'port, a zoo? . . . Glad to see "Ole Red" . . . Better late than never . . . By the way, did you know that Scotty Hamor is a Penn man? . . . Understand he took Kendig, Luke, Zangrilli, and Casper up to Hershey and "helped" George Munger mop the field with Maryland . . . Larry Kinsella on the other hand was seen giving potential All-American Bob Ward a line . . . Scene to end scenes: Bob Glock and Mickey Begg go golfing at Hershey; so, who carries the clubs? . . . You guessed it—Mickey . . . Special note to Richie Furda: She's back after all . . . see you at the pep-rally!

Who's Who In the Conserv

by Bob Rhein

BRUCE WISER

Bruce Wiser, our slim band major, is a native of Pontiac, Michigan, and was a member of the Michigan All-State Band from 1938-40. While a member of the High School Band at Pontiac, he won first place in the National Band Contest, region 3, in 1940. After this he served four years with the 324th Army Service Forces Band. He was married after his discharge and made his home in Hanover, Pennsylvania. He entered Gettysburg College in 1946 as a Science Major and after one year transferred to Lebanon Valley where he is majoring in music.

While a student on our campus, he has been very active in the Conservatory of Music. He played first horn in the Inter-Collegiate State Band for three years and will attend again this year. Formerly a member of the York Symphony, he is now beginning his fourth year with the Harrisburg Symphony. Bruce has also played with the Lyric Band of Hanover, Pennsylvania, and the Spring Garden Band of York, Pennsylvania. He has studied the French horn with Joseph White of the University of Michigan, and Mason Jones of the Philadelphia Orchestra. His activities here at the Valley include College Orchestra, Symphony Orchestra, and the College Band. He has been drill master of the band and Professor Rutledge's student assistant.

Conserv Notes

by Dottie Cohen

Frosh echoes: "Do you have my practice schedule yet?" . . . "What do they do—take the prettiest conservites and put them in the glee club?" Day students are lauding the beauty of the art work in the Conservatory—the painted floors, that is . . .

Two new piano profs—Miss Stagg and Mr. Jones . . . both nice people and no complaints heard . . .

New instrumental man at Annville High School is Bill Lemon, '50 —He is living in Cleona with his wife, Mim (Fuller) . . .

Dick Kline and his 7:30 A.M. organ practices . . . Bruce Wiser working with the band for Saturday's game . . .

Frosh majorettes show great promise, among other things. "Ye gads, look at my schedule!" . . . "Well, well. The sun is out. Quick, Jack, my sun-glasses" . . . "I'm minoring in the Conserv." "Oh, well, I'm minoring in men." . . . "You can't play the piano. Your fingers are too short" . . . "Wonder how much they pushed up the Wedge book prices this year!"

Words you'll never hear: "O, don't worry! There are lots of empty practice rooms."

"I'm playing 'Hamp's Boogie-Woogie' in the opening recital."

LV IN CHOCOLATE BOWL

Well, we'll have our second crack at the Chocolate Bowl on Saturday night and we figure there's no better way to start off this article than to say that we hope our football valiants will fare much better than last year's Valley gridders who took a pasting from Gettysburg in the annual classic. This year we feel that the Dutchmen will be more evenly matched with the opponent, Franklin & Marshall; and therefore we can expect to see a far better display of football.

This is more than just an opening game for Lebanon Valley; it is their second chance to prove to the football loving citizenry of the Central Pennsylvania area, and to our alumni, students, coaches, and friends, the type of team they have. Last year we didn't prove a thing in the Chocolate Bowl, but when down in humiliation before the Battlefields. Many people haven't forgotten that game and are apparently judging Lebanon Valley teams from that one contest. That is sad for us; however, come Saturday and plenty of football folk will jam the stadium once again thinking that surely the Flying Dutchmen will present something more formidable this time. We'd sure hate to see them disappointed.

On the other hand, people will be witnessing this clash who have never seen the Valley play before, or very rarely. Therefore, Saturday night is the time to put on the show, the "piece de resistance." This is one of our biggest games in years with a gate of 14,000 persons expected; we'll just have to show them how Lebanon Valley plays football, the winning way. (We hope!) Remember, we will be judged according to our demonstration there on the field. Last year we had miserable attendances at our home clashes and in order to delete a repeat on this we'll have to prove something more than our wonderful band on Saturday night. People will gladly travel to see us play our games, but if F & M pulls a "Gettysburg" on us, well, maybe the football crowd from this area would prefer the road to Lancaster instead of Lebanon.

After all, our alumni and students may be loyal, but as far as the average fan is concerned, the calibre of play is the deciding factor as to where he'll go to watch his football. So, Saturday night is our chance to make good. This is our second chance; we failed last year, but let's get 'em this time. A win in the Chocolate Bowl and a fine exhibition will instill an urge to witness more of our grid attempts this fall. Considering the fact that we play four home games this year, with two at night, the F & M game can be a drawing card for these tussles. Bring to mind that an early impression usually lasts, and the Chocolate Bowl is just that; let's show them we're worthy of the honor of being invited to play in it.

Like Coach Ricker, we will refrain from commenting about the team at this time. It is true that we have mentioned the freshmen, but the editors of La Vie feel that it is better for psychological reasons that we say nothing about the other individuals on the squad. As far as the team in general is concerned, we all have probably learned one way or another how they stack up. The story about the freshman footballers was written to give them added confidence which we feel our other performers already have.

Well, that's all. Now let's get out there on Saturday night and show those people that you're from Lebanon Valley. Be proud of it! Those guys on that football field are giving their best for you and your Alma Mater. Appreciate it, won't you? After all, it is your college.

Andy Kerr Writes a Letter Wishes Team Grid Success

June 19, 1950

Mr. Jim Pacy
Sports Editor
La Vie Collegienne
Dear Jim,

Although I am no longer actively associated with Lebanon Valley in football, I will continue to maintain a keen interest in the college and its football program.

I have worked with most of the members of the 1950 football squad. They are a fine group of young men. I have been very closely associated with them and have made enduring friendships. I am intensely interested in their success in football and in the greater game of life that follows. My hope is that the squad gives to Coach Dutch Ricker and his staff the same kind of fine effort and cooperation that they gave me.

To the college, the football team, and to Dutch Ricker and his staff I extend my best wishes for a successful season. The proper way to start the season is with a victory over F and M in the Chocolate Bowl. Good Luck.

Sincerely yours,
ANDY KERR

Dick Fox Tutors Valley Ends

Fox made his coaching debut under Andy Kerr three years ago and he tutors the Blue and White ends. Dick is a graduate of Temple University, where he played varsity football as a terminal guardian for three years, and recently received a M.S. degree in Business Administration at the same institution. During his grid service with the Owls, Fox was considered an outstanding defensive end and, following the assistant grid coach's football career at Temple, he coached and played in the Armed Forces. A letter-man in basketball, he has decided to give up the court game to concentrate on football. Fox, a product of Lebanon High School, is also instructor in Economics at Lebanon Valley College.

In 1916 Army defeated Lebanon Valley College 3 to 0, at West Point.

WARREN W. GOCKLEY

Gockley Coaching Dutchman Backs

Warren W. Gockley, head football, basketball, and track coach at Springfield, Montgomery County, High School for the past twelve years, is assistant football coach at Lebanon Valley College.

Gockley will also serve as head track coach and Assistant Professor of Physical Education.

At Springfield, located outside Chestnut Hill in the suburbs of Philadelphia, Gockley-coached football teams have won 85 percent of their games. Since 1942 he has compiled an excellent record of 58 wins, 9 defeats, and 2 ties.

A graduate of Ephrata High School, Gockley received his B.S. degree from Millersville State Teachers College. He did additional work at Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., and is

Ralph Ricker Serves As LV "Dutchmaster"

Ralph "Dutch" Ricker, head football coach at Dickinson College for the past four seasons, was named head football coach at Lebanon Valley College, it was announced this spring by the College Administration.

Ricker replaces Andy Kerr who tutored the Flying Dutchmen for the past three years. Kerr resigned earlier to accept the position of business manager of the Annual East-West Shrine Game which is played each New Year's Day in San Francisco.

Head coach at Dickinson for the past four seasons, Ricker has behind him 20 years of successful coaching and teaching experience. At Dickinson he compiled a record of 18 wins, 10 losses, and 3 ties.

A native of Carlisle and a graduate of The Pennsylvania State College where he earned the A.B. and M.A. degrees in History, Ricker formerly has coached at Lock Haven High School, Abington Township High School, and West Chester State Teachers College.

Ricker, who served as Associate Professor of Political Science at Dickinson as well as head football mentor, joins the Lebanon Valley College faculty as Assistant Professor in History, in addition to his coaching duties. He has completed additional graduate work on the Ph.D. degree in History at Penn State.

The Rickers have two daughters, Virginia, 10, and Heather, 3. Mrs. Ricker is the former Virginia Dale of State College, Pa.

working on his M.S. in Physical Education at the University of Pennsylvania.

He began his coaching career at Perkiomen Prep School and later went to Springfield where he has been since 1937.

Married to the former Elizabeth Strahley of Philadelphia, he is the father of two children, David, 10, and Joan, 5.

Diplomats Preparing For Gridiron "Negotiations"

According to a national football magazine, Franklin & Marshall expects to win the Chocolate Bowl game at Hershey on Saturday night. (Oh, yeah?) Anticipating this goal, Head Coach Woody Sponaule has been drilling his team twice a day for a number of weeks and has also sent the Diplomats through four scrimmages with other schools. The Lancaster collegians have met West Chester Teachers twice and have also scrimmaged Muhlenburg. Last week Sponaule's charges took to the field against the very competent defensive unit of the University of Pennsylvania, and reliable reports from the Lancaster camp have it that "the Dips looked very good along side of Penn." Sponaule's backfield consisted of Bob Werst and Herb Galebach, quarterbacks; Wally Witmer, Irv Jiras, Johnny Tullai, Jack Lowder, and Red Lucas, half backs; Bobby High and Frank Millhouse, full backs, also Steve Mischissin, Bill Trimble and Bob Cordier. John Tullai was reported to have been a standout as was soph Wally Witmer from Hummelstown, who was hailed as Dauphin County's schoolboy "athlete of the year" in 1948. Werst's passing was summed up as "sharp."

Sponaule was highly pleased with the results of the session with Penn, which was carried on during a pouring rain. He remarked that the team looked one hundred percent improved in three days comparing their workouts against the Mules and the Quakers.

Although F & M has an overwhelming edge in wins over the Flying Dutchmen, the Dip coaches aren't taking Ralph Ricker or the Valleyites gently. Last season Ricker took his Dickinson squad to Lancaster and pulled a mild upset in holding the Sponauglemen to a tie. On the other hand, the Diplomats found it comparatively easy in battering the Flying Dutchmen 41-0 back in 1947. However, Sponaule stated that he's looking for a tough fight and is expecting trouble in the opener.

F & M will run out of the "T" formation with a dab of the winged-T for variety. Sponaule is introducing a two-platoon system which the F & M coaching staff is hoping pays off, since this is the first time that the Dips have had a large enough squad to attempt such a venture. They are somewhat worried since the team has lost the services of three key players. Paul Giovangrossi, a tackle, was lost through illness; tackle Manny Getz, was dropped because of scholastic deficiency and George Shallcross, a first-string guard was called into the service. This sort of throws the wrench into some of Sponaule's plans but he is making adjustments to offset these losses.

As for last year's record, the Dips won two, lost five, and tied two. In comparing the results of games played against the same opponents, the Dips bowed to Albright, 7-0, while Lebanon Valley ground out a 26-13 win over the Red Lions. Western Maryland barely beat F & M 12-6, but ran LVC through the meat chopper 39-7. The only other common opponent faced was Gettysburg, and they made a dismal day of it for both schools, beating the Diplomats 39-14, and the locals 33-14. The Diplomatic victories were racked up against mediocre aggregations from Swarthmore and Ursinus by 45-8 and 27-6 counts respectively. In other games Lehigh plastered the Lancaster countians 53-0 while Johns-Hopkins eeked out a 14-13 triumph. Carnegie Tech and Dickinson battled the Blue and White to stalemates.

DEFEAT THE DIPLOMATS

Sixteen Frosh Trade Dinks For Helmets On Saturday

Sixteen freshmen boys will be wearing the blue and white of Lebanon Valley when the Flying Dutchmen make their first appearance of the season against the football legions of Franklin & Marshall under the arcs at Hershey Stadium on Saturday night. That evening some of these yearlings will be given an opportunity to present the fruits of their labors, and we are quite certain that a few of them will embark right then and there upon a great grid future here at the Valley. A number of them have shown up well in the practice sessions and scrimmages, and it is hoped that as the season progresses these "greenies" will gain the necessary experience and poise that will lead them on to more polished collegiate performances.

Going down the list of the frosh footballers, we start with Angie Bonanni, one of the Philadelphians on the squad. Angi played his high school football at usually powerful Roman Catholic and joins the Valley aggregation as a center. He's one of those short, stocky guys, the type you might refer to as a "bag of muscles." We should be seeing him in action in the pivot slot on many an occasion. One of the most promising freshmen is Don DeBenedett, who calls Montclair, N. J., his home. DeBenedett may be one of the answers, although a diminutive one, to a great "Di" we lost through graduation, namely Hank DiJohnson. This lad has shown plenty of speed and drive, and his running ability and hard charging tactfulness that "Hank the Tank" was noted for. Don played high school football on one of New Jersey's perennial powerhouses, Montclair High, and we're hoping his grid success will be repeated here at LVC, since he is one of the fastest men we have. Bob Diamond is a two-purpose man on the team in that he might play at defensive end or offensive guard. He's a Wyndmoor, Pa., boy tipping the scales at 178. Another end is Tom Duke from Barnesboro, Pa. Duke is a big 6 ft. 1 inch and will be used on both offense and defense. Bill Gorgone of Bergen, N.J., has been out for the Valley eleven only a week and therefore there isn't much we can comment on about this fellow.

Marty Grochowski is one of the big boys on the team and is attempting to play the guard position. However, Red is as green as college linemen go and will need more of Coach Ricker's guidance. The next "pigs Skinner" is Mel Hostetter who lives right here in Annville. Mel has proven himself capable of handling a fullback's job and may also be used as an offensive guard or defensive halfback. Ed Hutchko is another center and he comes to the Valley from the rough and tough football section up in the Wyoming Valley, more definitely, Plymouth, Pa. Ed is seventeen years old and is a 164 pounder. Sal LaBruzza is the dark-haired freshman back who has presented his ability in such a manner that Coach Ricker figures he might be a possible starter at defensive halfback. LaBruzza is a North Jerseyite and starred on the Nutley, N.J., High football combines. Sal is expected to carry on his footballistics rather well here at LVC. Abe Leaman has the distinction of being the oldest player on the squad at the age of 27. Leaman is from Hershey and is typical as a frosh football player in weighing 160 and standing 5 ft. 9 in. in height. Abe is trying for a backfield berth. Bill Mich is a late comer to the LV lineup and is a resident of Lebanon. Mich, who is 23, has been working out in the line. Dick Musselman is another halfback and will undoubtedly come in for his share of service. Rather heavy, 180 pounds to be exact, this Quakertowner will be used on both defense and offense.

Joining the squad recently was Frank Retrievi, a frosh wingman from Bressler, Pa. The LV coaching staff is anticipating using this 6 ft. 1 in. 190 pounder at end. Howie Sellers, from Hummelstown, is listed in the lineup, but he is a transfer from Shippensburg State Teachers and therefore is ineligible for this season.

Lou Sorrentino is the only quarterback among the first year men and has made a fine showing. He's taken to signal calling surprisingly well and with a little more of that collegiate shine he'll be ready to start glistening and help Dankowski and Oxley pour that LV "T." He's one of the better frosh footballers, and if he holds up under the fire of college ball, he'll do very nicely for our future teams. Lou, who's home town is Sharon Hill, has been under the tutelage of Coaches Ricker and Gockley and they are swiftly moulding a college back out of him. George Strong is the other frosh center. Seventeen, George is another heavy linesman, weighing 190 and is from Bergenfield, N.J., where he played scholastic football.

Well, then these are our "green sixteen"; out of these may come the mainstay of Valley teams yet to be. Keep an eye on them, they're our freshman footballers now, but may be our stars later.

RALPH R. MEASE

Ralph R. Mease, '42, Coach, Prof. and D.A.

LV to Appear In Second Bowl

The Chocolate Bowl is an annual affair sponsored by the Harrisburg Rotary Club in an effort to raise funds which they use to help deserving boys and girls. It was first inaugurated at Hershey in 1947 when the Pennsylvania State College trounced Washington State University, 27-7 before 16,000. In 1948 the University of West Virginia played Temple University and beat them, 27-6 before 6,000. Last season the Rotary decided to bring together two local colleges in an effort to promote more local interest and enthusiasm for the game. They succeeded in having Gettysburg College meet Lebanon Valley in a contest which saw the former win 33-14. This year, in a continuance of that policy, LVC will play F&M.

JAMES W. PARSONS

Veteran Takes Over Public Relations Post

The administration of Lebanon Valley College has elected James W. Parsons as Director of Public Relations and Alumni Secretary, replacing Richard F. Seiverling, who has been called into active military service with the 28th Division.

Mr. Parsons is a native of Harrisburg and a graduate of John Harris High School, class of 1938. He was graduated cum laude from Lebanon Valley College, class of 1950 and served as feature writer on the staff of LA VIE COLLEGIENNE (College newspaper); associate editor of the Quittapahilla (College yearbook); president of Green Blotter Club (Creative writing group); and a member of the Russian Club.

He spent four and one-half years with the Army Air Force, serving in the Tunisian and Italian campaigns as a member of the 12th and 15th Air Forces.

Mr. Parsons, his wife, the former Betty Jean Fulk of Steelton, and their children, James Jr., and Valerie Ann, reside at 461 E. Main St., Annville.

New Nurse Combines Work and Education

Miss Grace Arlene Snyder, 45 North Fourth Street, Reading, has been appointed college nurse at Lebanon Valley College. Miss Snyder has also registered as a freshman in the college and will be majoring in psychology and sociology in addition to her nursing duties.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas B. Snyder, 501 South Main Street, East Petersburg, and is a graduate of Manor Township High School and Lancaster General Hospital School of Nursing. Miss Snyder has done general duty nursing and was employed as an industrial nurse.

Lebanon Valley College and Bucknell University played to a 3-3 tie in 1915; the following year Lebanon Valley and Lehigh University played to a 3-3 tie.

Clio-Philo Plans For Weekend Fun

Clio and Philo met on Friday, September 15, in Washington Hall. Plans were made for the Clio and Philo week-end, September 22. It was decided to have a square dance. Committees were appointed for this week-end as follows: committee for transportation, Ruth Anne Brown, chairman, Julia Thatcher, Ray Heberling; committee for the dancing place, Larry Gunther, chairman, Bob Kauffman, Charles Blake; committee for music, Martin Trostle, chairman, Joan Leiser, Gloria Dressler; committee for refreshments, Barbara Metzger, chairman, Florence Dunkleberger, Jo Spangler, Jed Detrick; committee for publicity, Richard Kohler, chairman, William Spence. It was also decided to have a play. The name of the play will be announced at a later date.

Clio also met after the joint meeting. Clio name cards were distributed to the members to post and give to all Freshmen girls. It was also decided to have membership cards for all members.

Officers for the coming year for Clio society are as follows: President, Sara Anne Etzweiler; Vice President, Julia Thatcher; Secretary, Florence Dunkleberger; Treasurer, Lois Adams; LA VIE Reporter, Jo Spangler.

New Faculty Members

the latter part of 1948 teamed up with the Philadelphia Veterans' Center Community Chest as a vocational guidance counselor. However, he was soon transferred to the vocational guidance branch of Temple University. Before coming to L.V.C. he served as an assistant at the University of Pennsylvania first in research and later in personnel work. During this period he wrote for the "Educational Outlook," of which he was promotion manager in 1949.

Dr. W. Maynard Sparks, assistant professor of Religion, and former Supt. of Allegheny Conference, of the Evangelical United Brethren Church; and Dr. Charles Sloca, assistant professor of English, and former member of the staff of the English Department at Cornell University have been named to the faculty.

Dr. Sparks, a native of Rockwood, Pennsylvania, received the A.B. degree from Lebanon Valley College; B.D. degree from Bonebrake Theological Seminary; Ed.M. degree from the University of Pittsburgh; and completed post-graduate work at University of Pittsburgh and Western Theological Seminary. He received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Lebanon Valley College in 1942.

Dr. Sloca, a native of Rahway, New Jersey, received the B.S. degree from Rutgers University; the M.A. and Ph.D. degree from Cornell University.

Dr. Sloca's graduate work has been in the field of Dramatic Literature, American Literature, and Speech. He served on the staff of the English Department at Cornell University from 1946-50. His doctoral dissertation was entitled "The Dramatic Conflict."

Columbia Publishes Dr. Kaho's Analysis

"The Analysis of the Study of Music Literature in Selected American Colleges" was published by the Bureau of Publications, Columbia University, this month, September 1950.

Dr. Kaho wrote this work as her doctoral dissertation for the degree which she was awarded in May, 1949.

Research work in Teaching of Dictation done on this campus 1948-1950 by Dr. Elizabeth E. Kaho was written up and discussed in a new book by Dr. Howard A. Murphy of Columbia University—"Teaching Musicianship," published in New York by Coleman-Ross, June 1950.

This process of teaching, called "Corrective Listening" by Dr. H. Murphy, was tested by Dr. Kaho in her classes in the conservatory.

An article by Dr. Kaho concerning the work published in 1948 in the "Music Journal." She has lectured on this subject at Columbia University graduate classes and to the M.E.N.C. Theory Panel at the Baltimore Conference in March, 1949.

Lebanon Valley College and Muhlenberg College were gridiron opponents for the first time in 1900, when Lebanon Valley defeated the Mules 36 to 0.

Ross Sheesley, Lebanon Valley College back, intercepted a pass and ran 10 yds. to the only touchdown scored on Pennsylvania Military College in 1934.

In 1925 Lebanon Valley College played Dickinson, Temple, and Villanova to tie games.

Conservatory Adds Two Instructors

The administration of Lebanon Valley College has announced the appointment of two new members to the Lebanon Valley College Conservatory of Music.

Miss Shirley Elizabeth Stagg of 5 Ramapo Terrace, Radburn, N.J., has been appointed Instructor in Piano. Miss Stagg attended Oberlin Conservatory of Music, 1943-44, and received a B.S. degree from Juilliard School of Music in 1948, and an M.A. degree in music and music education from Teacher's College, Columbia University in 1949. She has studied with Carl Friedburg of Juilliard School of Music, 1948-49, and at present, is a student of Edward Stevermann. She made her N.Y. concert debut in 1947 and has given solo recitals throughout the eastern section of the United States. She has private studios in Ridgemoor and Radburn, N.J.

Mr. Ben Jones, who comes from Jacksonville, Florida, was appointed Part-time Instructor of Piano. Mr. Jones was graduated from Juilliard School of Music in May, 1949, and played a Town Hall recital in November of the same year. He has studied under Edwin Huges, Carl Friedburg, Ernest Hutchinson and the late Olga Samaroff Stokowski. He is also a member of the faculty of Juilliard and will divide his time between Juilliard and Lebanon Valley College. Mr. Jones lectured at Town Hall two seasons on the "Learning for Living" series. He has appeared in concert in a number of cities in the South and East and as a piano soloist with various symphony orchestras. He was chosen to play "The Rhapsody in Blue" in a Gershwin Memorial Concert in New York, and to appear before a convention of the National Music Teachers Association in Washington, D.C.

In 1925 Paul Piersol, Lebanon Valley College tackle, drop kicked a 50 yard field goal against Albright College. In 1926 he drop kicked 3 field goals against Albright, one of them good for 52 yards.

In 1924, against Schuylkill College, Lebanon Valley converted after every touchdown (11 in all); five of the conversions were made by Robert Reigle.

FRESHMAN EXTRA

Hi Frosh:

Finding life as a green Freshman rough, tough, and bewildering? But fun, too, isn't it? Don't let it get you down. We upperclassmen have been on the same road—we know. Just tilt that dink at a smart angle, pull back those shoulders, and grin! You're a frosh of LVC and proud of it.

This is the start of the last lap of your educational journey and the best one. You're coming down the home stretch and it feels fine, but whoa! This is the part of the race that really counts—take a big look around, be sure you are in the right lane and then let 'er go.

All this slightly allegorical talk just means that you should be considering carefully how to get the most out of this college experience, not only in reference to your subjects and major (though they are mighty important), but also those extracurricular activities.

It might be said that the first, the subjects and courses, shape the mind and that the extra-activities develop personality. Certainly both develop outlook and undoubtedly one needs both to be a well-rounded individual (campus wheel, that is).

So chart your course carefully for that job in the future and enter the activities that appeal to you with enthusiasm. A college always looks to its Freshmen for new life, and talent and a lot of big rousing campus spirit. You're the campus leaders of coming years. Don't let us down. If you give this new experience all you've got, you will get back much more than you put in.

The old timers will tell you these are the best years of your life and maybe you will scoff at first, but in the end when all is said and done you'll have to admit they were right. It won't be the last minute cramming, exams or little blue books you will remember. They will fade behind a foreground of fun and football and good fellowship. It will be the bull sessions and pranks you've played, the good buddies you've made that will be remembered. They all go into that indefinable something that is college and all it stands for. You may have to take the bitter with the sweet (blue books and baseball) but that's what makes it interesting. Who said you were a softy, anyway?

So give that dink another tilt and look cocky, Frosh. Lebanon Valley is waiting. Let's see your smoke.

Wig and Buckle Recruits Members

The Wig and Buckle Club is the dramatic organization on campus. It is composed of students who are interested in all phases of stage work. This includes set designing, lighting, make-up, business, managing, advertising, and directing, as well as acting. The primary purpose is the production of plays and the development of the dramatic arts. There are many students, however, who become members in order to develop poise and self assurance in public speaking. They find the club members sympathetic with their efforts and are able to develop their personalities in an atmosphere that completely eliminates self-consciousness or embarrassment. Membership is open to anyone on campus. We are anxious to have as many freshmen as possible join the club as there are many vacancies to be filled.

New Club Proves Very Successful

The Political Science Club of Lebanon Valley College has a four fold purpose which is: to give practical training in the mechanics of government; to secure information relating to the political sciences through addresses by guest speakers; to train the students of Lebanon Valley College for participation in the Intercollegiate Conference on Government; and to foster friendships by means of social activities. Although the Political Science Club has been established for only two years it has fulfilled its purpose and has gained great prestige and recognition on Lebanon Valley's campus. This is illustrated by the fact that the past two presidents of the club were elected the Campus Leader by their respective classes and also by the large number of campus offices which are held by persons who hold membership in the Political Science Club.

Acting President's Message

DR. F. K. MILLER

It is with considerable pleasure that we welcome you to the campus of Lebanon Valley. Much thought has gone into the preparations for your first year at your Alma Mater, but if we have overlooked anything, please inform us. We want you to feel at home immediately.

We are proud of our friendly atmosphere and hope that you will help us in maintaining it right from the beginning. Our students and faculty will be only too glad to assist you in every way possible. Indeed, you may find some of them really "overzealous" in their desire to assist!

As the year progresses, you doubtless will have some adjustments to make. Most Freshmen do. To help you in making those adjustments, you need only call on any of us. We will respond to the best of our ability.

The four years of College which lie immediately ahead for you will be busy ones. They will pass rapidly. May I earnestly suggest that you live every day of those years. Work hard, play hard, so that your preparations for your life's desires will be as complete as possible.

Accept my very best wishes for your success. Your parents, friends, fellow students, and all of us will look for big things from the class of '54. GOOD LUCK!

Frederic K. Miller, Acting President

Delphian Society Greet Freshmen

In behalf of the members of the Delta Lambda Sigma, known as the Delphian Literary Society, I wish to extend to you new freshmen a most cordial welcome to the Lebanon Valley Campus. May your years here be filled with happiness and success.

Delphian, L.V.'s youngest society in years but not in purpose and accomplishment was organized in February of 1922. It was founded on friendliness and congeniality inspired by the ardent enthusiasm of its loyal charter members.

The spirit of the oracle of Delphian has never left its members, and the hearts of all its members, old and new, grow warm with love for the best gang of girls that ever met together in friendship and fun!

We have planned for you activities which we're sure you'll enjoy. We're interested solely in your happiness; any help we may give to you we shall give with a hearty smile! The Delphian girls are recognized by their co-operative, friendly spirit which makes Lebanon Valley one of the friendliest colleges in the East.

We should like to offer all the women in L.V.C. the privileges and pleasures which our organization offers: a greater degree of friendship, student leadership training, furthering of college loyalty, and the promotion of better social relations among the students.

We shall look forward to meeting you at our rush-week activities... the hike, tea, and the variety show! Don't miss the fun. We'll be seeing you there!

Freshmen enjoying themselves on hike.

Freshmen Invade The Conservatory

The Conservatory is looking forward to another busy and exciting year.

A few of the freshmen have already been engulfed in the activities. The college band is the first organization to swing into action. The Chocolate Bowl game is the first of an eight game season for the band. There are also parades, pep rides, rallies and a concert in the spring festival. The music for the May Day activities will be furnished by the band.

Some Freshmen will become members of the Symphony Orchestra or the College Orchestra; both of these organizations give concerts in the early spring.

Among the members of the Glee Club are ten Freshmen. Congratulations! The Glee Club highlights its season work with a tour.

All the freshmen are invited to the student and faculty recitals presented in Engle Hall throughout the year. All in all the freshmen will become a party of these activities as actual participants or in the audience.

The pleasure derived from these organizations and activities depends upon how much you put forth, so come out, freshmen—join the organization or the audience and enjoy your college life.

Council Serves As Coordinator

It is the purpose of the Student-Faculty Council to serve as coordinator for extra curricular activities and combined student government activity.

The Student-Faculty Council serves as a central clearing-house for recommendations and complaints emanating from both the student body at large and the faculty. By this means the Student-Faculty Council is able to foster understanding between the students and the faculty of Lebanon Valley College and to advance the general welfare of the college as a whole.

Club Encourages Student Writers

Once a month, in the comfortable, firelit atmosphere of Dr. Struble's living-room, Green Blotter members lovingly read their pet literary creations. While the Official Critics of the evening perform last rites over the "work of art," everyone but the author prepares his own list of derogatory remarks. After this ordeal, the rebuffed writer slinks away to a corner, licking his wounds. Only the enticing odors from Mrs. Struble's kitchen lure him back into society.

The only thing not exaggerated in the above is the potency of the aroma of Mrs. Struble's refreshments. Actually, Green Blotter is a literary organization of very congenial members who read their own poems, stories and essays, constructively criticize, and bask in the hospitality of the Strubles. A revision of the rules governing the club now permits submission of manuscripts by new applicants any time during the year when there is an opening in the membership.

Philo Presents Opportunities

If it's friends and fun you want, Frosh, Philo has the best of both to offer you. A small, though unrestricted membership gives Philo the intimacy that larger societies lack, besides offering its members the maximum opportunity for quick advancement. Philo's program of social activities will enrich your enjoyment of college life and introduce you quickly to the campus whirl. Picnics, dances, hayrides, smokers, movies, home-talent varieties—give everyone the chance to entertain and be entertained. For the dramatically-minded there is an opening for talent in the annual Philo-Clio play.

On September 22 Philo and Clio will be host to the student body in an evening of entertainment. Don't miss it. And don't forget—for fun and friendship, it's Philo for you.

Men Day Students Organize For 1950-51

The Association of Men Day Students of Lebanon Valley College obviously includes all men not living in the Men's Dormitory. The governing body of this Association is the Men's Day student Congress, consisting of elected representatives from the four classes: five seniors, four juniors, four sophomores, and two freshmen. The Congress has powers of legislation, trying offenders, and imposing penalties. These powers extend over all members of the Association, and are applied specifically in the case of the Freshmen Program in coordination with all the other governing bodies of the campus.

In addition, the Congress regularly supervises and sponsors recreational and social activities of the day students, working closely with the Women's Commuter Council.

Undoubtedly the Freshmen Program is one of the major activities undertaken by campus organizations; and the leadership furnished by the four governing bodies of the day and dormitory students is explained by their special constitutional grants of authority and power in this program.

Kalo Plans Rush Week

B.M.O.C. . . . Kalo men are Big Men On Campus. Kalo is short for Kalozetean Literary Society, a very misleading name. It is the largest organization on L.V. campus and its first function is fun; strictly social. Some of these functions are hayrides, picnics, or parties with Kalo's sister society Delphian.

The highlight of the year comes in March when Kalo and Delphian have "their" weekend. K-D weekend begins with a play on Friday night which members of both societies produce. Saturday night a dinner-dance is held usually in a hotel in one of the larger cities such as Harrisburg, Lancaster, or Reading. The closing event of Kalo's year is a stag banquet.

In a week or so Kalo will introduce itself to you. The time and place will be announced later. During Rush Week the men will have an opportunity to join Kalo. See you around campus, fellows.

S.C.A. Cabinet Attends Camp, Welcomes Frosh

The S.C.A. Cabinet, better known as the Student Christian Association, a combination of the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A., held its annual retreat at Camp Greble, Lebanon's "Y" camp, during September 8, 9, and 10. The group of nineteen, plus three chaperons, assembled at North Hall, Friday, September 8 and went, via a caravan of autos, to the camp site. There, under the leadership of Martin Trostle, the cabinet mixed a desirable amount of recreation with a huge mountain of work to create an action-packed weekend for all.

Freshmen have experienced the program planned for them at the retreat. The church reception Monday night, the hike Tuesday night, and the production straight from "Broadway" Wednesday night, all highlighted the week's festivities, not mentioning the informal midnight teas at 10 P.M. Sunday night, Sept. 10. All these activities plus proctoring at the Frosh Exams, were conceived by the minds of the cabinet.

Every cabinet member "slung" hash for three meals a day from Monday to Wednesday. So, all in all, considering the baggage handling job done Sunday afternoon and evening the S.C.A. did a masterful work keeping the Freshmen busy and themselves "beat."

One hundred seventy-five people enjoyed themselves and "danced out" their "socks" to the utmost last Friday night, as Don Trostle and his Orchestra, donating their services to the cause, played beautiful strains of music. Again the S.C.A. cabinet supplied everything free of charge.

The "S.C.A." on Campus" was the topic of the first Fellowship Hour last night at 7:30 P.M. in Philo Hall. Each cabinet member presented his plans for the year in the C.A. program. Interest sheets were filled out by those present to provide the cabinet with information in the C.A.'s attempt to include as many students as possible in its active program throughout the year.

Professor Laughlin Returns From Oxford; Gave Lecture Series

PROFESSOR MAUD P. LAUGHLIN

Mrs. Maud P. Laughlin, Professor of Sociology and Political Science at Lebanon Valley College, has returned from England, where she delivered a six weeks' series of lectures on International Relations at Oxford. Mrs. Laughlin, whose special field in international relations is Australia, lectured to a special session of Empire Students at Christ's Church College, Oxford, on "The Place of Australia in the Imperial Pattern."

When asked about her stay in England, Mrs. Laughlin said that the most memorable event of the trip was the day she had tea with the Poet Laureate, John Masefield. Her meeting with Mr. Masefield evolved from a mutual interest in, and fondness for, cats. While in England Mrs. Laughlin attended several meetings of Parliament, and also journeyed to Stonehenge on the Salisbury plain, an historically notable spot because of the huge, upright stones which were erected there around 2000 B.C.

Senators Present World Series Film

Thursday, September 21, the Men's Senate, by special arrangement with the Philadelphia Athletics, presented a showing of the motionpicture films of the 1949 World Series. The film, presented in Philo Hall, spotlighted the stellar playing of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees.

This was the first of a series of entertainments to be sponsored by the Men's Senate. Suggestions for future productions will be appreciated. The Senate desires to serve Lebanon Valley College in the best manner possible and with cooperation this intention will become a reality.

Hayes Appointed Dean of Students

This year Lebanon Valley College has created a new office to aid in giving the students a more efficient guidance and counseling program. Dean William A. Hayes is at the head of this program and, as Dean of Students, he is concerned with advising the students in their activities and ambitions throughout their college careers.

A native of Johnstown, Pennsylvania, Dean Hayes graduated from the West Mount-Upper Yoder Township High School and continued his education at Susquehanna University where he received his B.S. in 1945. He took summer work at the University of Pennsylvania and then enrolled in the University of Pittsburgh receiving his Master of Letters in guidance in 1947. Two years later he received his Master of Arts from Columbia University where he also received his Professional Diploma in guidance and personnel. At the present time he is working on his Doctor's degree, has completed the resident requirements and expects to complete his work in the near future.

Dean Hayes lives in Annville at the home of Mrs. Roy Light at 304 East Main Street.

Navy Announces College Training Program For 1950

The Navy announced recently that the fifth nation-wide competitive examination for its College Training Program has been scheduled for December 9, 1950, and will be open to high school seniors or graduates within the age requirements. Successful candidates will be given a four-year college education at government expense and will be commissioned officers of the Navy or Marine Corps upon graduation.

The program is open to male citizens of the United States between the ages of 17 and 21, and quotas have been assigned to each state and territory on the basis of its high school population. Those who are successful in passing the aptitude test will be interviewed and given physical examinations; then, if they are found in all respects qualified, their names will be submitted to state and territorial Selection Committees composed of prominent citizens and naval officers. The Navy expects to enter about 1600 students into the program commencing with the fall term of college, 1951.

The students selected by these competitive examinations will be assigned to the 52 Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps units which are located in various universities and colleges

Community Concert Program Announced

Once again Lebanon Valley College has been invited to join the concertgoers of Lebanon and vicinity in attending the series of programs that is being brought to the Lebanon High School Auditorium by the Community Concert Association. This year's program features the following artists:

November 6, 1950—Svetlova, Ballerina. Youth, beauty, grace, an artist of talent and intelligence—these describe Marina Svetlova, former star of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, who shattered a tradition of ten years' standing when she was appointed Prima Ballerina of the Metropolitan Opera. Now, between seasons at the Met, Svetlova continues to carry the art of the dance to the rest of the country with her own ensemble composed of herself, two solo dancers, and a concert pianist—an unusual star in an unusual program.

December 11, 1950—Revelers Quartet. The incomparable Revelers, from whose ranks such famous singing stars as James Melton have arisen, have been engaged by the Lebanon Community Concert Association for the listening pleasure of its members. Considered to be the most famous male quartet in the world today, the record-breaking Revelers have triumphed in concert in practically every state of the U.S.A., and in Canada. With each member a soloist of repute in his own right, and the four men singing an extensive repertoire of arrangements in English specially created for them, audiences have been quick to appreciate their talents and their choice of material. On every Revelers' reogram, there is something for everybody—from art songs to the latest hits of the day. A "must see."

January 23, 1951—Nan Merriman, mezzo-soprano. Miss Merriman is a singer of national reknown. A frequent soloist with Toscanini, Stokowski, Bruno Walter, DeSabata, Bernstein, and Leinsdorf, she is also one of the top recitalists in the country. Her beauties of voice and of person have established Miss Merriman as a favorite in these fields. Her rich mezzo-soprano voice has often been recorded by RCA Victor Records, for individual enrichment. This evening promises to be one of excitement and enjoyment.

March 29, 1951—Rochester Symphony. The Rochester Symphony is not unknown to the many concertgoers of this area, because they have appeared here in numerous concerts during previous years. Their programs are well-rounded, and ably performed. Because of the success of their past concerts, and the listening pleasure that is welcomed so enthusiastically by their patrons, the Rochester Symphony has been booked once again by the Lebanon Community Concert Association for the conclusion of this series of concerts.

Historical Society Begins Publication Of Miller's Thesis

The Lebanon County Historical Society has begun publication of the doctoral dissertation of Dr. Frederic K. Miller, head of the History Department and Acting President of Lebanon Valley College. The dissertation, The Rise of an Iron Community: An Economic History of Lebanon County, Pennsylvania, from 1740 to 1865, was written by Dr. Miller in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Pennsylvania. In this work Dr. Miller "attempts to show how a small agricultural section of Pennsylvania developed, in a period of less than a century and a half, into a community in which the iron industry became predominant."

This important study in the history of Lebanon County will appear in three portions as numbers in the current volume of the publications of the local Historical Society. The first portion, which has just appeared, includes three chapters entitled "Topography and Early History," "The People," and "Agriculture." The second portion, which will appear in 1951, will contain two chapters entitled "Big Hill, Middle Hill and Grassy Hill," and "Cornwall—Plantation and Furnace." The third and final portion, to be published at a later date, will include chapters on "Early Expansion of the Iron Industry to 1840," and "The Golden Age: Two Decades of Industrial Expansion, 1840-1860." The publications of the local Historical Society are distributed to members of the society, to local and state historical societies of Pennsylvania and nearby states, to college and university libraries in the same region, and to other subscribers.

Dr. Miller, a native of Lebanon County, has been serving the Lebanon County Historical Society for a decade as Secretary and Librarian. He is also active in The Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Society and the Pennsylvania Historical Association.

Professor Ralph S. Shay, assistant professor of History at Lebanon Valley College, is editor of the publications of the Society.

Richwine Speaker For SCA Service

A small but appreciative audience attended the S.C.A. recognition service on Monday, September 25 in the Lutheran Church to hear Reverend Harry Richwine speak to the group.

Reverend Richwine, pastor of the host church, based his address on the growth which takes place during the student's four year stay on Lebanon Valley Campus. He stressed the

IT IS WITH THE DEEPEST REGRET IN HIS DEATH AND A SENSE OF PROFOUND RESPECT FOR HIS MEMORY THAT THE EDITORS OF LA VIE COLLEGIENNE HAVE DEDICATED THIS ISSUE OF THE PAPER TO THE MEMORY OF OUR LATE PRESIDENT, CLYDE A. LYNCH.

DR. CLYDE A. LYNCH

In Memoriam

Clyde Alvin Lynch was born in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, August 24, 1891, the son of John Henry Lynch and Carmina Blanch (Keys) Lynch, and departed this life on August 6, 1950. He is survived by his wife, Edith L. (Basehore) Lynch, a daughter, Rose Eleanor (Hemperly), a son John Howard, and four grandchildren: Charlotte Ann Hemperly, John Cecil Hemperly, Patricia Joanne Lynch and John Howard Lynch, Jr.; also a brother and four sisters.

He received his pre-college education in the public schools of Pennsylvania and the Lebanon Valley Academy. In 1918 he was graduated with the A.B. degree from Lebanon Valley College and later received the B.D. degree from the Bonebrake Theological Seminary (1921), the A.M. from Lebanon Valley College (1925), and the A.M. (1929) and the Ph.D. (1931) from the University of Pennsylvania. He was also honored with the D.D. degree (1926) by his alma mater and with the L.L.D. degree by Albright College (1937).

His professional career was divided between the pastorate and educational service.

He early dedicated his life to the ministry, receiving the Quarterly-Conference License in 1909, the Annual-Conference License in 1910, and was ordained by Bishop W. M. Weekley in 1916. He served the following pastorates: Centerville Circuit, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, 1911-1912; Linglestown and Rockville, Pennsylvania, 1912-1918; Antioch and Pymont, Montgomery County, Ohio, 1918-1921; Ephrata, Pennsylvania, 1921-1925; and Second Church, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, 1925-1930.

From 1928 to 1930, while he was doing graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Lynch also served as Assistant Instructor in Psychology, and in 1930 he was called to serve as Professor of Homiletics and Practical Theology at Bonebrake Theological Seminary, which position he held until he was elected to the presidency of Lebanon Valley College in 1932.

Dr. Lynch's interests and connections were many and varied, and he occupied a large place in the organizations of which he was a part.

He represented his church as a member of the Board of Christian Education and Chairman of the Committee on Educational Institutions; as Delegate to four (1933, 1937, 1941, 1945) General Conferences and to the merging General Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ and the Evangelical Church at Johnstown, in 1946, which formed the Evangelical United Brethren Church, and was the Chairman of the Committee on Episcopacy.

In the East Pennsylvania Conference (U.B.) he was Chairman of the committee on Conference Relations and a members of the Council of Administration and of the Finance Committee.

He was an ardent believer in interdenominational cooperation, and was Vice President of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, a member of the Pennsylvania Council of Religious Education and of the Executive Committee of the State Y.M.C.A. He was also denominational representative of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, alternate member of the Executive Committee and member of the Committee on Research and Education.

In the field of Education he occupied a large place. In the Pennsylv-vania State Educational Association he was a member of the Executive Committee for a number of years (1937-1938, 1948), and at different times was President of the Department of Higher Education (1948), President of the Southern Convention District (1937), delegate to the National Education Association (1947, 1948), and Chairman of the College and University Section (1947). He was also a member of the National Educational Association and the Department of Higher Education; of the American Association of School Administrators; a member of the Pennsylvania Commission on Area Colleges and Chairman of the Advisory Committee, Area No. 2 (1946-1948); and member of the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities (1948-1950).

His purely intellectual interests were expressed in his membership in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Psychological Association, and the Pennsylvania Academy of Science. He was the author of numerous articles in psychological, religious, and educational publications and was much in demand as a speaker on varied subjects.

His participation in civic activities was extensive. He was a member of the Lebanon Chamber of Commerce, Chairman of the Board of Management, Lebanon U.S.O., during the war years, and was honored with the Distinguished Service Medal from La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, La Grande Voiture de Pennsylvania for the Development of Good Will and Americanism. He was Chairman of the Pennsylvania Commission on Displaced Persons since 1948 and National Chairman of the Commission on the Resettlement of Displaced Persons with Professional Skills, in which capacities he rendered exceptional service to suffering humanity. A member of the faculty of Lebanon Valley College, Dr. Helene Kostruba, herself a displaced person whom he aided, requested in her own name and in the name of others thus assisted, that a special tribute be paid the heartfelt interest and unselfish devotion which Dr. Lynch put into this service to human misfortune and suffering.

He was a member of the Lebanon Rotary Club and past president and member of its Committee on International Understanding and Good Will; and of the Executives Club and Torch Club of Harrisburg, and of The Newcomen Society of England.

He held a prominent place in the Masonic fraternity. He was a member of Ephrata Lodge No. 665 Free and Accepted Masons; Lancaster Lodge of Perfection and Harrisburg Consistory; and an honorary member of the Supreme Council 33 of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry; of Hermit Commandery, Knights Templar; of Trinity Conclave No. 4, Red Cross of Constantine; of Quittapahilla Forest No. 25 Tall Cedars of Lebanon; of Zembo Temple of the Ancient Arable Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine and of the Lebanon County Shrine Club.

At the time of his death he was Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania and Supreme Chaplain of the Supreme Forest of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon. He was a past president of the Lebanon County Club of the Harrisburg Consistory.

The funeral service for Doctor Lynch was held in the Evangelical United Brethren Church at Annville on August 9 with Dr. W. A. Wilt in charge. Those participating in the service were Dr. I. N. Seldomridge, Dr. Paul E. V. Shannon, Dr. D. E. Young, Bishop J. Balmer Showers, and Dean A. H. M. Stonecipher. Doctor Wilt, for sixteen years Doctor Lynch's pastor, gave the memorial address.

President Lynch lived intensely, and this long account of his activities tells only part of the story. Whatever he did, he did with an emotional warmth and enthusiasm which greatly enhanced the value of all his services. He was a rich and many-sided personality, and he will be remembered variously by people in the various relationships of life. In the family he was a devoted son, brother, father and grandfather; in the Church he was the devout servant and prophet of God; in civic relations he was the friend of man; in the College he was the intellectual leader, dedicated to the advancement of learning and the development of young people in wisdom and godliness. But to all who knew him in whatever way, his passing has come as a profound shock and grief and leaves a vacancy difficult or impossible to fill.

With faith in God, in whom he put his trust, we bow in humble submission and say farewell, not forever, but only until the sunrise of that new day in which he now lives.

Community Concert Program

Student tickets may be purchased for the sum of $3.00 (plus tax), which entitles the owner to attend the complete series of concerts for the 1950-51 season. This week, September 25-29, has been devoted to the membership drive, and all students desirous of purchasing a ticket may do so by signing their names on the list in the music office of the Conservatory. Those students who are unable to make immediate payment on the tickets may still obtain them by signing in the office, signifying their intentions of paying for the tickets by November 2 or 3, and their tickets will be held for them.

Non-members cannot attend the concerts, and no admissions to single concerts will be sold. Memberships in the association can be taken only during this week, September 25-29, so be sure to sign in the Conservatory office if you intend to become a member.

Following an explanation of the initial letters S.C.A. and their meaning, a candle commitment service was held to recognize the freshmen women's entrance into active membership.

Cabinet members taking part in the service were Diane Randolph, Delores Zarker, Nancy Myers, Wilma Stambach, Phyllis Barnhart and Peg Bower.

Philo-Clio Square Dance a big success as Campus "takes to new jive."

Philo Plans Rush Week Activities

The Phi Lambda Sigma Society of Lebanon Valley College, always recognized as a very active participant in campus life, is again planning for a banner year. President Dave Bomgardner has voiced his approval of the work which is being done, and he is highly pleased with what has already been accomplished by the society.

The Philo-Clio sponsored square dance, following last Friday evening's pep rally, was a great success; it was only one of the first of many other events listed on Philo's calendar of entertainment for the school year 1950-51. In meetings of the past week extensive plans have been made for "rush week" activities, centering them around the smoker to be held on Tuesday evening, October 3. Looking still farther ahead, Philo is already at work on the society's annual play, which this year will be given on the evening of November 17.

Again this year, Philo is seeking the support of the finest men on campus to help carry on its work. In enlisting new members, Philo desires quality not quantity and offers fellowship and opportunity unrivaled at Lebanon Valley College.

Two Freshman Girls Made Cheerleaders

The 1950 and '51 Cheerleading staff has been increased by two new members from the Freshman Class. They are Fran Shroyer and Darlene Moyer. Tryouts for the Cheerleading staff were held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of last week and only the above two finalists were selected.

in the United States. If accepted by the college, they will be appointed Midshipmen, U.S.N.R. and will have their tuition, books, and normal fees paid for by the Government. In addition they will receive pay at the rate of $50.00 a month for the four-year period. Upon graduation they may be commissioned as officers in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and required to serve on active duty for two years. At the end of this time they may apply for retention in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps, or transfer to the Reserve and return to civilian life.

Applications are available at high schools, colleges, and Navy Recruiting Stations.

Professor Stonecipher, Dean of Lebanon Valley College, who is acting as the Navy's local civilian representative, will be pleased to provide specific information about the program.

Ramblin' With Woods

As You Like It

"Wonderful . . . terrific . . . out of this world . . . Hepburn at her best . . ." such were the comments of the students after the Theatre Guild production of As You Like It . . . Paul Stambach and his date from Juilliard were there . . . Bob Daughtery and Barb Ranck from South Hall took in the show . . . also saw Pat Werner, Evelyn Toser, Mark Raessler . . . Street Car Named Desire is coming next.

Things Are Stirrin'

These freshmen are really going to town . . . see the list of "frosh" in the Glee Club? . . . Fran Shroyer and Darlene Moyer are the new freshmen cheerleaders . . . The new boy cheerleader will be chosen this week . . . AND the freshmen are really "on the ball" getting candidates ready for the big class election . . . it looks like it's going to be a "hot" campaign . . . The one party has chosen Lo Sorrentino (this fellow is really going to go places in football) for president, Bill Dunn (Stretch to his friends) for vice president, Gail Edgar (this gal's from South Hall) for secretary . . . and Mel Hostetter (Remember the yellow convertible?) for treasurer . . . the other party throwing its hat in the ring consists of Bill Starkweather (the visitor of Sheridan Hall) and Ted Fisher . . . the other members are not known at this printing . . . See those new majorettes? . . . Need we say more?

Notes from a Little Black Book

Hear about the Fudge Story of Sheridan Hall? This is one for the books . . . See that red outfit of Francene Swope's . . . Members of the W.A.A. did some "visiting" of the freshmen girls this week . . . A certain girl's (Betty's her first name) Southern fried chicken is really making history on campus . . . The football players were well entertained after the game last Saturday . . . Classic remark of the week: "He's getting married to that girl he's engaged to, can you top that?" . . . "Night patrol" was the order of the week recently . . . the freshmen did a good job of guarding the campus from F&M . . . Student Teachers started on their merry ways to school this week . . . mid-night oil is burned nightly on lesson plans.

And the Rains Came

Did you ever see such weather? . . . well, the college picnic finally "came off" last Thursday . . . naturally the seniors outdid the faculty in the ball game . . . the girls were even allowed to wear their "jeans" in the dining hall . . . the day students were well represented . . . the rains didn't stop Philo-Clio from having its pep-rally and dance . . . but where was everybody? . . . Parsons "Dick" Kohler was there on hand to have the last rites for F&M . . . Claude Seifert was the corpse . . . the freshmen did a swell job as pall-bearers . . . "Swing Your Pardner" was the order of the evening . . . "Let's have more square dancing this year" . . . even the chaperones approved that cider . . . Ruth Ann Brown was there with her "import" from Princeton . . . Gene Fisher and Arlene Shuey still have "that" look . . . the "laughing" record was the hit of the party . . . Dick Schiemer was seen dancing in his socks . . .

There Was a Game

What Weather! . . . couldn't ask for better football weather . . . but we'll be prepared for the next time . . . oh, for a blanket . . . where was the cheering section? . . . the band made a swell showing . . . "Col. Boogie" was never played like that before . . . lots of grads there . . . that phone system was really something . . . we found the "inside dope" on what went on inside the "huddle"—the problem was: "What was the phone number of that blonde sitting on the 50 yard line?" . . . that F&M midget was something new in cheerleaders . . . that "liquid refreshment" really did something for Bing Gulliver . . . those new hats the boys are sporting are—w-e-l-l, different . . . There is BIG NEWS coming your way . . . Watch for it! See you at the big Kalo-Delphian party this week-end.

Pigskin Picking Finds Big Schools Ready to Open Up

By I. Noem

Concerning last weekend's picks, your prognosticator had the amazingly wonderful occur by calling 34 out of 41 grid games correct for a fabulous .829 percentage. Aside from feeling proud of this we are only too happy to take a bow since Georgia followed through on our special prediction and did trip Maryland, by 27-7.

The contests that threw us off were, Kentucky beat LSU 14-0, Oklahoma A&M victimized Arkansas 12-7, Boston College and Wake Forest fought to a 7-7 tie, Lehigh chopped up Delaware 21-0, Tulsa fooled us instead of San Francisco as the latter won 23-14, Denver lost to Colorado A&M 30-14, and the surprise of the week as far as our guesses are concerned was Virginia Military's triumph over William & Mary, 25-19.

In our crystal ball we see the following for the weekend:

For our special this week we have chosen the Michigan-Michigan State classic. In this one it's now or never as far as State fans are concerned. The last two have been very close and although the Spartans made such a fine showing against Oregon State, we're sorry to see the East Lansing people disappointed again. Michigan is still loaded!

Michigan 14 Michigan State 6

Alabama-Tulane: The boys from New Orleans won't stem the Crimson Tide this season. 'Bama's been buildin' and the Green Wave will feel the affects of Red Drew's reconstruction.

Alabama 20 Tulane 6

Army-Colgate: In toothpaste—yes; in football—no! Colgate will be outmaneuvered by Earl Blaik's well oiled Black Knight touchdown machine in this opener of a non-murderous West Point schedule.

Army 34 Colgate 6

Auburn-Vanderbilt: Auburn couldn't even beat little Wofford last week, so here's an easy one for Vandy.

Vanderbilt 27 Auburn 0

Boston College-Oklahoma: Bean-towners (especially this crew) and (these) fellas from the prairie lands don't compare "no how."

Oklahoma 32 Boston College 7

Brown-Yale: Two mediocre teams, but Bruno the Bruin seems to have more than the Boola-Boolas.

Brown 27 Yale 13

California-Oregon: Oregon has improved, but not that much; although Cal isn't at its greatest either.

California 14 Oregon 0

Cornell-Lafayette: Here, Lafayette is sort of stepping out of class a little.

Cornell 26 Lafayette 6

Duke-Pittsburgh: This should be one of the better games of the day, however since the Blue Devils are at home the Panthers aren't going to appreciate this type of "Southern hospitality" one bit.

Duke 13 Pittsburgh 7

Duquesne-Florida: Those poor Dukes, always trying for the real big time on an out-matched schedule. It's going to be a dismal collegiate football weekend in Pittsburgh.

Florida 26 Duquesne 8

Georgetown-Penn State: The Nittany Lions have a new coach but do not have the material of the Cotton Bowl year, nevertheless they will out do the Hoyas.

Penn State 19 Georgetown 7

Illinois-Ohio: All we can say here is, that we don't envy the coach of Ohio University one bit.

Illinois 33 Ohio 0

Indiana-Nebraska: Indiana seems to have enough Pennsylvanians to get by those up-and-coming Cornhuskers.

Indiana 26 Nebraska 12

Iowa State-Northwestern: These two are rather evenly matched; however, past performances tend to persuade one to vote for Northwestern.

Northwestern 13 Iowa State 7

Iowa-Southern California: The Pacific Coast will come mighty close to beating the Big Ten in this one, but the latter will prevail.

Mountaineers Meet Dutchmen Saturday

Mt. St. Mary's College of Emmitsburg, Maryland, will be Lebanon Valley's football foe this Saturday night under the lamps in the Lebanon High School Stadium. The game will mark the sixteenth time that the Flying Dutchmen and the Mountaineers have met in gridiron combat since the series started back in 1908 when LVC edged the Marylanders by a 12-6 count. From that time Lebanon Valley has won ten, lost four, while two games ended in stalemates. Last year the Blue and White got by Mary's 14-7 in a really great thriller at Harrisburg.

The Mount, which is the second oldest Catholic college in the United States, is coached by former Notre Dame great, John Law, who captained Knute Rockne's national champions of 1929. His assistant is Pete Caruso, a graduate of St. Francis of Brooklyn. Mt. St. Mary's has a student enrollment of 550 and in athletics is a member of the Mason-Dixon conference.

The only common opponent met last year by both schools was Western Maryland who trounced them 32-0, and Lebanon Valley 39-7. The Mount's overall record for last season's campaign was three wins and six losses. Last week the Emmitsburgers took the lid off their 1950 schedule by losing to Shippensburg State Teachers 18-14.

Here is the probably Mount lineup for Saturday night's game with the usual facts concerning such.

A quarterback will not be named until kickoff time.

Dutchmen Revisions

As far as the Dutchmen are concerned, Coach Ricker announced the following adjustments for Saturday night's clash with the Mountaineers. On the offense Ed Hutchko will be at center, Paul Edwards at tackle, Lou Sorrentino at quarterback, and Dick Musselman at right halfback.

Defensively, Tom Quinn will be in the guard slot, Tesnar will play backer up, Edwards or Tom Duke will be at the wings, and Ray Dankowski or Chuck Maston will be at the quarterback position.

In 1912 the Lebanon Valley College football team defeated the High-Spire Athletic Club 102-0.

Mt. St. Mary's defeated Lebanon Valley College 7 to 6 in 1930. In 1931 the "Dutchmen" reversed the process, beating the Mounts 7 to 6.

LVC "11" Chocolate Bowled By F. & M. Diplomats, 13-7

Playing before 9,000 chilled spectators in windswept Hershey Stadium, Lebanon Valley opened its 1950 football season on a dismal note as Franklin & Marshall marked up two touchdowns in the first half and then held on for dear life in the second portion of the fray to drop the Flying Dutchmen 13-7 in the Fourth Annual Chocolate Bowl. The Diplomats' first score was a fluke if there ever was one and this combined with the fact that the Valley aggregation proved rather unimpressive until the second half contributed greatly to the Lancastrian dangling of Coach Ralph Ricker's Dutchmen. The initial stages of the first period didn't prove much except that it showed off what both sides had offensively and defensively and consisted of a number of punt exchanges since neither squad seemed able to gain enough ground to actually get anywhere. Then it happened!

Franklin & Marshall's Bob Lucas kicked to the LVC 32 and from here the local Blue and White started on what they hoped would culminate in a score as Dale Shellenberger, our fleet-footed halfback, raced the ball up to the opponents' 48 yard line. From this point quarterback Ray Dankowski took to the air waves and sent the oval sailing into the left flat. The ball however, while intended for end Glenn Thomas, disastrously juggled out of his hands into the appreciative arms of the Dips' Bobby High who was Johnny-on-the-spot. High took immediate advantage of this break, then shifted gears to high speed and tore down the turf toward pay dirt. He was vainly followed by several LV pursuants of which the last, Dankowski, made a futile dive to snag him before he roared into the end zone for the TD. Herb Galebach missed the extra point but now the Lancaster Countians possessed a lead which the Rickermen never overcame.

Diplomats Score Again

Coach Woody Sponaugle's charges set up their other registration in the second quarter when Lucas came very close to a coffin corner kick by booting the leather dead on the Valley three. Unable to untangle themselves from this predicament, Marty Gluntz, with the wind against him, footed the pigskin out to his own 37 from where the Dips began "operation overhead." Bobby West tossed an aerial to Bruce Westerdahl for a first down on the Annvillers' 26 and duplicated this feat by flipping for another as he hit Jack Lowder on the Dutchmen 12. Not changing the plan of attack one bit, West cut loose with another sky ball and now the Diplomats were knocking on the touchdown door. First, the Sponauglemen worked for their third consecutive first down on the one-yard marker and from there Lowder threw himself over the adjacent line for a score. Galebach then split the uprights as the eventual victors went to the fore 13-0.

The Diplomats did their last serious footballing in the waning moments of the first half when they caught Dankowski behind his own line of scrimmage deep in Dutchmen territory and pushed him into the end zone for what was presumed to be a safety. However, they lost the two-point when the officials ruled that they had been off-side and that was that for F&M.

Locker Room Session Changes Dutchmen

When the second half opened it was a rejuvenated band of Dutchmen there on the field. From then on F&M was on the defensive more than it had anticipated. The Valley, although it unfortunately didn't capitalize on all of them, received several breaks in the third chucker when freshman signal-caller Lou Sorrentino recovered a Dip fumble on their 14 yard line. Sadly enough, the LVC eleven only managed three yards on the given four plays and F&M took over. Taking possession of the ball again on the Diplomat 31, the Valley sent Fred Sample thru for six yards but much to the dismay of the Dutchmen, Sample injured his knee and was removed from the game.

The ball eventually ended up on the F&M 8 after Shellenberger scooted to the 1 for a first down and Walt Shonosky, who showed up well as a fullback, lugged it to the 14. Shelly carried to the aforementioned stripe as the quarter ended. The sterling Shelly continued to shine as he took a buck pass from Sorrentino that netted three yards and it certainly looked as though the Dutchmen would cross the line on this golden opportunity. However, the LVC attack was halted when the last lunge at the line ended but one foot short of a six-pointer. Lucas then punted F&M out of danger for the time being, until a holding penalty set the Dips back on their own 22.

Walt Goes Over

Here's where the Ricker-runners started perambulating. A bad pass from center and Barrett Oxley's swiftness in pinning down F&M's punter gave the Dutchmen possession on the Dip's 10. It was now or never as far as the Valley faithful were concerned. Shelly's fancy foot work ate up some yardage and when Dankowski's passes proved uneventful, Shonosky was handed the porkhide. Walt took over from there, raising the Valley loyalists to their epitome of joy for the night as he romped around left end and steamrollered into pay-lane standing up for Lebanon Valley's first touchdown of the season. John Buffamoyer placekicked the bonus marker and that ended the Flying Dutchmen scoring right there.

It may have ended the scoring but the spirit and ever present will to fight to win was not curtailed by any means. The Dutchmen fought on and received a great break when an F&M fumble was recovered in mid-field. Pressed for time, a long pass attempt was made but F&M's Steve Michissin intercepted, clinching any possibility of another score for the night. That was the game right there. In conclusion, it was a spirited squadron of Flying Dutchmen in the second half and they definitely showed their potentialities by giving F&M a much harder time of it than they had at first. It was a tough one to lose considering the advantageous breaks which came our way, but that's football. We hope the Dutchmen will present the fans with the same spirit and play-to-win gumption that prevailed over them in the second half, come this Saturday night.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS BULLETIN RECEIVED AT PRESS TIME

In the first intramural touch football game of the newly inaugurated intramural athletic set up, the Seniors emerged victorious over the Sophomores, 12-0.

Ralph R. Mease, Professor of Physical Education, has announced that an excellent intramural program for the 1950-51 school year has been arranged by the Physical Education Department. The program, besides touch football which was scheduled to get under way this week if class teams were organized, will consist of basketball, volleyball, handball, squash, and softball. As has already been noted, this year the competition will be by classes in seven different leagues or tournaments of athletic endeavor. It is hoped by the department that enough freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors turn out to play in the various sports so that keen intramural competition may be developed here on the campus.

Records will be kept of all games and a point system has been devised through the results of which an eventual class champion will be crowned. Ten points will be awarded to the class or individual winning the league or tournament, five points to the runner-up, three points for third place and one point for the fourth place team or individual. In tournaments where individuals participate, the points will be awarded to the classes of which the victors are members. The pay off will come at the close of the school year when the class that has accumulated the most points will have its name inscribed on a plaque which will be placed in the new physical education building.

Competition will be held in the following sports on the approximate dates listed:

Touch Football—Sept. 27 to Nov. 3
Day Student Basketball—Jan. 9 to Feb. 28
Dormitory Basketball—Jan. 9 to Feb. 28
Volleyball—February
Handball—February 12 to 28
Squash—February 26 to March 16
Softball—April 16 to May 20.

Listed below is the schedule for the Touch Football League:

Sept. 27, Sophs vs. Seniors; Oct. 2, Frosh vs. Juniors; Oct. 4, Frosh vs. Seniors; Oct. 9, Sophs vs. Juniors; Oct. 11, Juniors vs. Seniors; Oct. 16, Frosh vs. Sophs; Oct. 18, Frosh vs. Juniors; Oct. 23, Sophs vs. Seniors; Oct. 25, Sophs vs. Juniors; Oct. 30, Frosh vs. Seniors; Nov. 1, Frosh vs. Sophs; Nov. 3, Juniors vs. Seniors.

All games will start promptly at 4:00 P.M. and will be played on the new football field. There will be nine men on a team. Other rules will be explained the evening of the games. Rained out games will be played the following night.

College Library Is Expanding

The Lebanon Valley College library is growing out of its building. This information was disclosed by Miss Helen E. Myers, College librarian, in a recent check of library records. In 1921, at which time Miss Myers began her records, the college had 5,513 volumes on hand. By 1950 the college had 47,387 books in a library originally designed to house 12,000 books.

In 1921 the Lebanon Valley College library had one full-time librarian and several student assistants. This year the library employs a staff that includes Miss Myers, librarian; Mr. Donald E. Fields, associate librarian; Mrs. Donald E. Fields, cataloguer; Miss Esther A. Shenk, circulation assistant; Miss Anna B. Dunkle and Mrs. Ralph S. Shay, technical assistants; and nine student assistants.

The college library contains three special collections of books of great value to scholars and researchers. The Hiram Herr Shenk Collection, including the Heilman Library, contains a history of the cultural background of the Pennsylvania German area, the counties of Lebanon, York, Berks, and Lehigh. The United Brethren Church collection contains reports of cooperating conferences from 1921 to the present. The C. B. Montgomery Memorial Collection of Transcripts is composed of transcripts of manuscripts in the Library of Congress, the British Museum, and the older libraries of Philadelphia. It deals with early colonial history, the Pennsylvania Germans, and the Indian situation in the colonies.

The library has recently begun a modernization program with the introduction of a microfilm library and a Recordak microfilm reader. There is a microfilm file on daily issues of the New York Times from 1945 to

Hays Attends Inauguration

Mr. William A. Hays, Dean of Students at Lebanon Valley College, will represent the college as a delegate at the inauguration of Milton S. Eisenhower, new president of Pennsylvania State College.

The inauguration ceremonies, held October 4th and 5th on the Pennsylvania State College campus, include a reception, the inaugural exercises, an informal luncheon, and the inaugural ball.

Dean Hays will return to his duties at Lebanon Valley College Friday, October 6th.

Rev. H. Leiper to Begin Religion in Life Series

Dr. Henry Smith Lieper, Associate General Secretary of the World Council of Churches, will be at Lebanon Valley College on October 12 as the first speaker of the Religion in Life Lecturship Series, a new feature on the campus this year. Dr. Smith will speak at chapel in the mornings, lead a seminary in the afternoon, and speak again in a convocation service in the evening. The evening meeting will be sponsored jointly by the college and the Annnville Council of Churches.

The entire series of lectures will feature outstanding speakers of our country on religious subjects. Rev. David Gockley, Director of Religious and Social Activities, will be in charge of the program.

The second speaker of the series will be here December 12.

Junior Class Organizes Plan Gala Weekend

At a meeting of the Junior Class it was decided that this year the class dues will be $5.00. This will make a total of $8.50 for those who have not paid any dues—$.50 from the Freshman year and $3.00 from the Sophomore year. The class treasurer Sterling Strauss, will receive dues at any time.

Harry Cooper is representing the class on Student Faculty Council.

Plans are under way for the Junior sponsored weekend scheduled for October 20. George Rutledge and Bob Rhein are a committee of two to get the program rolling.

When Penn State defeated Lebanon Valley College 12-6 in 1935 it scored both its touchdowns in the last two minutes of play.

Recipients Chosen For Scholarships

The Lebanon Valley College Conservatory of Music announced today that Robert Y. Clay, 227 Walnut Street, Palmyra, and Joyce C. Hammock, 133 Luray Avenue, Front Royal, Virginia, both sophomores at Lebanon Valley College, are the recipients of the Presser Foundation Scholarship Award.

Presser Music Scholarships are granted by the Presser Foundation of the Presser Publishing Company, Philadelphia, to those colleges which the Foundation deems worthy of them. The Presser Scholarship granted to Lebanon Valley College is awarded to students on the basis of ability, personality, intelligence, and possibility of success.

Departmental assistantships in the Conservatory of Music have been awarded to Bruce D. Wiser, 520 S. Franklin Street, Hanover; Francis A. Nogle, R. D. 21, Lebanon; Joan L. Mattern, 217 Lewis Street, Minersville; Clayton R. Schneek, 437 N. 6th Street, Lebanon; and Donald S. Gingrich, R. D. 1, Hummelstown.

Clio, Philo Meet; Discuss Plans

Confronted with various important issues, the members of Philo conducted a meeting with the Clio society on Tuesday evening, Sept. 26, at 7:00 P. M. At this joint meeting two major issues were given attention. The first of these was the selection of a play as well as the appointments of members to serve on various play committees. Prof. Gilbert McKlveen, who so ably directed the play last year and who has consented to do so again this year, spoke to the group on the desirability of presenting the well-known play, Kind Lady, the details of which he explained in a fine manner. The second item was that of appointing a committee to begin inquiry as to a site for the Philo-Clio dinner-dance to be held next spring. Some excellent places have already been mentioned and are under consideration.

At the closed meeting of Philo members, immediately following the joint meeting, the topics under discussion were confined mostly to the rush week activities, although other issues were brought forth. Progress on a new constitution for Philo was announced by the committee at work on it. Significant among the other events of the evening were the selection of committees for the Philo Smoker, the discussion of the Philo initiation procedures, and the selection of Bob Feaster as representative to the baseball game between the pledges of Philo and Kalo on the afternoon of October 10.

Smoker, Initiation On Kalo's Agenda

President Joseph Shemeta of Kalo, today issued an open invitation to all men students to join him this evening in attending and enjoying a smoker sponsored by that organization. Planned is a comedy skit as well as a showing of last year's May-day film . . . and of course smokes and food being not first but foremost on the agenda. The time and place is 8:00 p.m. in Kalo Hall.

A meeting for all freshmen initiates will be held Monday evening in Kalo Hall. It is compulsory that all potential Kalo members attend. The meeting will be short and will commence at 8:00 p.m.

Initiation will take place Thursday evening the 12th of this month. Pledges are asked to report to the Administration Building at 7:30 p.m. The Committee on Initiations has met and a "delightful" programme has been planned.

Committee Chosen For Conserv Formal

The following people were elected representatives of each class to serve on a committee for the Conservatory Formal, held annually for conservatory students and their guests: Senior Class: Barbara Metzger and Richard Hawk; Junior Class: Dolores Zarker and Melvin Schiff; Sophomore Class: Joyce Hammock and William Shopelli; Freshman Class: Sylvia Wolf-skill and John Ervine.

The group met in a special session and elected Richard Hawk as Chairman. Definite plans for the affair will be announced in the future.

Clio Combines Fashion With Traditional Tea

Tea was served in North Hall Parlor on Friday, September 28, by the Clonion Society. Faculty members, guests, and Clio members were greeted at the door by the President, Sara Ann Etzweiler. After being greeted by the President, the people were introduced to the President's mother, Mrs. C. A. Etzweiler of Columbia, Pennsylvania.

The theme of the tea was a fashion show by the Clonion members. One fashion show was held at 3:30 P. M. and the second show was at 4:30 P. M. Quiet music was provided by Miss Louise Light and Miss Beatrice Royer who beautifully rendered several vocal selections. She was accompanied by Miss Edith Shanaman.

Tea was poured by Miss Jane Holliday, an instructor in the conservatory and by Mrs. Bryon L. Harriman who is the wife of Professor Bryon L. Harriman, a psychology teacher in the college. Tiny tea sandwiches representing fall leaves were served. Little cakes and mints were also served. Miss Phyllis Barnhart and Miss Jo Spangler also helped to serve during the tea.

The room was decorated with beautiful bouquets of fall flowers and ivy. These decorations were presented to the club by Miss Ruth Ann Brown. Each guest was given a yellow baby chrysanthemum before entering the tea.

The president wishes to thank all those who contributed in making the tea a huge success and is looking forward to a very successful Clonion year.

PROF-ILES

by PHIL HAYES

The newest and possibly most important position on campus (As far as we students are concerned) was initiated this year with the appointment of Mr. William A. Hays as Dean of Students of Lebanon Valley College. This tall, blonde, gentleman whom many of you may have seen meandering around campus, may be found in his enormous office that was reconstructed out of room five. Dean Hays, an amiable, easy-to-meet bachelor has an impressive background that seems made to order for his work at L. V. C. He received his Bachelor of Arts Degree from Susquehanna University in 1945. He attended the summer session of the University of Pennsylvania and received his Master of Letters Degree from the University of Pittsburg in 1947. His Master of Arts Degree was received from Columbia University in 1949. Of his graduate credits, he completed 84 out of 90 at Columbia University. He holds a Professional Diploma in Director of Guidance and Counseling. He has held several prominent positions before coming to L. V. A few of them are: psychologist for the Westinghouse Electric Company, psychologist at the University of Pittsburg, and also as a psychological assistant at Pennsylvania State College. He has been active in personnel work as Director of Personnel Services Division at Harrisburg; and as Student advisor at City College, New York City. He was Personnel Director of Hetzler and Zok Company, and was Senior Research Psychologist for the Pennsylvania State Employment Service. With this background it is only natural that Dean Hays should fill his position as Dean of Students to the "nth" degree. His capacity as Dean will be to supervise and coordinate all student personnel activities, including: admissions, orientation, student government, counseling, health and housing, placement, discipline, social and religious education and host of other activities. . . In short, if it has to be done, the Dean will do it.

Not only does Dean Hays have the necessary occupational background and experience for carrying out his duties, but his compatible personality, his attitudes and conception of methods and their employment will undoubtedly be a deciding factor in determining the degree of success that he will attain. As a disciplinarian, he does not "swing a big stick," but advocates the "fair deal" and human treatment at a strong basis for maintaining order. As a firm believer in student participation in student government, he advocates the democratic processes and the principles of a free people as the best way to accomplish objectives. However, if necessary, he will undoubtedly take a firm stand on vital issues and assume the "iron hand in the velvet glove" attitude if certain factions come to a head.

Dean Hays has more than a large task to accomplish, but with the cooperation of the entire student body and administrative officers backing him, he can be assured of complete success in his duties as Dean of Students of Lebanon Valley College.

Sophomore Weekend Will Feature Jazz

by Neil Timbelane

A series of minor eruptions have shaken the outskirts of Annville.

At 441 West Queen Street, weird and exotic sounds and rhythms are issuing forth. L. V. C.'s musical witch doctor, D. (Tenderly) Trostle, is brewing his second batch to be dished out at the November 10, Jazz Concert, giving the Sophomore Weekend a slam-bang start.

For the benefit of the uninitiated Freshies, listen: "Think the sock Dance band was somethin' hey? Wait, 'til you hear that outfit, augmented by a string section and forty voices, knocking out one of Don's 'Specials'."

"Nuff said for the present. For further information, ask any upper classman. Or anyone in Annville, for that matter; they all hear it, present or not.

Schedule For Open Hour On Thursday

The hour at 11:00 every Thursday is held open for meetings of various kinds, as directed and planned by the Student-Faculty Council. The schedule is as follows:

- 1st Thursday of each month—class meetings
- 2nd Thursday of each month—Societies
- 3rd Thursday of each month—Faculty
- 4th Thursday of each month—Small organizations

The pledges for the various societies are to meet with their respective societies Monday, October 9, at 7:00. Delphian pledges will meet in Delphian Hall; Philo pledges in Philo Hall, and Kalo in Kalo Hall.

All pledgees and Sophomore members of Clío will meet Monday, October 9, at 7 p.m. at the entrance of Philo Hall. This will be a short meeting and all those mentioned are urged to attend! Please attend!

LET'S KICK THE MULES

Ricker's Dutchmen Dazzle Maryland Mounties by 39-0

Lebanon Valley's Coach Ralph Ricker set off talent-loaded keg of gridiron dynamite on Saturday night under the lights in the Lebanon High School Stadium. From this explosion ensued an avalanche of touchdowns which eventually evolved in the burying of a weak Mt. St. Mary's College pigskin array 39-0 in the opener of the 1950 home season for the Flying Dutchmen. The visitors had very little to compare with the offensive might of the Blue and White and once Lou Sorrentino scored the first touchdown the boys from Emmitsburg, Maryland were done for the night. The Valley backs tore in and out and around the Mountaineer line in flamboyant fashion rolling up the one-sided result with thirty-seven players seeing action. The Mounties were battered down in every department and threatened only once through out the entire fracas.

LVC's juggernaut ground out a total offense of 430 yards to the mere 129 managed by the gentlemen from the South. Valley runners displayed their destructive power in the air as on the land, but the latter dominated the scene as 241 yards rushing were recorded for the Rickermen while Mt. St. Mary's group mustered but 36. It was a brilliant spectacle of scoring power that the Valley eleven "dished up" to their faithful, and "out" to the men of Coach John Law.

LV BACKFIELD FLASHY

Lou Sorrentino, a freshman quarterback, with the poise and football know-how that can usually be seen only in a veteran pigskin-er glittered beautifully for the Blue and White from Annville as he connected for eight out of eleven passes for a total of 146 yards and reeled off twelve yards of his own running to account for a good deal of the Valley offensive with his 158 yards gained. The Sharon Hill, Pa. whiz-kid fascinated the crowd with a show from the start when he scored the first touchdown. He also showed well with a sensational heave in the second quarter which was hauled down even more spectacularly by Glenn Thomas as he clung to the ball between two MSMC men.

Dale Shellenberger, the nifty shifty lad from Red Lion ran very well scoring two touchdowns for the LVC combine. Shelly rolled up 48 yards rushing and cracked the opponents line with all the speed and determination possible. On his second touchdown the shifty lad stormed into the end zone as though he'd been shot from a howitzer and all but carried a stubborn Mt. St. Mary's linesman with him. Walt Shonosky, who lugs the leather with such protection and care as though it were made of brittle porcelain, accounted for 52 yards of the Dutchman offense and also scored a touchdown. Dick Musselman, another freshman back, came through in fine fashion reeling off some eye-opening dashes that accounted for 49 yards of the Dutchman offense. The entire Valley backfield looked great in the delivery of this thrashing to the Emmitsburgians, Ralph Gioradano, Joe Oxley, Don De Bennedett, John Buffmoyer, Chuck Maston, and Sal La Bruzza, but the most breath-taking run of the evening was left to Ray Dakowski who dared away from encircling host of tacklers and reversed to the opposite side of the field, jotting down the turf for a sizeable gain. Then he pulled off a "brother you ain't seen nuthin' yet" as he scored a touchdown in a few following plays by faking at the line and then jackrabbiting it out to the left side, scooting into pay dirt.

The Dutchmen labored for every touchdown and none came as gifts. They scored as the result of the hard charging and running, and all around versatility of the team itself. Every one did their job well and the victory was a result of team work.

SORRENTINO SCORES

Shellenberger took the opening kick off and raced it from the five to the LV 40. Buffmoyer came on and hit the line for five yards, Shelly picked up two and then Buffy slammed through for nine more registering a first down. Lou Sorrentino pitched out to Dick Musselman, who kept the LV running machine intact by eating up nine more yards. Shellenberger followed, racking up a first down on the Mount 30. Shelly carried for four more and after a Sorrentino ozone attempt was incomplete, Shellenberger gathered in the next one and recorded another LVC first down on the Marylander's six.

As three plays only gained four yards Sorrentino made an attempt to take to the airwaves but instead, after a near heart-failing juggle of the ball, he kept the oval and trotted around right end for the first touchdown of the evening. Buffmoyer successfully palckicked the extra point.

Paul McCullum set up the second Dutchmen score when he fumbled one of Marty Gluntz's punts upon being hit by an LV tackler and end Sherdell Snyder recovered for the Blue and White. The Dutchmen went to work immediately as Sorrentino passed to Glenn Thomas for a first down on the Mountie 44. Walt Shonosky took another Sorrentino heave for seven and then marked up a first down on the Mount 33. The Dutchmen were halted for the time being by a five yard backfield in motion penalty and in order to make up for this delay the sterling Sorrentino flipped a pass to the sensational Shellenberger in the left flat and Shelly took off, not stopping until he scored. George Cardone attempted to make it 14-0 but his placement effort was blocked.

M-Berg To Be Tough For Flying Dutchmen

For the twenty-sixth time since 1900 Lebanon Valley will meet Muhlenburg College on the gridiron under the arcs this Saturday night in the beautiful Allentown High School Stadium. This will be a continuation of the series which saw the last game being played in 1942 when the Allentown mules tripped the Flying Dutchmen 6-0. Muhlenburg holds an edge in the standings having won 13 to the Dutchman 11, while the 1921 contest ended in a 21-21 tie.

Muhlenburg's Head Coach is Howard W. Baughman who replaced Floyd Schwartzwalder at the Allentown institution which the latter accepted the head coaching position at Syracuse. Baughman had a successful high school coaching career in Ohio and several boys from Painesville, Ohio, one of the places where he coached are on the Mule team. Baughman, who was a three letter man at Kent State in Ohio, lost seven games in his first year at the helm of the Mules last season.

Baughman's assistants are J. Louis Cardinal, another Kent State graduate, Thomas Triplett, who attended Western Kentucky, and F. Ernest Fellows, a product of Muhlenburg.

As for the Muhlenburg team itself, by switching a couple of backs to center and guard, Coach Baughman could field a starting lineup of eleven lettermen. George England throwing the passes, Elmo Jackson, Harry Kreutzberg and Ernie Wescoe carrying the ball, Fred Peiffy and Al Rubbert on the ends and a couple of towering tackles in the persons of Captain Mysto Deitz and Fred Berman.

Bob Dikon is the only veteran guard on the squad while in addition to the above quartet, the Mules also have Bill Woodworth and Abby Ruyak as backfield lettermen of '49 on hand for '50. Non-lettermen from last year include a pair of ends, Al Woodworth and Warren Reed, Frank Stefkovich at center, Nick Yannuzzi at guard and fullback Dick Landis.

Reinforcing these 16 upperclassmen from last year's squad the Mules have 21 hustling freshmen from last year's 1953 team moving up to varsity status. Pete Dolly from Camden and George Mills and Inky Ingold from Verona, N. J. are standouts among the new backfield men on the basis of their paly with Lou Cardinals freshman eleven last fall.

Last season the Mules won but one game, tied one, and lost seven. The win was recorded over Lebanon Valley's arch rival, Albright, 21-7 and the team they tied were the Penguins of Youngstown College from Ohio. The teams defeating the Baughmanmen Scranton, 12-7; Duquesne 14-7; Lafayette 35-21; Gettysburg 9-6; Delaware, 25-13; Lehigh, 22-20; and Bucknell, 32-14.

The Mules opened their season on Saturday by downing Bucknell's Bisons 18-13. George England proved to be an ace passer for the winners and the Plainfield, N. J. lad might prove to be a thorn in the side of the Dutchmen. George is supposed to be a Muhlenberger from way back, since he was born in Muhlenberg Hospital in Plainfield. The other star of the Allentown aggregation is William "Elmo" Jackson, is the left half back who is probably the fastest man on the Mule team. Jackson is home grown and attended Allentown High where he played on the perennial powerful athletic teams of the Canaries.

This, then is the team that the Dutchmen will meet. Muhlenberg—the biggest game on our schedule. Let us all get behind our team in this one and cheer them on to a victory over the Mules. After the demonstration they gave on Saturday night against Mt. St. Mary's we know the Flying Dutchmen are a clicking combination so, let's go down to Allentown on Saturday night and yell for a "Mule kicking."

Below is the record of the games through the years between Muhlenberg and Lebanon Valley:

ACE Clarifies Confusion About Service Situation

POSTPONEMENT OF INDUCTION OF STUDENTS

Some confusion has arisen regarding the action of Local Selective Service Boards in relation to college and university students. Students pursuing full-time courses who receive their orders for induction while enrolled in an institution of higher education and wish to postpone their entrance into the armed forces, should request postponement of induction, not deferment. Postponement for the academic year is mandatory upon the Local Board for all full-time students as the Selective Service Act of 1948 states:

Any person who, while satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction at a college, university, or similar institution of learning, is ordered to report for induction under this title, shall, upon the facts being presented to the local board, have his induction under this title postponed (a) until the end of such academic year or (b) until he ceases satisfactorily to pursue such course of instruction, whichever is the earlier.

DEFEREMENT IS OPTIONAL WITH LOCAL BOARD

Operations Bulletin No. 1 was aimed primarily to provide for deferment of such students as received their "order to report for induction" between August 1, 1950 and the opening of the academic year. Some Local Boards have preferred to defer (Classification 2A) those students who meet the criteria of Operations Bulletin No. 1, and thus save reclassification between now and the end of the academic year.

On September 28, the problems arising because of confusion between postponement and deferment were discussed with National Headquarters, Selective Service System. They gave assurance that a clarifying statement would be sent immediately to Local Boards.

Institutions have two responsibilities: (1) to be certain that students know they should request postponement; and (2) to certify to Local Boards that the individual is pursuing a full-time course and is making satisfactory progress in such course. If the Local Board is also deferring students who meet the criteria of Operations Bulletin 1, then, and then only, should the institution certify also the student's standing in his class.

Charles Gelbert, captain of the 1927 Lebanon Valley College football team and former star infielder for the St. Louis Cardinals, is now coaching baseball at Lafayette.

LVC Students Better "ACE" Exam Aver.

Official figures released by the cooperative Test Division of the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, show that the average of scores attained this year on the American Council on Education Psychological Examination by freshmen at Lebanon Valley College exceeds the average reported by 218 colleges "ACE," is a standard test of scholastic aptitude widely used by institutions of higher learning throughout the United States.

Lebanon Valley College freshmen averaged higher not only than students at the 218 colleges as a whole but also higher than men and women at the junior colleges, teachers colleges, and four-year colleges which make up the total.

Freshmen at Lebanon Valley have achieved progressively higher scores for three successive years. Such an impressive record clearly indicates that College has selected its students both carefully and well.

The Valley girl's schedule will include Moravian, Shippensburg State Teachers, Penn Hall, Albright, Millersville State Teachers, Susquehanna University, and Gettysburg.

One of the biggest upsets of the 1927 football season was Lebanon Valley College's 13-12 win over Brown University.

When Penn State defeated Lebanon Valley College 12-6 in 1935 it scored both its touchdowns in the last two minutes of play.

RICKER'S DUTCHMEN DAZZLE

Upon recovering a fumble the Dutchmen TD machine went into action as Musselman and Shellenberger punched out a first down on the LV 30. Sorrentino then cut loose with the pass of the game as he took all the time in the world, sighted Thomas, then let go with an amazing heave that Glenn masterfully leaped up and caught between two opponents and dragged down for the first down on the MSMC 30. Sorrentino hit Fischer for the first down on the 17 and Shelly raced to the four for another first down. From here, Giordano was handed the ball and Ralph plunged through for a touchdown. Buffamoyer's perfect bonus kick was nullified by a holding penalty and his second attempt from the 25-yard marker was wide.

DUTCHMEN ADD THREE

The Dutchmen scored three times in the second half and their first score came after Joe Oxley intercepted a MSM aerial and ran it back to the visitors 38. An offside penalty moved it to the 33 and the dependable Shellenberger then marked up a first down on the 26. Sorrentino to Thomas clicked for seven yards and Shonosky rammed through for a first down on the Saint's 14. Shellenberger violated the MSM goal line again as he tore across for his second TD of the night. Buffamoyer accounted for the extra marker as the Dutchmen led 26-0.

After a session of punt exchanges the Mounties kicked from their 17 out to Ray Dankowski who brought it back to the 46. The Dutchmen pushed to the 33 for a first and Musselman registered another as the period ended. Sorrentino continued his devastating air performance reaching co-captain Bob Fischer for a first down on the four and from there Shonosky carried it over. The PAT attempt by Buffamoyer was low.

The last touchdown of the evening came in the latter portion of the closing chapter. A lamentable visiting kick got as far as the LVC 45 and from here the Dutchmen were in business again. Dankowski was in the drivers seat now and Danny passed to Joe Oxley for a first down on the Mount 26. From this point Dankowski went into that awe-inspiring run of his which took the spectators right out of their seats as he eluded a gang of would be grapplers and reversed his running to the opposite of the field until he was downed by stumbling on the nine. An offside penalty moved the pigskin to the four and Giordano carried to the one. Dankowski starred again as he hit the center of the line, suprising the opponent as he raced around the left end instead, for the last TD of the night. Tom Quinn, who presented the fans with quite a kicking toe, booted the extra point and that was the game at 39-0.

Cynthia Johnson Reigns as 1950 L. V. C. Homecoming Queen Highlights Program for College Pennsylvania Week Celebration

College Confers Honorary LL.D. Degree On Charles K. Davis

Miss Cynthia Johnson was elected Lebanon Valley College Queen of Pennsylvania Week as part of the college's observance of the state wide festivities. In this capacity Miss Johnson was with the group that met the Pennsylvania Week train that came into Lebanon, October 16 at 8:45 A. M. and was interviewed along with the celebrities, such as Alexis Smith, who came for the various Pennsylvania Week ceremonies. Later at 11:00 A. M., Miss Johnson was interviewed over the Lebanon Station, WLBR.

Miss Johnson, a senior majoring in English with a minor in sociology, hopes to do social work for the state when she has finished college. As a hobby, she devotes most of her spare time to painting but does not care much for modern art.

She was a student at John Harris High School of Harrisburg for two years and was graduated from Linden Hall Academy in Lititz with an Honor Society award in 1947. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin K. Johnson, 1711 Wayne Street, Harrisburg.

Highlighting and continuing its Pennsylvania Week program, Lebanon Valley College conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws upon Charles Krum Davis, president and general manager of Remington Arms Co., Inc., Monday morning, October 16, in exercises held in Engle Hall.

Mr. Davis, a native of Lebanon, Pa., and now living in Fairfield, Conn., began his business career as a chemist with the Aluminum Co. of America in 1905. He first started to work for the DuPont Co. in 1915 as a supervisor in the Gun Cotton Division. He was elected president and general manager of the Remington Arms Co. in 1933.

During World War II the Remington Arms Co., under the direction of Mr. Davis, tremendously expanded its plant and personnel, and produced 16,500,000 cartridges and over one million Springfield rifles for the government. For his outstanding work during the war, Mr. Davis was awarded a Certificate of Commendation from the U. S. Ordnance Department, a Certificate of Appreciation from the U. S. War Department, and the Rise Gold Medal by the Army Ordnance Association for distinguished service in ordnance engineering.

Mr. Davis is a director of the Bridgeport Hospital and a director of the First National Bank and Trust Co., Bridgeport, Conn. He is a founder, member, and trustee of the American Wildlife Foundation, a fellow in perpetuity of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, and a life member of the University of Illinois Alumni Association.

The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon Mr. Davis at a special

Tug-of-War, Game, Show, and "L" Dance Fill Weekend Calendar

Miss Cynthia Johnson, also named Pennsylvania Week Queen on the campus, will reign over the varied Homecoming events to be held this weekend as the Homecoming Queen of Lebanon Valley College. As the beautiful monarch of the day Miss Johnson will figure in the half time ceremonies at the important football game between Albright and Lebanon Valley which will be held at 2:00 P. M. on Saturday afternoon in the Lebanon High School Stadium. Miss Johnson will also preside over the annual L-Club Dance to be held the same evening in the Annville High School Gymnasium.

Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Witmer, a junior, was selected Maid-of-Honor to Queen Cynthia as part of the program for Homecoming. Miss Witmer is a music major and very active in the Conservatory. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Witmer of 100 Linn Street, Harrisburg.

Homecoming festivities will get off to a flying start on Thursday morning when the Lebanon Valley student body will honor the football team with a pep rally in front of North Hall. Saturday, however, will be the big day of the weekend.

At 9:00 A. M. the annual Freshman-Sophomore tug of war will take place on the banks of the Quittapahilla. Like the Quittapahilla, this event is a tradition at Lebanon Valley and should the freshmen win they will not be required to violate certain frosh rules such as wearing dink and tie, carrying matches and other such incidents. Last year the freshman won the tug and these Frosh are this year's sophs, so a tough battle can be expected. The event is won on a two out of three basis with teams alternating banks.

From 10 to 12 A.M. tickets for the Albright game will go on sale in the office of the Director of Athletics. The tickets are $1.00 for adults and $.50 for students. Lebanon Valley students will be admitted upon presenting their student activity tickets. The fall meeting of the College Board of Trustees will be held at 10:30 A. M. with Dr. E. N. Funkhouser presiding. Also at this time the powerful Lebanon Valley Girl's Field Hockey team will engage the Lionesses of Albright in a match on the new hockey field. The Alumni Luncheon will be held in North Hall 12:30 P. M. and this is free to all Alumni.

For many the most important item on the day's agenda occurs in the Lebanon Stadium when the Flying Dutchmen take on their time-honored rivals, the Albright Red Lions. In the past these games have always proved excellent to view and this year should be no exception, taking cognizance of the fact that both squads are rather evenly matched. Following the game dinner will be served in the dining hall at 6:00 P. M. and the charge will be $.50 for the Alumni.

This year, as usual, Wig and Buckle

Vocations Stressed By Special Speakers

Dr. J. Bruce Behney, Professor of Philosophy and Theology at Bonebrake Seminary, and Dr. J. Allen Ranck, Director of Young People's Work of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, were guest speakers at Christian Vocation Week at Lebanon Valley College, October 22-24.

Dr. Ranck spoke at the Salem Evangelical United Brethren Church in Lebanon Sunday. Dr. Behney and Dr. Ranck addressed the Evangelical United Brethren Ministerial Association of Lebanon County, Monday, 2:00 P. M., in the college church at Annville.

Rev. Eugene Wenger, 36 College Avenue, Annville, represented the Evangelical United Brethren Board of Missions at the meetings during Christian Vocation Week at the college.

The entire team spent most of their time in personal interviews of students.

The first special EUB student program, a banquet in the College Church, Social Room, was also a feature of this

Miss Gillespie to Be Guest At Columbia

Miss Mary E. Gillespie, Dean of Lebanon Valley College Conservatory, will be on hand to take part in a program at Columbia University on November 9 and 10.

It is a policy of this university to invite a few of its graduates back each year to take part in an educational program. The graduates select subjects which they would like to discuss, and from that list the program is planned. These returning graduates are guests at Columbia University, and this year Miss Gillespie will return in that capacity.

Five Attend Meeting On Government

Representatives from the Lebanon Valley Political Science Club attended an Executive Committee meeting of the Inter-Collegiate Conference on Government, Sunday, October 22, in Harrisburg. Mrs. Maud P. Laughlin, adviser to the campus political society, Mr. Jay Flocken, Chairman of the Lebanon Valley Delegation to ICG, voting members of the Executive Committee, Mr. Bob Moller, President pro tem of the Political Science Club, Miss Evelyn Toser, vice-president of the club, and Mr. Marvin Wolfgang, adviser, were present in behalf of Lebanon Valley College.

Miss Genevieve Blatt, Executive-Director of the Inter-Collegiate Conference, presided at the meeting. A decision by the Committee designates that the conference this year will take the form of a United States unicameral legislature, and will be in session from April 12 to April 15.

Mrs. Alexander, Dickinson College of the Central Region, was elected Publicity Director for the 1951 edition of ICG. Assignments of chairmanships to the committees of the unicameral legislature

We're Sorry But . . .

La Vie is faced with a financial problem. We are allotted two dollars per student from the Activity Fund for the publication of this paper. With a student enrollment that is considerably reduced over that of last year, our position becomes more critical. Printing costs have soared to greatly increased. As our allotment amount remains constant and printing costs increase, the logical answer seems to be to cut down in the number of issues. We do not like this idea anymore than you do, but it seems to be the only answer to the problem. Under the revised publication schedule we are planning to give you an issue every other week, except during vacation and examination periods. This will mean less issues, but we are restoring the five column larger size paper in an effort to give you a bigger and better La Vie. We sincerely hope that you can understand our position.

The Editors

The Unsung Workers of the Campus, our Cheerleaders!

Do we realize how many hours these students spend preparing for our games? Rain or shine we casually accept them along the side lines to urge us on, win or lose. We expect a Pep Rally and rightly so, but do we stop to think who are the ones that promote the idea? Check our cheerleaders with those of our opponents. I'll take ours any time! Wouldn't you?

This fall they organized the Hollering Hundred. Our last home game showed a more responsive cheering section. Thanks, student body! Let's make it the Forceful Five Hundred! Let's get behind our teams with the Cheerleaders and give our teams the cheering they deserve.

How are our cheerleaders chosen? Do you know? — Their Constitution sets up the stipulation that vacancies made by graduating seniors are to be filled by incoming Frosh. Those remaining on the squad observe all Frosh "trying out". A vote brings in the new members. Their laws also make it a requisite to attend all practices and home games. Members of the squad are: Dick Moore, head cheerleader and senior, Jeanne Hutchinson, junior, Lee Whiteman and Johnnie Walter, sophomore, Fran Shroyer and Darlene Moyer, freshmen.

When you see the Blue and White Cheerleaders with their megaphones piling out of Jackie Smith's green Ford, you'll know the squad is present again to help energize our teams to victory — How about getting hoarse with them!

DEAN A. H. M. STONECIPHER

By Phil Hayes

Dean Stonecipher has been chosen from the members of the faculty and administrative officers of Lebanon Valley as the second in a series of "PROF-ILES" to be presented by LA VIE.

As Dean of the College, his duties are mainly academic, being related to both faculty and students. He advises students in regard to their curricular problems, such as choice of courses, student loads, and offers assistance to those who fall behind in their work. He is also responsible for curriculum planning and revision. Another duty, particularly important to so many of the young male students, is his acting as a go-between for students and their respective draft boards.

Born in the state of Indiana, and reared in western Tennessee, Dean Stonecipher graduated from Vanderbilt University in 1913 and received the Bachelor of Arts Degree. He received his Master of Arts Degree from that institution in 1914, and his Ph.D. in 1918. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, National Honorary Society. Dean Stonecipher also attended George Peabody College for Teachers at Nashville, Tennessee, while working on his requirements for his Ph.D. His graduate work was done in Greek and Indo-Iranian Philology with a minor in Latin and German. His thesis, titled "Graeco-Persian Names," was published as a part of the Vanderbilt University oriental series.

After coming to Lebanon Valley in 1932 as a Professor of Latin, he was appointed Dean of the College in 1936. As Latin is no longer on the curriculum of this college, the Dean instructs classes in Ancient European History and Scientific German.

Through his untiring efforts to pave the highway to higher education, thru his conscientious decisions and unselfish support, he has won the respect and good will of everyone. As an adviser, as an educator and friend, Dean Stonecipher has proved to be more than Dean of the College.

To the Class of '52

I want to take this time to thank all those, in and out of the Junior Class, for the splendid job they did in presenting The Junior Variety Show. Those of you who were in it gave us your whole hearted cooperation, some of the rest of you were not interested enough to even support it. Our Class numbers approximately 144. Compare this to the 25 or so members participating in Friday's program and you can see the cause of this letter.

The program was the work of a few. As it was, it was a success, but if we had had more cooperation from you, we could really have had something terrific. We need more class spirit, it's your class as well as the class of the few.

How can you help? This is easy: (1) come to class meetings the first Thursday of the month in Philo Hall, (2) participate in our activities, (3) and pay your Class dues. Be an Active Junior

Sincerely,
 Ed Tesnar, Class President

convocation of the student body of Lebanon Valley College, with Dean Stonecipher presiding. The program included a statement on Pennsylvania Week by the Dean, followed by the presentation of the candidate for the degree by William H. Worrlow, trustee of the college and president of the Lebanon Steel Foundry. Dr. Frederic K. Miller, acting president of the college, conferred the degree, followed by remarks by the recipient, Mr. Davis. A wire recording of the exercises was made by WLBR for broadcast later in the day.

After the exercises at Lebanon Valley College, Mr. Davis attended a special luncheon at the Hotel Hershey.

Mr. Davis stayed with his aunt, Mrs. Adda Light, 839 Cumberland Street, while he was in Lebanon.

EXCHANGE NOTES

Clerk—Yes, sir, that medicine sure is powerful. Best stuff we have for the liver. Makes you peppy.

Customer—Well, can you give me any specific reference? I mean a person who has taken said medicine with good results?

Clerk—Well, there was a man living next to us who took this liver medicine for years.

Customer—Well, does it help him?

Clerk—He died last week.

Customer—Oh, I see.

Clerk—But they had to beat his liver with a stick for three days after he died before they could kill it.

Daughter (admiring a set of mink skins from father)—"I can hardly realize that these beautiful furs came from such a small, sneaking beast."

Father—"I don't ask for thanks, my dear, but I must insist on respect."

The doctor came out of the bedroom to the anxious wife. "Frankly," he said, "I don't like the way your husband looks at all."

"I don't either, Doc," the wife replied, "but he's nice to the kids."

The barber had cut him, nicked him, and gashed him. "Give me a glass of water, please," gasped the victim.

"You aren't going to faint, I hope?" asked the barber in alarm.

"No," replied the victim. "I just want to see if my mouth still holds water."

A Scotchman had been keeping vigil at the bedside of his dying wife for several days. One evening he said, "Mary, I must go out on business, but I will hurry back. Should you feel yourself slipping away while I'm gone, please blow out the candle."

The old fashioned girl darned her husband's sox. Her daughter sox her darned husband.

STUDY

I pick up my book and read Chapter 9. I think I know it, I'm feeling fine. I go to class and try my best, But still I flunk. Wow! What a test.

Who was Nero? False or true.

I missed that one, so would you.

"What's Caesar's position?" one Prof said.

I answered "Prone, remember he's dead."

I'll try again next week,

We start Chapter 10.

I've got to do better,

Or I'm through. Amen!

Barefoot all over,

He runs like the breeze.

He has to do something,

Or else he'll freeze.

Ramblin' With Woods

Heap Big News!

"Will the freshmen wear dinks next week?" The answer will come this Saturday morning when the freshmen meet the sophomores in the Annual Tug-of-War over the "Quittie." The Sophomore class had its team organized in the first week of school. They have been in training since. The total weight of the Sophomore team is 1800 pounds. The freshmen team was just organized last week under the direction of the newly elected class officers. Come out early and see all the fun.... The really big news of the week is concerned with the Annual Homecoming. Cynthia Johnson, a pretty lass of '51 class, was chosen Miss Lebanon Valley for Pennsylvania Week. She will preside at the festivities for Home Coming. Dotty Witmer who was runner up will also be present for the "big doings." One of the big events will be the classic game between LVC and Albright. Everyone is looking forward to one of the best games of the year... The two one act-plays to be presented Saturday Night are really "shaping up." A lot of new talent will make debuts on the L. V. stage that night. Bob Kreig and George Curfman are appearing in both plays.

This and That

Last week was the big week for the freshmen-contests, "give away," decorated jalopies and banners were the high lights of the "hot" freshmen presidential campaign... Congratulations to New Officers - Louis Sorrentino (No. 21), president, won the election by a land slide, Cal Haverstock is the new vice-president, Gail Edgar (the girl with the "eyes") for secretary and Jack Ervin will handle the "purse strings" for '54 class... Bob Glock is now "employed" at "Hot Dog Franks"... Hear that Dean Cooper is becoming attached to that little dog of hers... What some girls won't do for football players! "Sonny" (Miss Jiggerboard of 1950) of Bardwell is now opening doors for all football players... Did you write a letter this week? This is National Letter writing week. One fellow in the dorm wrote eight letters in one day. I understand he did not send them all to one girl, though. Ever listen to the radio on Saturday mornings? LA VIE is sponsoring a 15 minute broadcast every Saturday morning at 10:00 A.M. over WLBR. George DeLong and Bob Geyer have been commentators...

With the Sportsmen

For the height of embarrassment you should have seen the kisser of the character who was continually riding Ray Dankowski throughout the Moravian game... He nearly flipped out when he was informed that the lady seated directly behind him him was none other than Ray's mother... She came down to see Ray perform... and he certainly did... Understand the most popular boy in the men's dorm possess the initials C. B... What's this we hear about somebody dragging somebody into the new gym the other evening?... We're sure you won't obstruct the workmen as you viewed the interior during the day... Joe Hahn is the number one crystal gazer on campus as of last week's football weekend. Prof. McKlveen is slowly but surely gaining a Rep of telling the rarest stories on campus. His classes are either howling with laughter or deliberating on some complicated philosophy. Who knows maybe they'll be quoting Edwards or Shonosky in a few years instead of Froebel and Dewey.

Talent Talk

Talent, Talent, Talent. The juniors presented one of the best talent shows "to hit" L. V. Campus in many a "moon" last Friday nite. What a master of ceremonies Jim Zangrilli acted as M. C. and did a good routine on the origin of the rumba, conga, and jitterbug. Delores Zarger presented "I am Falling in Love with Somebody" and "A Song in My Heart." Red Strauss and his Corn Huskers gave out with some mountain music. Their imitation of Jack Haines was tops. But where was "Poison Ivy"? Jane Lutz brought forth the ever popular "Thinking of You" and "Nevertheless." Cooper Smith had quite a time putting out that fire. The Junior Class Trio sang "All The Things You Are." Tenor Gene Fisher gave his rendition of "the Desert Song" and "Give Me the Open Road." Just where did all those ahs and sighs come from? Maybe Sheriden Hall has formed a fan club. Armen Banklian (Mr. Belvedere) proved his acting ability again. His part as a local movie pest was good.

The surprise of the evening was Mardia Melroy's ditty of "Henry the Eighth." Last on the program was the chorus line finale... They weren't exactly the "Rockettes" but - not bad! Poor Ed Tesnar couldn't "get any" of Zangrilli jokes, and he's president of the class, too... Why do we have so many "GHEWS" on campus this year? You're missing lots of fun!

Dizzy Doings

Joanne Budd has the "cutting" fever. Beware. Just because she cuts everyone's hair in West Hall, she goes around everywhere on campus with a pair of scissors and raves, "I see an end!"... Dick Hawk's lullaby certainly affected the workmen last week. Anything for morale!... Lenny Casper studies so hard that the other night he tied a towel around his head so his brains wouldn't fly out. If that's his answer to being on the Dean's List, we're buying a share in Cannon Towels... Armen Banklian seems to be a one man health department. If you want to know what we mean, just ask the Pennway waitresses... Peg Bower read her poem on the stages of love to a group of students the other day in the ad building. Does the poem reflect the author's feelings?... See those Indians on campus last week? John Ford should hear about this... Those walking ham sandwiches were something! Where were the Astoria specials?... Those Kalo men on "Ladies Day" could have entered a beauty contest and walked away with the prizes... Philo pledges even went to see Gov. Duff... Remark of the week was heard at the Junior Class Dance on Friday night. Betty Cristwell inquired of Mel Hostetter, "How late can you stay out tonight?" Oh, brother!... I understand that that Bing's gold-fish makes too much noise in North Hall. It effects her room-mate's sleeping. What happens doing quiet hour?... Julie Thatcher got such a "kick" out of Zangrilli's joke about the wife's accident... that is after five minutes of trying to figure it all out.

Round About

These wonderful Sunday afternoons certainly do something to people. A certain blonde Spanish student (one o'clock section) spends Sunday afternoon watching TV instead of doing all those translations. Then there are those that head for the hills, including Bill and Joyce. Lucie Portier finds that riding in convertibles is "all right"... There's a new organization being formed on campus. It held its preliminary meeting last week. It is going to be an FTA chapter on campus... I dropped in on the rehearsals of Kind Lady, The Philo-Clio play to be presented on Nov. 17. Fay Hall has such a hard time remembering that she only has on I. Q. of 70. Gloria Dressler is even worse. She plays the part of Ada who has an I. Q. of 60. Looks as if Philo-Clio has a "hit" on their hands.

I predict...

a come-back of Woody Herman! Hear his recording of "Rhapsody in Wood"? a freshmen victory over the sophs. in the tug-of-war! that Wilson Shearer will make a "hurried" trip to Penn State soon! that Julie Thatcher will do wonders in Kind Lady that there will be more square dancing on the campus soon! that the A.B. affair (or was it the E.B.?) of North Hall will be solved within the next few weeks.

Political Science Club's New Members Number Forty-Seven

The Political Science Club began its year of activity October 5 in Washington Hall and was called to order by Robert Moller. Mr. Moller announced that Charles Reed, who was elected president last spring, had been called back to duty with the US Army. Mr. Moller, acting as President pro tempore, appointed Miss Evelyn Toser as vice pres. of the club. Miss Toser will become the president automatically when Bob graduates in mid-term. The president pro tem, speaking to the former members of the club, announced his plans and policies for the forthcoming year. He appointed Jay Flocken as Chairman of the Membership Committee.

Crowding into Room 212, former and prospective members of the Political Science Club looked about and said, "Where did they all come from?" Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party, must have been the thought of the day when the second meeting was called to order Thursday, October 19, at 4:00, by the president pro tem, for forty-seven students presented themselves as prospective members. They were greeted officially by Mr. Moller, who outlined for them the activities and purposes of the club. Stressing participation in annual Inter-Collegiate Conference on Government, Mr. Moller said, "Your copy of Robert's Rules of Order will be your Bible. Ability in parliamentary procedure is the means toward the end, the end being use of this ability in the sessions at ICG. But the club aims to develop this parliamentary ability in a surrounding of good fellowship and mutual growth." Continued Mr. Moller, "and frequent social meetings will be held to foster and promote such fellowship." He closed his opening remarks to the fledglings with an expression of hope that all those present would, by their presence at meetings and earnest labor, show the spirit and interest which has been manifest in the organization in the past, and develop into active participants, that is, become true "vultures."

Maud P. Laughlin, Keeper of the Flag, addressed the group on the history of the club flag, which is displayed at all meetings. In presenting this topic, she explained why the relic holds such a position of esteem and reverence in the opinion of club members.

Following an exhibition of parliamentary practices, which bordered on involving the whole group in an incendiary discussion of voting procedure, the club members briefly debated a constructive resolution concerning the physical facilities of the college.

After a Committee on Constitutional Revision received some pointed suggestions from the chair, the meeting was adjourned. Former members then held a caucus concerning the progress and sustenance of the membership drive.

Dr. Miller Speaks At Pa. Week Service

Dr. Frederic K. Miller, acting president of Lebanon Valley College and the president of the Lebanon County Historical Society, spoke on Pennsylvania Week at a union service of the churches of Shippensburg held in the Evangelical United Brethren Church, October 15.

This union service of the Shippensburg churches began a week of observation of Pennsylvania Week and Bi-Centennial of Cumberland County.

The theme of Dr. Miller's speech was "The Influence of Religion on the History of Pennsylvania."

Life Work Recruits Sponsor Activities

The Life Work Recruits started another full year with a "short" business meeting on October 4. Previously, a hike and picnic had been given to welcome all new members into the organization.

Planned events include talks on various subjects by noted speakers, deputations, visits to the Old People's Home at Avon and Children's Hospital at Elizabethtown and distribution of copies of the Upper Room to students. Dr. A. H. M. Stonecipher gave the first of the scheduled talks on "Worship" on October 17. He told about methods of public worship in the past and present.

The Life Work Recruits are also sponsoring a thirty minute service of meditation and inspiration at the college church every Thursday morning at 11:30. All students are invited to attend these services.

FIVE ATTEND MEETING

will be made by February 1, with the consent of the regional directors. February 1 was also made the deadline for schools in the State to pay their membership dues.

The Lebanon Valley representatives emerged from the three-hour long meeting a bit tired, but anxious for the hustle and bustle that accompanies preparations for and participation in the annual state-wide conference.

Lebanon Valley's Lou Sorrentino completed 4 passes against Muhlenberg this year, three of them scoring, for a total of 126 yards.

Chem Club Meets Plans Activities

The chemistry club held its first meeting of the year on Tuesday, October 10, 1950, at the home of Dr. Andrew Bender. The policies and future activities of the organization were discussed by the president, Robert Miller, after which the Faculty members of the department presented short talks on the following subjects: Professor George T. Kerr, "Tribulations of a New Faculty Member;" Mr. Lewis W. Bowman, "Membership in the A.C.S.;" Dr. Andrew Bender, "A.C.S. Accreditation of L.V.C.;" and Dr. Edward Neidig, "Research at L.V.C."

The meeting was concluded with the serving of refreshments.

Thirty-Five Pledges Initiated By Kalo

On last Thursday, Kalo held formal initiations for its thirty-five new members. The newly organized week and a half initiation period, planned and capained by Guy Euston as head of the committee on Initiations, was met with full approval by all members and will be used in all future inductions. It was the consensus that the more rigorous the initiation the more conscientious will the members be.

An innovation on this campus in regard to the four societies has been planned for the first of December. Two delegates from each society will meet in the near future to decide in what form the Social shall be.

It was also voted at that meeting that the Kalo Formal will be held in the New Brunswick Hotel Ballroom on March 3rd of next year.

Mr. Ben Jones, Professor of Piano in the Lebanon Valley College Conservatory of Music, will appear as guest soloist on the popular radio program, "Piano Playhouse," on Sunday, October 29, 1950, over the American Broadcasting Company.

Mr. Jones played a Town Hall recital in the year of his graduation from Juilliard, and has appeared in concert in a number of cities in the South and East, as well as piano soloist with various symphony orchestras. He was chosen to play the Rhapsody in Blue in a Gershwin Memorial Concert in New York, and to appear before a convention of the National Music Teachers Association in Washington, D. C.

Also a member of the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music, Mr. Jones divides his time between Juilliard and Lebanon Valley College. He has studied with Edwin Hughes, Carl Friedburg, Ernest Hutchinson, and the late Olga Samaroff.

L. V. C. Enlists In Crusade For Freedom

William A. Hays, Dean of Students at Lebanon Valley College, has announced the appointment of a student-faculty committee for the promotion of The Crusade for Freedom at Lebanon Valley College.

The Crusade for Freedom is a private organization of public-spirited citizens who have joined hands to fight the menace of communist aggression. It is headed by General Lucius D. Clay, and numbers as active members such American Leaders as Dwight D. Eisenhower, William Green, Cordell Hull, and Harold Stassen. It has the enthusiastic support of President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Miss Dunkle Resumes Work At Library

Miss Anna B. Dunkle, one of the librarians on this campus, attended the University of Wisconsin from September 1949, until August 1950, where she received her masters degree in English in June 1950.

During her stay there, Miss Dunkle acted as "House Fellow" in one of the dormitories. Miss Dunkle stated that she enjoyed this work and her stay at the University of Wisconsin very much.

The University of Wisconsin has one of the finest and largest student unions in the country. The Wisconsin players put on many interesting plays for the enjoyment of the students.

During the winter, Miss Dunkle had a part time job on a German Magazine

Professor Ehrhart Leads Discussion

Carl Y. Ehrhart, professor of philosophy at Lebanon Valley College, led the Great Books discussion, October 19, at 4:00 P. M., in the Annville Public Library.

The book under discussion was Friedrich Nietzsche's Beyond Good and Evil. The discussion was open to the general public.

Students Attend SCA Conference At Downingtown

Joyce Hammock, Sara Latsha, Maxine Garvin, Glenn Dietrich, and Martin Trostle represented the S.C.A. at the Fall Area Conference of Areas I and II of the Student Christian Movement of the Middle Atlantic Region of which our SCA is a part. This intercollegiate conference was held at Camp Hilltop, Downingtown, Pa., October 6-8. The conference was attended by more than fifty students representing fifteen colleges throughout Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The theme, "What Does God Require of Us in the University?" was excellently presented by the Rev. Mr. Ernest A. deBordenave, rector of Christ Church in Phila. Discussion groups, seminars, recreation, worship, and the opportunity to make new friends and to renew the old friendships made it an outstanding weekend.

During the past summer, other students attended numerous intercollegiate conferences in relation to the S.C.A. Joyce Hammock, Diane Randolph, William Miller, and Martin Trostle attended Camp Micheaux for a Leadership Camp during the beginning of June for a week. Martin Trostle also attended S.C.A. Leadership School at Union Theological Seminary during July and August, and later attended the National Intercollegiate Christian Council Convention at Earlham College in Richmond, Indiana, during the last week in August.

Dr. Maynard Sparks has completed a series of three Bible Studies at the Wednesday evening Fellowship Hour of the S.C.A. During these studies the attendance averaged 75.

An S.C.A. Choir has been organized under the direction of Dolores Zarker, Music Chairman. Forty-eight attended the first rehearsal, and it is open to all those interested in singing.

called Monatshefte.

Miss Dunkle plans to go back to the University of Wisconsin again next summer to resume her studies.

Phi Lambda Sigma Announces Plans

Now that rush week is past and initiation is over, the societies on campus are entering upon the year's activities with full force, Phi Lambda Sigma being no exception. Its ranks increased by sixteen worthy new members, following both a physical and formal initiation, Philo is ready to carry on a program, unprecedented in recent years. Particularly encouraging to the society is the unusual willingness on the part of members to volunteer service and take an active part in various functions. This kind of spirit, if at all indicative of future events, will certainly set the pattern for other campus societies and will bring success in all of Philo's endeavors.

The first major society event this fall will be the Philo-Clio play, Kind Lady, starring Julia Thatcher and Charles Kagey, to be presented on Friday evening, November 17th. As an opener for the 1950-51 season, Philo-Clio couldn't have chosen a more appropriate drama, since it is something new and different in the way of plays at Lebanon Valley. Under the able direction of Professor Gilbert McKlveen, Kind Lady should take the campus by storm.

On the following evening, November 18th, Philo-Clio will again serve as host and provide the entertainment. Definite plans are now being drawn. This time, however, there will be bigger and better arrangements to accommodate everyone who attends.

Party Politics Fail As Freshmen Split Ticket

The freshman class of Lebanon Valley College has announced the election of its class officers.

Lou Sorrentino, varsity quarterback for the Dutchmen, was elected class president. Calvin B. Haverstock, a pre-ministerial student from Lemoyne, was chosen for vice-president, with Gail Edgar of Bethlehem as secretary and John T. Ervin of Hagerstown, Maryland, as the treasurer.

Campus Chest Drive To Open On Oct. 18

The Campus Chest Drive will open October 31 and will continue until the beginning of Thanksgiving Vacation on November 22. The Campus Chest, under the direction of the Student Christian Association, will be a newcomer to L.V. C. campus this year. The numerous drives held in past years for various worthy causes will be unified into one main drive. The funds contributed will be distributed among organizations and agencies such as the World Student Service Fund, the Red Cross, the Heart Fund, the Salvation Army, our own D.P. fund, and for the support of a missionary student here on our campus next year.

The Campus Chest Committee, which is headed by Earl Redding and "Peg" Bower, has set as the goal one dollar per student per semester. Pledge cards will be made available to all students in chapel on October 31, and will be contacted in the future in reference to their contribution by a member of the 60-member contact committee.

"This is Their Story," a movie produced by UNESCO in cooperation with the World Student Service Fund, was shown Wednesday evening at Fellowship Hour to provide some of the background information as to why it is important to give to student relief. The County Fair, to be held November 3, will be another means of raising funds for the Campus Chest.

The support of every student at LVC is asked in reaching the goal of $1,000. This is an opportunity to aid those who ask for help.

Philo-Clio Attempts Serious Drama In New Play

In choosing Kind Lady as their play for this season, the Philo-Clio societies have switched from the comedy of last year's "Hay Fever" to drama. The director, Professor McKlveen, who also coached "Hay Fever," states, "Having had a limited experience, mostly with comedies, it is difficult to indicate one's reaction in working with a play of such an unusual nature as the play Kind Lady. Our reactions can possibly be best measured when the final curtain rings down." Continuing with the discussion of the play, he described it as "a drama of an entirely different nature—the play if correctly interpreted—creates a high moment of suspense, building up thru the play and climaxing at its conclusion." the play and climaxing at its conclusion..

Professor McKlveen believes that the play is well cast and feels that the cast is putting forth an effort to produce something of which the Philo-Clio societies will be justly proud.

Julia Thatcher, who portrays the title role of Kind Lady, or Mary Herries, expressed sincere enthusiasm about both the play, Kind Lady, and her role. She further states, "I think the change from comedy to drama is a refreshing one and that the play chosen gives the cast an excellent opportunity to use their acting ability."

Miss Thatcher chooses the prologue and the epilogue as her favorite scenes.

Miss Thatcher appeared last year in the Wig and Buckle presentation of Noel Coward's Blithe Spirit, in which she played the part of Elvira, the first wife.

Charles Kagey, president of the Sophomore class, portrays Henry Abbott in this production. Mr. Kagey's only comment concerning the play was, "It's going to be good because it's entirely different from anything given on the Lebanon the Wig and Buckle production of "The Valley stage recently." He appeared in Hasty Heart in the character role of the doctor. Previous to this he has been connected with the U. S. O. productions and has directed plays in his neighborhood in Washington, D. C. He enjoys his role as Henry Abbott because it gives him the opportunity for character acting.

Florence Dunkelberger, who plays the part of Lucy Weston, is also enthusiastic about the play, Kind Lady. Although her personal preferences tend toward comedy, Miss Dunkelberger states, "I believe Kind Lady is a wonderful play and will be one of the hits of the Lebanon Valley campus."

Club will take an active part in Homecoming exercises by presenting two one-act plays on Saturday night in Engle Hall. One of the plays is a modern work entitled Fantasy on an Empty Stage. The cast for this consists of Geraldine Nichols, John Mohan, Robert Zimmerman, George Curfman, John Heck, and Robert Krieg. The other play is an old-fashioned melodrama, villain included, entitled Saved From the Fate of Her Sister. The thespians for this dramatic venture include Francene Moyer, and Robert Zimmerman. The directors of these plays are Julia Thatcher and Lois Adams.

The evening will be climaxed with the Annual Homecoming Dance sponsored by the L-Club in the High School Gym. Guy Euston is chairman of this affair. Tickets may be purchased from any L-Club member at $.75 per or $1.50 a couple. All will dance to the melodious strains of the Musical Knights.

In addition open house will be held in the dormitories from 2 on till 5 P. M.

In 1939, Ed Kress, Lebanon Valley back, gained 185 yards from scrimmage against Juniata.

Miller, Donmoyer Attend Conferences

Claude R. Donmoyer, Business Manager and Secretary of the Finance Committee of Lebanon Valley College, represented the college at the conference of the American Council of Education held in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building at Washington, D. C., October 6 and 7.

This American Council of Education meeting on Higher Education in the National Service considered the role of the colleges and universities of America in this period of crisis and national defense. More than 700 colleges and universities were represented at the conference.

Dr. Frederic K. Miller, acting president of Lebanon Valley College, and Mr. Claude Donmoyer, business manager of the College, represented the College at the meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities held in Hershey, Pennsylvania, October 16 and 17.

Dick Fox, line coach at Lebanon Valley College, played end under 3 coaches in 3 years at Temple.

Valley Gridders Seek 4th Straight Win Of Campaign

Dankowski Romps 93 Yds. In 14-8 Moravian Triumph

Fischer Scores On Sorrentino Aerial

Two amazing touchdown performances saved Lebanon Valley from suffering a defeat at the hands of a more potent than expected pack of Moravian College Greyhounds on Saturday afternoon at Moravian Field in Bethlehem. The Flying Dutchmen outlasted the home squad 14-8 in their second visit to the Lehigh Valley this season. Although the Blue and White won by a margin of one touchdown, they did not possess the spirit and finesse which gave them their triumph over highly regarded Muhlenberg. It seemed to be a different team out there on Moravian Field and had the Valley been unable to pull itself together eventually, Moravian's vision of a 15-14 triumph for themselves could have been a reality. The Valleyites were definitely on the sluggish side and didn't flash that zip and go against an opponent which had lost to Albright, Hofstra, and Upsala. We must admit that for awhile we thought that Lehigh wasn't the only Bethlehem team pulling a stunning upset on Saturday.

Coach Ralph Ricker's charges opened the scoring mid-way in the first period with a pass play that left the spectators gaping with astonishment upon its completion. Freshman quarterback Lou Sorrentino faded back to his own 33-yard line and let go with a 32-yard heave which was spectacularly hauled down by co-captain Bob Fischer amidst several Moravian safety-men. Fischer kept his legs churning right into the end zone and the Valley had a 7-0 lead upon Tom Quinn's successful booting of the bonus marker.

Moravian's Greyhounds retaliated in the same period with a sustained 68-yard drive that ended in a touchdown on a ten yard pass from Don Deibert to Joe Gerenscer. Gerenscer, who was one of the better Moravian backs, missed the extra point as it was kicked wide of the uprights.

Tom Quinn set up what possibly could have been a LV touchdown late in the second period when he recovered a Moravian fumble on the Greyhound 35-yard line. Sorrentino attempted the air waves again and when he couldn't sight a possible receiver, tore around end for twenty yards to the homester's 15. Walt Shonosky, who played a fine game at fullback all afternoon, carried to the 7 on two plays and it looked as though the Valley would push across a six-pointer. Moravian's line however, had different ideas and the hefty Greyhounds proved stubborn enough to gain possession of the oval on downs on their own 4.

"DEN DERE'S DANKOWSKI'S DART"

The third quarter saw both teams mess up when in scoring position and this factor set the stage for Lebanon Valley's winning touchdown. The Greyhounds drove into Valley territory and attempted to score via the ozone route. Their first aerial disastrously backfired as Ray Dankowski, playing defensive quarterback, intercepted the floating sphere on his own 7. Moravian's Greyhound mascot, Ogo II, had very little on Danny at this point of the game, as Ray nearly sent the Valley stands into a riot by racing 93 yards down the green through the entire Greyhound team for a touchdown with the help of some excellent blocking; reminding Valley faithful of Hank DiJohnson's 102-yard gallop against the same school last year. Tom Quinn, the sensational West Virginian who played his usual wonderful game, accounted for the extra point with a place kick.

Moravian threatened again and was on the Lebanon 15 before Joe Ferrer, Valley guard, pounced on Deibert's fumble to quell the threat. The Greyhounds however, were not to be denied a couple of points as they picked up a safety when Sorrentino attempted to punt the LV eleven out of a predicament deep in Dutchman territory. With the pass from center high, Carl Case, Moravian end, found ample time to break in and block the kick. The ball flew out of the end zone and that ended scoring for the day.

Guard Ed Tesnar set the Flying Dutchmen in another scoring position when he beautifully intercepted a Moravian pass with a one-hand grab for the porkhike on the Greyhound 34. Dale Shellenberger, who had a tough time breaking loose during the day, along with Shonosky, alternated on pitch-outs to move the ball to the 2 where the game ended as Walt was brought down on the last play after attempting a sweep of left end.

In conclusion, the play of the Dutchmen made the Moravian aggregation look better and one glance at the statistics will prove what a difficult time the Dutchmen had in subduing the Greyhounds. The contest saw Moravian suffer its fourth straight loss.

Hockey Team Hands Moravian 3-0 Defeat

Lebanon Valley College women's field hockey team defeated Moravian College 3-0 at Bethlehem, Saturday, October 7.

Ruth Shumate put the Valley girls ahead 1-0 with a goal in the last minute of the first half. Goals by Jeanne Hutchinson and Rosie Hollinger in the second half put the game on ice for Coach Jackie Smith's Dutchgirls.

Hockey Team Records Third Victory By 5-0 Blanking Penn Hall

The Lebanon Valley College girls' hockey eleven took an easy win Saturday afternoon when they outscored Penn Hall on the latter's home field. The Valley chalked up their third straight victory of the season with a 5-0 score.

The opening minutes saw coach Jackie Smith's Dutch girls drive down the field taking the Penn Hall girls off guard. In the second minute of the game Jeanne Hutchinson, center forward, pushed a hard hit into the goal, opening the Valley's scoring spree. Mickey Begg, center forward, picked up a hard hit from Peg Bower, fullback, and on a surprise dribble put the ball across the line to bring the score to 2-0. Continuing the Valley's offensive playing, Jean Garverich, inner, chalked up the third goal. With a few minutes to play in the first half, Jeanne Hutchinson scored again to make the total of four Valley goals.

In the second half the Dutchgirls again broke through the Penn Hall's defense when Helen MacFarland, inner, chalked up the last Valley tally.

To date, this season, the Dutchgirls have kept their opponents scoreless, but have come through with a total of 9 tallies on their side of the score board.

On Saturday morning, Coach Jackie Smith's girls welcome back the Alumni on the annual homecoming day when at 10 o'clock they cross sticks with Albright College on the Valley's field.

Flying Dutchmen Face Rival Albright At Lebanon

One of the oldest collegiate football rivalries in Pennsylvania will be renewed in Lebanon Stadium on Saturday afternoon at 2:00 P. M. when Albright College's gridiron forces invade the premises to engage Coach Ralph Ricker's Flying Dutchmen in the thirtieth fray of the series which began back in 1890 when Lebanon Valley won the first contest between the two schools, 10-3. Albright did not victimize the Dutchmen until 1913 when they succeeded in downing the Blue and White 20-7 and wasn't triumphant again until 1929 when they began a four year victory skein over the Annville collegians. The largest margin of victory registered in this rivalry was marked up in 1919 when the Dutchmen ripped the Lions 48-0. This also marked the highest total of points scored by either team besides the 41-0 job LV turned in in 1925 and the 40-20 conquest the Red Lions made in 1939. Albright will have added incentive to win on Saturday afternoon for not only are the Roaring Lions out to avenge the 26-13 tail-twisting they were administered by the Blue and White last year but will also attempt to cut down the victory bulge the Lebanon Valley squads have amassed over them in the series. Lebanon Valley leads in the standings, having won 15 times while Albright has won 12. Two games ended in 6-6 stalemates.

Not only will they strive to accomplish the above mentioned but the visitors will also be looking for their third victory of the current campaign. Thus far the boys of Coach Eddie Gulian have defeated Moravian 20-12 and ran roughshod over Adelphi 45-6. Their losses were inflicted by a superior Temple pigskin array 32-6; the Cadets of Pennsylvania Military College, 12-7; and last Saturday Franklin & Marshall capitalized on two Lion fumbles for a 14-0 win. Common opponents therefore have been Moravian and F&M with the comparative results presenting the picture that both teams are rather equally matched. Valley dropped the Greyhounds 14-8 and lost to the Diplomats 13-7, however the Dutchman upset of Muhlenberg and the fact that they have recorded three straight victories should install them as slight favorites over their ancient rivals. In a rivalry such as this however, what good are comparative scores. Last year for example, Gettysburg shot the Dutchmen 33-14 while Albright held the former at 13-13. Lincoln on the other hand nipped the Lions 14-12 and when said Lincoln came to Lebanon, Andy Kerr's eleven all but ran them out of the stadium 49-0. In the final analysis the Dutchmen did beat the Lions. Therefore, look for a rough and tough battle on Saturday afternoon with plenty of spirit and pigskin pyrotechnics.

GULIAN LION COACH

The guiding light, so to speak, of the Albright crew is Head Coach Edward A. Gulian who is at the helm of the Red and White for the second year. Prior to taking over the coaching reins of the Roaring Lions, Gulian was on the coaching family at Lafayette College. A graduate of Norristown High School, he received his B. S. degree at Gettysburg College where for three successive seasons he won varsity letters in football, basketball, and baseball, serving as captain of the Bullets' gridiron team in 1930. He began his coaching career at Phoenixville and Ashland High Schools during which time he also earned his masters degree in physical education at Columbia University. In 1934 he entered the college mentoring business at near-by Shippensburg State Teachers College where he remained for eight years. During World War II, he accepted a naval commission and spent 35 months in the service as a physical education instructor being assigned variously to the University of North Carolina, the University of Georgia, Great Lakes and San Francisco. In his first campaign at Albright, Eddie won 2, lost 6, and tied 1.

A newcomer to the staff is Rober Hicks who graduated from Penn State last February where he played three years of varsity football and co-captained the 1949 grid team. Hicks replaces Lloyd Parsons who is on duty with the Navy. To round out the coaching squad is Harold Yentsch, an ex-Lion who is back with his Alma Mater coaching the guards and tackles.

Saturday's game will have both teams employing the platoon system. Despite the three reverses, Coach Gulian has been pleased with the play of the offensive unit. Gulian also plans a brush up on his pass defense for he expects the Valley to fill the air with aerials come Saturday. As for individuals on the Albright squad, George Rankin a 205 pound fullback from Cranford, N. J. is particularly adept at smashing through opposing lines. John Sudol, another New Jersey product, from East Rutherford, is the long distance punter who put F&M back on its heels several times last Saturday.

As for the Flying Dutchmen, Coach Ricker is a little concerned with the passing attack of his LVC combine which did not function too well against an alert Moravian defense last week. Emphasis in practice this week has been on improving protection for the passer. Ricker is also striving to polish up the inside running game of the Dutchmen. Ricker will probably start the same teams with a few adjustments in the line a possibility. The 4-S backfield of Sample, Shellenberger, Shonosky and Sorrentino should be in readiness to wreak havoc on Albright in Saturday's crucial clash. The defensive backfield with Ray Dankowski and Dick Musselman as standouts proved itself time and again this season and should carry on on Saturday with the very helping hand of Ralph Giordano and Joe Oxley. The line has certainly played well this year with such standouts as Tom Quinn, Bob Palmer, Nick Bova, Frank De Angelis, Eddie Tesnar, Bob Gustin, Joe Ferrer, and last but not least, center co-captain Norm Lukens. As for the ends their actions speak as loud as the other positions with such valiants as co-captain Bob Fischer, Glenn Thomas, Barrett Oxley, Sherdell Snyder and Paul Edwards on hand. There are many more but these men are the mainstay which will pitch battle against Albright in the traditional game on Saturday afternoon. Be there to see them.

Ten L.V.C. Seniors Accepted On '50 Who's Who in Amer. Colleges

The following students were accepted from Lebanon Valley College this year for recognition in the 1950-51 Edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges: Margaret Bower, Ruth Ann Brown, Jay Flocken, Pierce Getz, Louise Light, Barbara Metzger, Robert Milel, Ann Shroyer, Martin Trostle, and Bruce Wiser.

This publication is the official annual directory of distinguished students selected from colleges and universities throughout America.

Recognition by Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges means that the student was, first, officially recommended from the university or college he attends and, then, accepted by the organization. Nominations may be submitted annually by four-year degree-granting institutions. College juniors, seniors and students enrolled in graduate courses are eligible for nomination. Selection of nominees is conducted by campus committees and usually involves student-faculty-administrative participation. Nominations must be signed by a member of the faculty or administration or by another staff member designated to verify nominations and related matters for the college. Methods and committee members remain anonymous unless released by local campus committees. Nominating committees are requested to consider the student's scholarship, his leadership and cooperation in education and extracurricular activities, his general citizenship, and his promise of future usefulness. There is no competition among the various institutions submitting nominations, as their curricula and extracurricular programs differ too greatly to permit accurate comparison; each institution participating is assigned a separate quota large enough to give a well-rounded representation of the student body, small enough to confine nominations to an exceptional group of students, and based upon current enrollment. Students who have been accepted for recognition are notified directly by Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges and are required to submit their own biographical material. The entire school year is required to compile and print the publication, each new edition usually being released during the following summer.

Each student who becomes a member receives, without cost: a certificate of recognition awarded by the organization and presented at the school; recognition in the annual publication for the year during which he was selected in the form of a writeup of his college and personal record and a listing in the Index under the college from which he was nominated; benefits of the Students Placement Service provided by the organization.

Harriman Attends Education Conference

Bryon Lynn Harriman, a member of the Department of Psychology and in charge of the testing program at Lebanon Valley College, attended the Fifteenth Education Conference.

The Conference, sponsored by the Educational Records Bureau and the American Council on Education, was held on October 26 and 27 at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York City.

The general theme was "The Improvement of Education with Special Reference to Measurement and Evaluation."

Speakers prominent in the fields of education and psychology addressed the convention delegates.

College FTA Chapter Organizes and Elects Officers

The Gossard Chapter of the Future Teachers of America of Lebanon Valley College held its first meeting Tuesday, November 7, at 8:30 P. M., in Washington Hall. Professor McKleeven, professor of education, is the adviser of this newly formed organization on campus.

The organization of the Future Teachers of America is based upon the executive council. This council consists of the officers of the club, a member at large, and the heads of the social, program, and publicity committees. The officers of the F.T.A. are: President, Fred Sample; Vice-President, Charles Swingholm; Corresponding Secretary, Ray Heverling; Recording Secretary, Elsie The member-at-large is Wilson Shearer and Nancy Myers, John Geisey, and Dale Shellenberger head the social, program and publicity committees respectively.

The executive council will meet Monday, November 20, at 7:30 P. M., at Professor McKleeven's home and the entire membership will meet December 5, at 7:30 P. M., in Washington Hall.

Pol. Science Club Appoints 1950 Committee Leaders

Meeting for the third time this semester on November 9, the Political Science Club set into motion the wheels that will carry it through much of the year of activities. President pro tem Robert Moller announced the appointment of Mickey Begg as Social Committee Chairman, and Jim Pacy, an associate editor of LA VIE, as Chairman of the Basketball Program Committee.

Mr. Guy Euston, treasurer of the club, announced that after a study conducted to learn the most advantageous meeting time, the regular meeting hour would be 4:00 P. M. in Room 212 every other Thursday in the month.

Miss Begg and her committee will begin plans immediately on the social and entertainment program of the club for this year. Miss Begg's committee is now planning a social event in the near future for club members.

Mr. Pacy assumes the chairmanship of the group which writes and edits the programs sold by the club at all home basketball games. His committee is also responsible for the lay-out of the attractive programs which have been so popular in past seasons.

In addition to naming these committees, Mr. Moller supplemented their membership by assigning members to advertising positions. Their role lies in collecting ads from local merchants who have so generously supported the publication of these athletic programs in recent years.

The club discussed in some detail a letter, submitted through a member, which suggested an impartial method of correcting tests by professors. After lengthy consideration, the proposed motion suggesting this method to the Student-Faculty Council for their action, was passed by a vive voce vote.

Mrs. Maud P. Laughlin, adviser to the club for the past two years, named Professor Marvin Wolfgang as the Official Keeper of the club's symbolic flag.

Miller Attends EUB Conference On Education In Dayton

When the General Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church meets in Dayton, Ohio, November 10-20, Frederic K. Miller, president of Lebanon Valley College, will give a report on the status of our college. This general convocation of the highest body of the denomination that supports the college will consider all matters of importance pertaining to educational institutions and give directives for future progress. This is the second General Conference since the formation of the Evangelical United Brethren Church in 1946.

Expecting a large influx of delegates and visitors, officials have engaged Memorial Hall in Dayton as Conference headquarters. Hundreds of visitors from across the continent and abroad will observe the business sessions and share in the inspirational services. Special rallies and Sunday services will be held in Dayton churches of our denomination. Delegates from all continents will represent their annual conferences to consider business matters.

Bishop A. R. Clippinger, D.D., LL.D., and Bishop J. S. Stamm, D.D., LL.D., LL.D., will retire from active service following General Conference. A dozen or more requests from annual conferences seeking union of the work in overlapping territory will require careful consideration. The present total of 51 conferences on this continent likely will be considerably reduced by mergers. This will make for larger annual conferences especially in the west.

One commission to report to General Conference is presently concluding work on a survey of our educational institutions. This report will cover the overlapping of territory for financial and student support, academic accreditation and other factual data to inform the General Conference. Another group, called the Committee on Survey and Trends, is seeking suggestions from the "grass roots" in the church for helpful procedures to effect a completely united church.

Since this is the Sesquicentennial year of the founding of the two denominations which now comprise the Evangelical United Brethren Church, there will be much historic emphasis in the sessions and exhibits. A competent committee on church history is preparing material and will present this matter suitably to the attention of the whole Church.

Executives, Wardens Elected By Delphian

At their last meeting on Thursday, November 9th, at 11 A. M., the Delphians elected their executive board. Senior members of the board are Jeanne Edwards and Joan Mattern. Juniors elected are Jo Ricedorf and Mickey Begg. The Sophs are represented by Lee Whiteman and the Forsh by Gail Edgar.

In addition, four freshmen were elected as wardens. They are Fran Shroyer, Jeanne Thrush, Jean Garverich and Rita Spencer. Joyce Hammock was chosen for pianist.

Plans are also being made for Kalo-Delphian weekend, and several committees have been appointed to work along with the Kalo on the annual affair.

Philo - Clio Presents Serious Drama For Annual Production in Engle Hall

Charles Kagey and Julia Thatcher Have Leads

Tomorrow evening, November 17th, at 8:15 P. M., in Engle Hall, the Clio-Philo societies will present their annual play under the direction of Professor McKleeven. Tickets are sixty cents and forty cents.

This year the play, KIND LADY, by Edward Chodorov has been selected. It was first presented by H. C. Potter and George Haight at the Booth Theatre in New York City, Tuesday evening, April 23, 1935. The play was staged by Mr. Potter and the setting was designed by Jo Mielziner. Since that first presentation, KIND LADY has been presented all over the country as well as on Broadway.

The cast is of fine quality, and they have been working hard on the play for several weeks. The cast is as follows:

Henry Abbott, a tall, handsome, self-confident man who emanates strength and charm, Charles Kagey; Mary Herries, a fine, gentle, sweet, but lovely and sensitive middle-aged old maid who is generous in spite of herself, Julia Thatcher; Mr. Foster, a small, but a typical bank clerk, Robert Feaster; Ada, Abbott's wife, Gloria Dressler; Mr. Edwards, Abbott's butler, Charles Williams; Mrs. Edwards, Abbott's maid, Fay Hall; Aggie Edwards, the Edwards' daughter, Francene Swope; Lucy Weston, a sister friend of Miss Herries, Florence Dunkelberger; Rose, Miss Herries' maid who becomes suspicious, Joanne Spangler; Phyllis Glanning, Miss Herries' niece, Lois Adams; Peter Sautanl, Miss Glanning's future husband, Allison Stella; Doctor, a member of the gang, Claude Seifrit; Gustar Rosenberg, an art dealer from Paris, brought here by Abbott to sell Miss Herries' paintings, Glenn Woods.

The play is divided into the following parts:

Prologue, An afternoon in spring; Act I, Scene I, Late Christmas Eve several years before; Scene II, After dinner the following January; Act II, An afternoon later in January; Act II, An afternoon the following summer; Epilogue.

The action of the play takes place in the living room of Miss Herrie's home in Montague Square, London.

Immediately following the performance the Clio-Philo societies will have a party in honor of the play cast in Philo Hall. However, this is for the Clio-Philo members and their friends only.

Elam Kurtz Attends Pre-Med Conference

Elam S. Kurtz, pre-med, represented Lebanon Valley at the first annual eastern Pennsylvania pre-medical conference held at LaSalle College on November 4. The conference was held and sponsored by Alpha Epsilon Delta, national honor pre-medical society. Founded at the University of Alabama on April 28, 1926, the Society has 56 chapters with about 8,800 members at schools throughout the United States. It is an affiliated society of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of the Association of College Honor Societies, and an affiliated member of the American Council on Education.

S.C.A. Sponsors Annual Fair; Campus Chest Will Receive All Funds

Buggie rides, an auction, fortune-telling, and many other events marked the annual County Fair held on Lebanon Valley's campus November 3. The mock fair is sponsored annually by the Student Christian Association. And each entertainment was sponsored by one of the organizations of the school.

The buggie rides, something new this year, proved very popular; and the horse and driver were kept busy driving over Annville's back streets. Another well-liked event was the auction of various articles donated by the college professors. Offers to buy a dinner for two proved most numerous, but there were also many kind of food and various other items for auction.

The fair-goer could also entertain himself by sending a telegram, having his fortune told, or being married and enjoying a honeymoon for the small price of five cents. He could pitch pennies, try his hand at basketball, go fishing for a surprise gift, shoot at a human target, or do some dart throwing.

Though a few fortunate individuals won valuable prizes, lollipops seemed to be the most popular award.

Biology Club Elects Officers and Board

The newly organized Biology Club of Lebanon Valley College elected its officers and board of directors for the coming year in the organizational meeting. The officers are as follows: Richard Bothwell, president; John Patterson, vice president; Florence Dunkelberger, treasurer; and Fay Hall, secretary. The board of directors, whose duty it will be to organize meetings, is composed of four members, who are Richard Huntzinger, Kieth Lebo, Donald McCurdy, and Betty Bakley.

Adviser to the club is Dr. Earl Light, head of the Biology department.

In its first meeting the club also discussed and passed on its constitution.

Kostruba Speaker At Harrisburg Meeting

Dr. Helene Kostruba, Professor of Russian at Lebanon Valley College was the principal speaker at the opening meeting of the Harrisburg Branch of the Foreign Policy Association, October 26, at the Harrisburger Hotel in Harrisburg.

Dr. Kostruba spoke on the contrasts between the Russian and American way of life and the attitude toward the "proletarian paradise" of the people behind the iron curtain and those who have escaped.

A Dream Come True

by Dean William Hays

For many years it has been my secret hope to become affiliated with a small college as Dean of Students. In joining the "Lebanon Valley College Family" this September I have come to a realization of this "dream." However, just as a house in itself is not a home, my position without the extremely wholesome cooperation of the students, faculty, and administration, which I am receiving would be quite empty and meaningless, and I find myself wanting for words to adequately express my appreciation.

The question, most logically posed at the introduction of a program such as we are initiating at Lebanon Valley College might be: (1) What are student personnel services? (2) What is the underlying philosophy of this program? (3) Who will benefit from these services? Space does not permit lengthy discourse, nor is it necessary, for a synopsis will serve to acquaint you with what we are hoping to do.

The student personnel movement, as such, has commanded the attention of educators to fulfill definite needs which the "Germanic-born intellectualism" has failed to do in producing nature "educated" college graduates.

Rather than view the student in an "intellectual vacuum" as has been somewhat traditional in our American colleges and universities, the student is now thought of as a responsible participant in his own development, and not as a passive recipient of an economic, political or religious doctrine, or vocational skill. All aspects of the personality of each student encompassing the physical, social, emotional, spiritual, as well as intellectual are viewed as an integrated whole - as a human personality living, working, and growing in a democratic society of other human personalities.

The program in its entirety will embody the coordination of the following services: admissions, orientation, religious and social activities, health and housing, physical education, psychological testing, counseling and guidance, student government, financial aid, part-time employment, placement, and complete records for each student.

Casual observation would seem to suggest that the services of a "superman" (which doesn't exist) are needed to administer this program. In reality it is my duty to integrate and coordinate the various services by assisting the faculty and administration who have been serving commendably, but haven't been able to accomplish all that is desired because of a lack of time and specialized training in this area.

In order to accomplish our goal - the full maturing of each student - we of the Lebanon Valley College Family (students, faculty, and administration) must work as a team, and hope by so doing to make a notable contribution in preparing our young men and women for the roles they will play in our world of tomorrow.

Once again I should like to express my sincere "thanks" for the warm reception and kind hospitality accorded me, and as your Dean of Students I should like you to know that "my mind is always open and my door is never closed". May I be of service to YOU?

LETTER to the EDITOR

November 6, 1950
Lebanon Valley College

Recently a professor on this campus introduced a method of testing which, though certainly not new, is worthy of mention and is, in the opinion of this writer, worthy adoption by all professors.

The method used is as follows:

1. When the blue book is handed to the student it has on it a piece of adhesive tape on which is a number. A corresponding number is on the blue book.
2. The student retains the tape as the only means of identification. When the books are corrected and graded he identifies his and the grade is recorded.

The author of this letter does not mean to make inferences of prejudice on the part of any professor. The purpose is to only obtain a more accurate and scientific method of testing.

A Student

On behalf of the sophomore class, I would like to thank the following people for helping to make the sophomore week-end a grand and glorious success: Lee Whiteman, Joyce Hammock, and Eppu Gehman, who were on the dance decorating committee, and Ruth Evans, Nancy Kline, Liz Kiemmerling, —oyce Hammock, and Eppu Gehman, who served as helpers at the Jazz Concert, also anyone else who in any way was connected in this past weekend's gala festivities.

President of the Sophomore Class

DR. GEORGE G. STRUBLE

by PHIL HAYES

This week's PROFILE covering Dr. Struble will only be a digest of the "good doctor's" personage for the editors cannot possibly devote the time or space necessary to do justice to one of the college's most distinguished professors.

Dr. Struble was born in Northern Iowa in 1900, and attended schools throughout many of the Mid-Western states, including Iowa, Oklahoma, Illinois, Kansas, and Wisconsin, and eastward to New York and Canada. He received the Bachelor of Science in Education degree and the Masters of Art in Education from the University of Kansas, his PhD from the University of Wisconsin. He also attended Chicago University, Cornell University, and Laval University, Quebec, Canada while fulfilling requirements for his PhD.

Dr. Struble and his wife spent their honeymoon in the Philippine Islands, teaching for two years. After their honeymoon, they came home the long way, via Singapore, Japan, China, India, the Suez Canal, France, Germany, Denmark, Norway, and England. After returning to the States, Dr. Struble taught a year at Baker University in Kansas; two years at the University of North Dakota, and three years parttime at the University of Wisconsin. He came to Lebanon Valley College in 1931, and has taught here since then. At L.V. Dr. Struble serves as head of the English Department, as one of the three advisors for the freshmen Liberal Arts students, as advisor of the Wig and Buckle Dramatic Club, the Green Blotter, La Vie Colligienne, and is also Commencement Marshall.

Married, and the father of two children, Dr. Struble makes his home in Annville with his wife. Some of his hobbies include amateur dramatics, study of French, and gardening.

Knights of the Valley is New Campus Organization

by ED TESNAR

The aims and purposes of this club shall be to inspire loyalty to the ideals and traditions of Lebanon Valley College, to encourage activities—social, fornic, athletic and especially scholastic.

Any bona fide male student of Lebanon Valley College is eligible to membership. Membership may be active, graduate and honorary. The one requirement is that the student must have thirty semester hours of credit in the college and a satisfactory standing. The number of members is limited between 20 and 24.

At one of the meetings The Knights of the Valley have decided to hold a Dinner-Dance on April 7, 1951. The theme of the club is Knighthood and the new pledges are first Squires until they meet the requirements set forth by the Knights. When these tasks or obstacles are conquered they will then be Knighted and accepted to the Round Table of the Lord of the Castle.

The officers of the Club are: Lord of the Castle, Guy J. Euston; Second in Command, Fred Sample; Procurer of the Monies, Richard Schiemer; Scribe, Ed Tesnar; Friar, Martin Trostle; Keeper of the Keys, Sherdel Snyder.

Four Societies Plan Joint Barn Party

Plans are now being formed for a gala get-together of all members of the Dalphian, Clonian, Kalo, and Philo societies and guests. On the first Friday evening after the Thanksgiving vacation hay wagons will be filled and the group will be off to a gigantic barn party. A small band will furnish music for dancing, but much fun is also in store for those who will take part in the other activities of the evening. This will be the first entertainment to be planned jointly by the four societies, the aim being to bring them into closer social harmony. Serving on the committee are Gloria Dressler, Jane Lutz, Mardia Melroy, Joan Mattern, Allen Light, John Messersmith, Sylvester Macut, and Robert Magich, the chairman. Remember the date—December 1.

Miller Attends EUB Conference At Dayton

Dr. Frederic K. Miller, acting president of Lebanon Valley College, is attending the meetings of the General Conference of the E. U. B. Church and the meetings of the Commission on Higher Education of the church, at Dayton, Ohio, starting November 10. He is accompanied by Rev. David W. Gockley, Director of Religious Activities, and Dr. Maynard Sparks, Professor of Religion, at Lebanon Valley College.

Dr. Sparks is presiding as chairman of the General Conference Committee. Dr. Miller is acting as representative for the college at a number of committees and functions.

COLLEGE CAPERS

Father: "That son of mine at college is driving me crazy. Every week he writes home for money—'send me twenty dollars'—'send me ten dollars'—'send me five dollars.'"

Friend: "What does he do with it?"

Father: "Do with what? I've never sent him any."

—Hi-court

Several college professors were discussing what they would like to do after they retire.

"Well," said one of them. "I know what I'd like to do. I'd like to be superintendent of an orphan asylum so I'd never get any letters from parents."

"Not me, I've a much better ambition," exclaimed another.

"I want to be warden of a penitentiary. The alumni never come back for a visit."

—Eastern Progress

"Why did you come to college?"

"All the beaches closed."

—Polywog

Romeo may not have been the first quizmaster, but he had a lady in the balcony.

—Gospot

Co-ed: "What are you going to do tonight?"

Roommate: "Look at my books and think of boys."

Co-ed: "What'd you do last night?"

Roommate: "I thought of boys and looked at my books."

Lebanon Valley will play twenty basketball games during the 1950-51 season. Eleven at home and nine away. The Flying Dutchmen open their campaign against Upsala College at East Orange, N. J., on Wednesday evening, December 6th.

Ramblin' With Woods

Calling the Co-ed!

"Get a date for the conserv formal yet?" That's the topic of conversation this week. The dance this year is being held at The Hershey Country Club on December 2. It's bound to be one of the biggest social events of the year.... The other big topic this week is Thanksgiving plans. Most of the students are going to be doing reports, reports and more reports. Just ask any philosophy student! Then there are others, who are just going to take it easy and catch up on all the sleep lost over mid-semesters. A few are really making big plans including Trostle (Martin that is!)

The big news of the week is Kind Lady. Philo-Clio are getting plans made for the big week-end. I dropped in again to see how the show is coming along. Fay Hall is really beat (literally!) from the treatment she gets from Kagey. Watch for this bit scene! Then there is the scene in which Prof. McKlveen was the stand-in. He came out on the stage carrying the baby in his arms. He looked right at home. Then there is the breath-taking scene where Spence Williams carries Julie Thatcher off stage. But Julie always gets a "laughing spell". I think you'll enjoy this evenings entertainment from the very first scene until the climax in the very closing scenes. The Prodigal Comes Home.

What a dreary morning Home-Coming was! (More than one way for yours truly!) Yes, the freshmen are still waring dinks. They did put up a good fight. Claude Seifert was thrown in Quittie even before the Tug-Of-War began. The girls were really on the ball with coffee and blankets for the teams. Lucie was almost in "the drink" because she was standing up for freshmen rights. "Windy" also did a good job as Cheer Leader.

Then there was the hockey game. That was the bright spot of the day. Our girls really made a fine showing. Did you see all the grads Mary and Johnny Light, Dorie Eckert, Polly Stoner "Heckie", "Red Achwalm", John Krieg, Charlotte Rohrbaugh, The Eigenbrodes (Francis and Bob), Janet Epply and Norm and lots of others.

Conversation at a game (Girls!)

Things were really buzzin! "Who are we playing today? Albright? Why didn't someone tell me?".... "I really know more about the football players than football!..." "Get a date for the dance yet? I always get dates for some one else and end up without a date! What! Joe doesn't have a date! He's just my type. I'm 5:11" Now, Ann, go over and sorta' break the ice for me."... "You got an A in that history test. Me? I got an F just because I thought the Indian had a bigger navy than the French!"... "I guess I'll have to watch the game now, because I'm going to the L-Club dance with one of the players. I'll pretend I know all about it!"... Cynthia and Dottie really added something to festivities... How did you like that trip to Mexico? (Viva of LV Band!)

The two-one act plays were really great. These put another feather in Wig and Buckle's act. Most of the players were new to the LV stage. Dick Klure's bar-room music was something. Bob Zimmerman was the typical gay nineties villian. Darlene (WoW!) did a good job as the owner of the "establishment of sin". Tom Henry knew how to pour those "Four Rose Shots".

"Fantasy on an Empty Stage" was terrific. It was something different. Home-Coming came to an end with the L-Club dance. What a time!

Men in the Dorm!

Men had the "time of their lives" on Open House Day. We met everyone from Eddie Cantor in South Hall to Pickled Pete in West Hall. The girls in South Hall had some time with the cider. Bill Shappell found the hiding place and tried to "hook" a gallon of it. We dropped in at the "Dew Drop In", "Ye Olde College Nook", and "Stirrup". Barb's room in North Hall was just like Grand Central Station. Some of the highlights of the week-end included the tennis game in North Hall at 3 o'clock in the morning, breakfast for two on the terrace of North Hall and the doings of the boys on Friday night. Some girls slept through the entire affair on Friday night.

"Come with Me to the Fair"

Going, going, gone was again the familiar cry at the annual county fair. The auction at which profs offered their services was the high light of the affair. Miss Gillespie had a cake there, Mrs. Cooper baked some of her famous "sticky" buns, Mrs. Smith gave a sweater from the new college store, Prof. Rutledge gave a year's subscription to Life. Prof. Wolfgang offered to type a term paper, the chemistry profs offered to set up equipment wash equipment and also a weeks advice to a student. The profs that offered dinners included Stachow, Richie, and Shay. The Donmoyers offered a dinner plus an ice show, Dean Hayes a dinner and a musical, Dr. Light a dinner and a Rotary meeting, and Profs. Bollinger and Woodland a dinner and a show. Sorrentino was there with Betty Edelman Ann Blecker was kept busy reading palms. She told one student that he would travel especially to foreign countries. The next day he received his draft notice: The "buggy ride" was the most popular thing there. Telegrams were delivered by Delphin members. Dorie Zarker is now known as the "telegram girl", thanks to Dick Moore. Lots of students had their honeymoon to Mars, Italy and Mexico. Some even came in contact with "flying saucers" by courtesy of Clio.

Here, There and Everywhere

Green Blotter held a meeting last week and accepted two new members. Paul Stambach was accepted on the basis of his poem, Opus 24, and Bob Rhein for his story, Ethel. Fred Sample was chosen the president of the newly formed FTA. Congrats! The girls of West Hall had a "lost week-end" last week at the "Wolfskills". But just what did happen at three o'clock on Sunday afternoon?...Oh, those poor English

WITH APOLOGIES TO DAVID

The college professor is my shepherd and I am in dire want;
He preventeth me from lying down in the bed which I renteth;
He leadeth me to distraction with his exam questions;
He shaketh my resolution to get a college degree;
He leadeth me to make a fool of myself before my classmates.
Yea, tho I burn my lamp until the landlady howleth, I fear much evil,
For he is against me.
His policies, his theories, and his ranting frighten my wits from me.
He anointeth my quiz paper with red pencil marks,
He assigneth me extra work in the presence of mine enemies;
And my zeros fill a whole column.
Surely, theories, exams, and themes will follow me all the days of my college career,
And I will dwell in the bughouse forever.

EUB Conference Held In Dayton

Youth of the Evangelical United Brethren Church from a wide area rallied at the General Conference of the denomination held in Dayton, Ohio, November 14. There was a Youth Service of Christian Witness similar to the one held recently in Toronto, Canada, in connection with the World Convention on Christian Education. About 1500 young people were present. The scene of the rally was the Euclid Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church. Youth visitors from Dayton and churches all over Ohio and Indiana crowded the church.

The service was conducted by the General Youth Fellowship officers, under the direction of Dr. J. Allan Ranck. President Harold F. Davidson presided. The service was divided into three major parts. The first, "The Witness of Faith," was a period of worship on "The Apostles Creed," prepared and directed by Richard Tholin, General YF vice-president. Responsive selections, special music and special lighting effects made it an inspiring worship experience.

The second part of the service was "The Ecumenical Witness." William Barrick, president of the United Christian Youth Movement, gave a 15-minute address. A 1950 graduate of Phillips University, Okla., Bjll is presently enrolled at Garret Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill. He heads the young people of the 43 denominations and youth-serving agencies which are part of this continent-wide organization which enrolls 4,000,000 young people. His capabilities as a speaker for youth of this generation made him the prime choice for so important an occasion.

The third part of the service was "The Personal Witness." Four young people from various countries gave testimonies regarding their personal faith and work in God's kingdom, each for seven or eight minutes. The rally closed in what is called "The Dedication in Prayer" with the singing of Malotte's "The Lord's Prayer" in unison. Robert (Bing) Crosby of Bonebrake Seminary directed the singing.

Green Blotter Club Chooses New Members

The Green Blotter Club has to date taken in to its organization three new members, who are Mr. Jones, Paul Stambach, and Bob Rhiel. The new members were selected from a number of students who submitted manuscripts in the hope of being included in the membership of this club for aspiring writers. The club is still open to more students interested in becoming a member of Green Blotter. Anyone wishing to enter the Club should submit an original composition of any type to Dr. Struble. Authorship of all manuscripts is kept secret by Dr. Struble and the club passes on the merits of composition only as a criterion for membership into the club.

Green Blotter Club meetings are held every month at the home of Dr. Struble.

LIFE WORK RECRUITS

Do you feel discouraged? Would you like to go to a quiet place where you can forget your problems for a few moments? There is a place right here on our campus where you can do this. Go to the YF room in the church basement every Thursday morning from 11:30 to 12:00. While soft music fills the room, forget your worries and let the peace of God take their place.

The program planned for Thursday, November 21, has been cancelled due to the illness of Mr. Richard Waters, who was to have been the speaker.

LV'ers on a buggy ride, popular feature of the County Fair

Student Christian Association News

The annual Thanksgiving Service will be held again this year in Engle Hall at 6 A. M. on November 22. All students are invited to attend.

A drive to collect old clothes, toys, and old textbooks for needy students throughout the world for Christmas will be made during the Thanksgiving vacation. All students will receive information concerning the drive prior to the vacation, and are asked to bring back articles that can be contributed for this drive. Phyllis Barnhart is chairman of this committee.

Fellowship Hour of November 8 featured a commission type program. Those present attended one of four discussion groups. These covered the subjects of Christian Faith and Heritage, Social Responsibility, Personal and Campus Affairs, and World Relatedness. Profs. McKleeven and Ehrhart, and Dean Stonecipher led in three of the discussion groups. Each subject was looked at from the viewpoint of a Christian. A similar type program was presented on November 15.

The S.C.A. Choir has begun rehearsal for a cantata which will be presented at the Midnight Candlelight Service on December 18, just before Christmas vacation.

The Cabinet met Monday evening, November 13, in its regular business meeting. Future plans and the coming National Assembly was discussed.

Hart Helmich, of the Student Christian Movement staff of the Middle Atlantic Region, met with interested students Wednesday afternoon, November 15, in relation to National Assembly to be held December 27, 1950, to January 2, 1951, at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. This is the "town meeting" of more than 2,000 students, and they will be representing SCA's Y.M. and YWCA's from all over the country, with many foreign countries represented. L.V.'s quota is five students. At the present time three students are planning to attend.

CAMPUS CHEST DRIVE BEGUN

The gathering together of many worthy campaigns into one drive on the LVC Campus began on October 31. The Campus Chest, as it is known, is under the direction of Earl Redding and "Peg" Bower, the two vice-presidents of the S. C. A. The goal of $1.00 per student per semester has been set, and committee members are at present contacting every member of the student body.

NATIONAL STUDENT ASSEMBLY

The "town meeting" of more than 2,000 students, all members of Student CAs, YMs and YWCAs throughout the country, will be held at Oxford, Ohio, at Miami University on December 27, 1950, to January 2, 1951. Here is an opportunity to become acquainted with some of the leaders of tomorrow, many world-wide known leaders of today, and to meet other students throughout the U. S. and many students that will be representing foreign Student Christian Movements. Here are the objectives of the National Assembly. "We look to the Assembly, our 'Town Meeting' of the Movement for these things: a clarification and deepened appreciation of the Christian faith and of the will of God for us in relation to the problems of our day; a sense of direction for the Student Christian Association Movement to achieve these primary objectives. Enriching values will permeate the Assembly days as the delegates work and worship together and as they experience fun and good fellowship."

Here is your opportunity to be a part of the heart of the Student Christian Association Movement in the U. S. A. Here is an opportunity to widen your horizons, to see and be a part of Christian Students working, praying, fellowshiping together for a better world. For further information and registration blanks, contact Martin Trostle or any SCA Cabinet Member in the near future.

Squires for Newest Campus Organization for Men, KNIGHTS OF THE VALLEY

by DOTTIE COHLE

Tuesday, November 21, is the date that heralds the presentation of the Conserv's musical comedy. "Lv's A-Poppin'." The original script has been completed thanks to Joyce Carpenter's early morning sessions:.....the chor' and the orchestra, are being rehearsed by maestro John Heck;.....ensembles.....duets.....dancing.....comedy.....This show has everything: Let's get behind it.....The money will be used to help defray expense of the Conserv.

Formal...

Plans for the Conserv. Formal are rounding the final bend.... The date-Saturday, December 2.... the place-Hershey Country Club Ballroom.... the menu m m good.... One of the largest groups to attend the Formal is expected this year.

The Jazz Concert of last Friday night November 10 is still the topic of many conversations.... Gale Merriman, tenor saxist supreme, the guest artist.... Blecker playing cool alto in the dogfight with Merriman.... Mighty fine!.... "Shnooky Baby"-one of Trostle's own.... Tritch's fine arrangements (More to be featured at "LV's A-Poppin'") The Dee-tones: John Heck, Anny Shroyer, Don Trostle, Joyce Hammock, Gene Tritch.... Bob Rhine's program notes....All in all good work fellows (&gals)!....

Miss Gillespie is back on campus after spending an extended week-end in New York, where she was a guest at Columbia University...

A "German Band" from the Conserv played for the Pennsylvania Dutch Fersammling in Lebanon on November 2nd....The sextet consisted of Weinberger, Wisner, MacKenzie, Richwine, Wolf's & George Rutledge.... "They even stopped eating long enough to applaud."....

Don't miss "LV'S A-Poppin on Tuesday... Kenneth Kaiser, xylophonist, appeared in concert at the St. Thomas in Bernville, Pa., last Sunday evening, November 12.... The other soloist was Miss Dorothy Ruth, soprano, who is a Bernville resident....

"O.K. seems to be the by word of the Conserv.... Pronounced undesirable some ardicals have suggested as a new response "Lkeydoke".

Professor Ben Jones in his first recital on this campus causing quite a stir with his superb musicianship.... "Now that's the way a piano should be played".... "Give me one word that will adequately describe your reaction to Prof. Jones' recital".... Wow!"

William Fairlamb, another of the Conserv's piano profs, will appear in concert this Sunday, November 19, at the Woman's Club of Reading... Mr. Fairlamb's concert is being sponsored by the Music Division of the aforementioned club..

And speaking of concerts, don't forget that Monday, December 11 is the date of the 2nd concert in the Community Concert series in Lebanon....This one will introduce to this area "The Pavelers" considered to be one of America's finest male quartets... It was in this quartet that such artists as James Melton got their start...The program should be very enjoyable as the repertoire includes music of interest to all ages.

Conserv Seniors, don't forget that the "In and About Club" has its first meeting on Thursday evening November 30th... A banquet and excellent speaker marks the evenings program... also, the P.M. E.A. convention opens on Friday, December 1st, in comma...Those who attended last year are well aare of the value of these sessions. new ideas and methods and music in general, special panels offering desired information on many topics...A very worthwhile and entertaining weekend is in store for the members of the Pennsylvania Music Educators Association...

Don't miss L.V.'S A-Poppin this Tuesday night!

Mrs. Margaret Barthel Baxstresser, prof of piano at L.V.C. 1946 to 1950, will appear at her concert at Town Hall, New York, N.Y., on Wednesday, December 13th Numerous Vallyites have made plans to attend the concert, and Mrs. Baxstresser has already acknowledged and thanked the students for their interests...

A very hardy congratulation to George Ritner, L.V.'S favorite tenor, who is one of the three contestants that will represent Reading on the Horace Heidt who, which is coming to the Ragah Theatre in Reading, on Sunday evening, November the 26th... How about going to the show and adding to the cheers for George that will insure his success?... (For a test of that smoth Ritner voice, don't miss L.V.'S A-Poppin- George is one of the featured soloists)...

Joyce Carpenter was headed for New York earlier this week...sudition for T.V.... See you at "L.V.'S A-Poppin"....

Jones Recital Held November 13

Mr. Ben Jones, Professor of Piano at Lebanon Valley College, presented a piano recital at the Engle Hall Conservatory of Music on November 13.

Mr. Jones' program included sensisive interpretations of Chopin's "Nocturne in C Minor," "Impromptu in A Flat Major," and "Scherzo in C Sharp Minor, Op. 39;" "Sonato in G Minor, Op. 22" by Schumann; Persichetti's "Third Piano Sonato," Barber's "Excursions," "Aubade No. 1" by Goldman, and De Bussy's "Lisle Joyeuse."

Mr. Jones is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music and a student of Carl Friedburg and the late, great Olga Samaroff Stokowski. He is a member of the Preparatory Division of Juilliard, and has lectured at Town Hall two seasons on the "Learning for Living Series." He has appeared in concerts throughout the South and East, and has appeared as piano soloist with various symphony orchestras. He recently appeared as a guest artist on the network radio program, "Piano Playhouse."

L. V. Tenor To Appear On H. Heidt Program

Tenor George Ritner will be one of the audition winners to appear on the Horace Heidt Show at the Rajah Theater, Reading, at 7 p. m. Sunday evening, November 26. George is one of three contestants.

If George winse again, there is a possibility that he will appear on a future broadcast. Unfortunately, this program will not be on the air, because Heidt does not use his doscovered talent in respective home towns. However, those who will be able to attend may obtain tickets by writing to the Rajah Theater.

Carl Snavelly, head football coach at the University of North Carolina, played football at Lebanon Valley, graduating in 1916.

Miss Myers Completes 29th Year As Librarian

As familiar with Vergil's Aeneid as wit hthe latest book on nuclear physics, and almost an institution within an institution, is Miss Helen E. Myers, librarian at Lebanon Valley College. Miss Myers, who has spent the last 29 years of her life as librarian in the college, is a woman of gentle patience and motherly mien.

A graduate of Lebanon Valley, class of 1907, and the Drexel Institute Library School, she did library work at the New York Public Library, the University of Chicago Library, and the Lancaster Public Library. She became librarian of Lebanon Valley College in 1921, at which time the library contained approximately 5,500 volumes, and was staffed by Mish Myers and several student assistants. Since then the library, which was originally designed to house 12,000 volumes, has grown to 47,387 books, with a staff of 6 full time and 9 part time employees.

With the exception of the wide-eyed, continually confused freshmen, Miss Myers' biggest headache is finding enough space for the everincreasing number of books. A partial solution to the space problem was the installation of a microfilm library of newspapers and periodicals and a Recordak microfilm reader. Thih saves up to 95% of the space formerly required to store magazines and newspapers.

Miss Myerse is currently engaged in tracing the history of an old and valuable book which is causing some excitement among historians and bibliophiles. It was published in 1803, and is believed to be the first book published in Bucks County, Pa.

When asked what she thought of the 29 years she spent in the college library, she considered the question a moment, then replied, "When I came here in 1921 I made up my mind to give the college a good library. I think the college has a good library today, and I have never regretted the choice I made in life."

Miss Myers lives at 120 College Avenue, Annville, about a half-block down the street from the college library.

Saxes Swing Out In Jazz II at Engle Hall

Trostle Sets Tempo As Engle Sways to Jazz II

by NEIL TIMBERLANE

Jazz at Engle II came off in grand style last Friday night. Curtain found the Trostle aggregation faced by a full house who remembered the last concert and were looking forward to this one with lots of anticipation.

While the audience was still applauding the theme, they were caught on the edge of their seats with James' Jump Town. Leader Don Trostle kept them alternately relaxed and jumping all through the first half of the concert. The saxes did a grand overall job, highlighted by their featured renditions of Opus in Pastels and Four Brothers. All the reeds played inspired solos at various times in addition to their precise section work. Dale Musselman of Harrisburg captured the solo spot with Lynn Blecker for Don's original composition, Schnooky Baby. They gave the crowd a fast and furions dogfight.

Gene Tritch took his solo flight on Danny Boy, and really earned his wings. His sweet but powerful tone wore the edges off the "square" clarinet introduction, and recaptured the theme from the piano after he caught his second wind. Just before his solo, he warmed up on Laura.

Doris Cortright presented a smoky rendition of Blue Moon and Thinking of You, backed by Trostle's "combo." Incidentally, this versatile young lady is also a very fine drummer. She is a fine addition to any group.

The Dee Tones, composed of Ann Shroyer, Gene Tritch, John Heck, and Don Trostle, sang a wonderful version of Don's "five-way" arrangement of Judaline, and made a successful presentation of one of Don's originals, That I Care, words by Lee Whiteman and Joyce Hammock. Tritch supplied the instrumental background for both of these.

By Trumpet Blues time, the trumpets decided that they had been making lots of noise from the back seat long enough. Trostle joined the section to take the wheel, and with him, they began ignoring all speed signs and Quiet zones. Tritch acted as traffic officer. The stage was changed for the second half while the audience molded their ears back into shape. The second half of the concert started with thet band, now adorned in tuxes and augmented by a string section and a portion of the L. V. C. Glee Club, presenting an austere picture. They surprised everyone with a hand-clapping arrangement of Dear Hearts and Gentle People.

The entire group wound up the evening with Don's special arrangement of All The Things You Are. It seems that Mr. Trostle has definite musical tendencies. The piece was a genuine piece of modern art. His equally fine encore was last year's arrangement of Tenderly. That wound things up for this year. Here's to Jazz at Engle III.

Playing its only Christmas Day football game in history, Lebanon Valley defeated the University of Tampa 6-0 at Tampa, Fla., on December 25, 1935.

Lawrence M. Kinsella, of Linden, N. J., and Charles L. Zimmerman, of Lebanon, Pennsylvania, will co-captain the 1950-51 Lebanon Valley basketball team.

Don Trostle proved again shat jazz can be just as enfoyable as the classics. Some of the outstanding features of the program were Tenderly, Laura and All the Things You Are. (Don actually danced at the Sop Hop instead of being in the band) People to WATCH:

University of Scranton Powerful Opponent for Dutchmen

Highly Touted Royals Have Fallen Only to Quantico

Lebanon Valley will bring its 1950 football campaign to a close on Saturday evening in the Lebanon High School Stadium by meeting the once-beaten, power-laden football legion of the University of Scranton. Kickoff time for the engagement is set for 8:00 P. M.

Scranton will bring a very impressive record into Lebanon having won six games while losing only one. Their lone defeat was suffered at the hands of the powerful Quantico Marines who are spearheaded by the great College of the Pacific All-American, Eddie LeBaron. Scranton met the service aggregation, composed of ex-collegiate and professional stars, at Alexandria, Virginia and was downed for the first and only time this season 41-21. The Royals gave the highly touted Marines a demonstration of their power but the superior calibre of more experienced and powerful gridsters on the Quantico squad proved too difficult an array for the Royals from Pennsylvania to subdue.

Scranton opened its season by trouncing one of last year's unbeaten and untied teams, St. Vincent, 20-7. Last season the Bearcats won ten straight games. Lafayette came next for the Royals and the Leopards were beaten by the same score as Scranton ran up the previous week, 20-7. Gannon College of Erie, the school that never lost a football game since it was established only recently was the following opponent of the Purple and White. Gannon's unbeaten and untied grid history crumpled on the turf of Scranton's Dunmore Stadium as the Royals pounded the Goldne Knights by a 34-7 margin. The first opponent that Lebanon Valley has also played was on the Scranton schedule the following week when Pennsylvania Military College was blanked 26-0. The Flying Dutchmen also defeated the Cadets, eking by 7-6 in rain-soaked Lebanon High Stadium on November 4. Bouncing back from their loss to the Marines, which was far from being a shame, the Scranton eleven battered Lebanon Valley's arch rival Albright, 34-13. This of course is the same Albright which dournd the Dutchmen on Homecoming Day. Muhlenberg was listed as the ensuing foe for the Scrantonians and they were stopped 20-13, the same score resulting from the Valley-Berg fracas. That, then is the record of these Royals who enter Saturday night's clash heavily favored.

This contest will mark the fifth meeting between the two institutions. The first game was played in 1936 when Scranton was known as St. Thomas College. That year the Tommies shut-out the Lebanon squad 18-0. The next meeting did not occur until 1947 and this proved to be the only triumph for the Valley thus far in the series. That year Scranton, which changed to that name from Saint Thomas in 1937, was sporting a fine record and established quite an impressive reputation before meeting the Flying Dutchmen. Andy Kerr's men however, threw a wrench into any hopes for a great Scranton setson by upending the Royals 13-7. Scranton came back the following two years and repaid the Valley more than enough for that loss. In 1948 the Miners romped over the Kerrmen 26-0 and last season repeated the shutout by four less points, 22-0.

Last year the Royals ended the season with five wins and five losses. Five of those losses however were administered by such major opponents as St. Bonaventure, Fordham, Canisius, Boston University, and Dayton. The Royals defeated Muhlenberg, Moravian, Niagara, Albright, and the Flying Dutchmen.

Scranton is coached by Peter A. Carlesimo. Pete is in his seventh season as head pilot of the Royal's gridiron fortunes. He took over the reins early in 1944 after assisting Robert "Pop" Jones during the 1942 season. Since Scranton had no varsity football team in 1943 Carlesimo returned to the scene in 1944. Since that time Carlesimo has guided Scranton's football destinies to 34 wins 26 losses and two ties. Pete is a product of Fordham University where he learned his football under "Sleepy" Jim Crowley during the years 1937-38-39 when Fordham produced several of their greatest teams. Following his graduation from Fordham, Carlesimo entered the coaching profession in his home town of Newark, N. J. where he coached the St. Benedict Prep elevens through two successful seasons. Aside from his football duties he is also the Assistant Director of Athletics of the University.

The Chief Clerk of the Prothonotary Office of Lackawanna County is Scranton's line coach. This person being Anthony Lawrence, Scranton '39. Lawrence is cosidered one of the most outstanding guards to have ever worn the Purple and White. He is also a graduate of the Georgetown University Law School.

John Garvey is the newest addition to Scranton's coaching staff. Garvey is a native of Scranton and played halfback for Yale, graduating in 1929. Garvey was the Eli's ace punter and winner of several Big Blue gridiron awards. He is a master of precision and timing and is the man chiefly responsible for Scranton's well drilled backs.

Coaching the ends and the Freshmen team is Jack Koniszewski who came to Scranton after playing three years of professional football with the Washington Redskins. Jack was an all-around athlete while attending George Washington University from which he received his degree in 1943.

This year Scranton is led by its potential Little All-American guard, captain Al Applegate who hails from Hackettstown, N. J. Applegate, who was selected by a leading national sports magazine as one of this year's Little All-American guards, is 23 years of age, weighs 225 lbs. and scrapes the marker at 5'-11". He's a senior and was All-Pennsylvania guard last fall, also gaining All-Catholic and Little All-American honors. Applegate, besides being a 60-minute player handles all the extra point and kickoff duties for the Royals.

Two other linemen who have proved to be a key factor in the Lackawanna Countians success are end Dom Colangelo and center John Woodbridge. Like Applegate, these two have also been 60-minute players for the Royals. Colangelo has caught 23 passes for a total of 400 yards.

The Quantica match proved rather disastrous to Scranton as key players suffered injuries. Sophomore tackle, Robert Maguire, fractured his leg and will be lost for the season while the Royals backfield ace, Bill Newman, was also sidelined with injuries. However, Carlesimo found a replacement for Newman in James Heilig who came through with two TD's over Albright. Dan Shea is the Royals passing ace. Including the Albright game he has completed 35 out of 58 throws for a net gain of 613 yards. Shea gave LeBaron a little duel completing 9 out of 15 passes for 144 yards. Returning to the backfield after recovering from an early injury is Eddie Niemeyer, sophomore right half. Therefore, this Scranton team will be well healed and up and ready for the Dutchmen.

Valley Eleven Flops As Western Maryland Is Triumphant 19-7

Slowly, but surely, Western Maryland is establishing some sort of a football jinx over Lebanon Valley. Saturday afternoon the Flying Dutchmen trekked to Hoffa Field in Westminster, Maryland and saw a 7-6 half-time lead wiped out in the second portion of the game as the Green Terrors trampled a rather pathetic squadron of Lebanonians to the tune of 19-7. It was the third time in three years that the Dutchmen yielded to the Mason-Dixonites. In 1948 the Terrors won 13-0 on the same field and last year humiliated the Blue and White 39-7 in Lebanon. The loss was the third for the visitors against four triumphs while it marked Western Maryland's seasonal standing at 5-2. Lebanon Valley registered its only triumph over WMC in 1914 by 21-3.

As far as the game itself was concerned it was one of the worst, if not the worst, the Valley has played all season. At times the contest looked as though two high school teams were battling each other with neither team exhibiting the exceptional. The Southerners rushed the Lebanon Valley passing attack; pouring in upon the Dutchmen passers in disgusting fashion as they threw the Valley for losses time and time again. Western Maryland did not flash anything out of the ordinary but they had the condolence of being triumphant.

The Marylanders drew first blood when the Green and Gold took over on the LVC 31 with quarterback Harlow Henderson setting the pace and moved to the Dutchmen 15. Henderson then flipped an aerial to Renaldi who crossed the double stripe to make it 6-0 when Don Phillips missed the extra point.

Lebanon Valley roared back in fine fashion when Joe Oxley received a punt on the WMC 27. Ray Dankowski passed to the reliable co-captain, end Bob Fischer who raced to the seven upon grabbing the heave. From here Fred Sample, playing left half-back, ran it over for a touchdown. Tom Quinn successfully booted the bonus marker and the Dutchmen were in the van 7-6. With this rejuvenation of some of that lost gridiron glisten it looked as though the Valley would really turn it on in the second half.

Well, the only thing the Valley turned on after that was the bus motor to bring them home. As was evident in the first half, the crew of Coach Ralph Rickler could not capitalize on scoring opportunities and this factor turned up again in the third and fourth stanzas as several scoring chances popped up but were badly handled and this coupled with bad breaks such as penalties made it a dismal afternoon for the Flying Dutchmen.

For its second touchdown Western started on its own 31 and travelled to the 47 where the passing combo of Henderson to Renaldi worked again this time down to the 38. Henderson followed this with another good ozone attempt to Red Collins who scampered to the five. Then, the same play to the left side of the line by which the Terrors racked up four touchdowns in last year's slaughter, proved just as effective a year

1950 Record of Scranton

St. Vincent	20-7
Lafayette	20-7
Gannon	34-7

LV Football Ends For Co-Captains

Saturday night on the green sod of the Lebanon Higs School Stadium, Lebanon Valley's two senior footballers, Robert Richard Fischer and Norman Gilbert Lukens will play their last football game for Lebanon Valley. These boys have served as co-captains this past season and have done a wonderful job at that and also at playing their respective positions, Fischer at end and Lukens at center. The game on Saturday evening will wind up the four year gridiron history they have written since their arrival at the Valley in 1947. That year Fischer and Lukens played as Freshmen on the same team which stunningly upset our opponents for this week, the University of Scranton.

Indoubtedly, Valley faithful will remember "Glue Fingers" Fischer and "Bud" Lukens for time to come. Fischer, always out there pulling down the seemingly impossible and Lukens charging hard or defending that line to the utmost. We will always remember the two touchdown passes Fischer snagged against Albright this year, turning them into the only Blue and White scores of the game and how can we forget the seemingly unbelievable aerial he hauled in during the opening moments of the Moravian game and then scooted for a touchdown. We can always recall Lukens coming out of the huddle, getting over the ball and then holding up that middle. We will always remember the Upsala game of 1948 when he broke through the Viking line, blocked a punt, and ran 47 yards for the touchdown that gave Lebanon Valley the win at 19-13. There are many more feats these two have accomplished here at the Valley; they have spoken for themselves. Aside from their inspired play those long, hard hours of practice during the fall of each year must not be forgotten. They have what it takes and they certainly did honor to the title of Lebanon Valley College football co-captains. Lukens and Fischer, a fine duo, we're proud of them.

Fischer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Fischer of 1 Martin Place, in Little Falls, N. J. Bob attended Passaic Valley High School, from where he graduated in 1946 after playing football, basketball and baseball. Fischer is 22 years old, weoghs 190 and stands 5' 11". Thus far, Fischer has scored four touchdowns for twenty-four points this year.

Lukens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henry Lukens of 32 South 2nd Street, Wormleysburg, Pennsylvania. "Luke" graduated from Lemoyne High School in 1944 where he competed in football, basketball, and baseball, serving as football co-captain in his senior year. Aside from playing football here at the Annville institution he has also participated in baseball, playing third base. Before coming to Lebanon Valley, Lukens served in the Navy for two years, eighteen months of which were spent overseas. He was in the Amphibian Corps of our Navy. Luken was married to the former Ellen Jepsen, LVC '50, this past summer and they now reside in Camp Hill. Norm is also president of the Varsity L Club.

This then, is the brief tribute we wish to pay to two of the Valley's football stars of the last four years. To them we wish the best of luck and many more touchdowns in life.

Two Lebanon Valley College girls were chosen by a selection board of coaches last week for positions on the Central Pennsylvania Field Hockey team which will compete in the Mid-East Tournament this weekend when the Central Pennsylvania Field Hockey Team will meet the Finger Lakes (Rochester, N. Y.) and Pittsburgh area teams at the Polo Grounds in Camp Hill.

Jeanne Hutchinson, a Junior from Jacobstown, N. J., was chosen for a position on the starting varsity eleven, while Mary Elizabeth Roper, a junior from Dover, Del., was selected as a substitute. The selections were based on performance in competitive paly between six colleges and two professional hockey teams.

The tournament, which will close with playoffs between the Central Pennsylvania, Finger Lakes, and Pittsburgh area teams, began on November 3, when a selection board composed of the coaches of the participating colleges chose two All-College teams from the following aggregation of schools: Lebanon Valley College, Gettysburg College, Shippensburg, Millersville, and Lock Haven Teachers Colleges, Susquehanna University, and Pittsburgh and Rochester Association teams.

Four Lebanon Valley Hockey girls were chosen for the All-College Team. They were as follows: Jeanne Hutchinson, Mary Elizabeth Roper, Ruth Ann Brown, and Diane Randolph.

On November 11, at Lancaster the All-College teams with the Harrisburg and Lancaster Club teams at which time the selection board chose the outstanding players for the two teams that will represent the Central Pennsylvania Field Hockey Association in the Mid-East Sectional Tournament held November 18 and 19 at Camp Hill. Jeanne Hutchinson and Mary Elizabeth Roper attained this honor and will play on the Central Pennsylvania Field Hockey Teams in the Mid-East Tournament this weekend.

Sociology 21 Class Conducts Religious Census of Annville

Annville, Pa., October — A religious census of Annville, Pa., conducted by sociology students at Lebanon Valley College, has produced a statistical glimpse into the make-up of a small Pennsylvania town. This census covered only Annville proper, hence does not include the adjacent townships. Complete coverage of the town in the census was not possible because of the unavailability of eighty families. This survey, made with the cooperation of the Annville Council of Churches, served several purposes: (1) it fulfilled the call of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America for community-wide religious censuses; (2) it provided the Annville Council of Churches with information concerning persons who are not members, but who have church preferences as well as persons who are neither members nor have church preferences, thus making possible an evangelizing program; (3) it provided an opportunity for students to engage in research; (4) it stimulated a cooperative relationship between the college, the churches, and the community.

Statistics showed that approximately 50% of the residents of Annville had lived there less than 10 years. On the other hand, more than 10% had been residents for 40 years or longer. On the educational side, 32.17% the residents had 8 years of schooling or less, 50% had 9-12 years of schooling, and 17.87%

had some college training. This last figure is larger than the national average (12.1%) of persons with college training, but may be explained by the presence of Lebanon Valley College.

The Annville census seems to support the widely held theory that similars mate, and not opposites. In Annville, 67.8% of the married couples fell into the same broad educational classifications. In other words, husbands whose schooling stopped after eight years of grade school or less had wives with approximately the same amount of schooling. The same observation was recorded for husbands and wives with high school and college education.

In the occupational survey, there was a higher proportion of professional persons in Annville than reported for the nation. However, the nation has nearly twice as many proprietors, managers, officials, and clerks. Annville's percentage of skilled workers (11%) was approximately the same as for the nation, but the town had seven per cent more semi-skilled workers than the nation, and ten per cent more unskilled workers. The Annville population has been compared with the national per cent distribution of white employed workers, because the community has no Negro residents. Forty-eight per cent of the population of the town (including housewives, children, persons retired, and unemployed) is unemployed, which means that this number is supported by slightly over half of the population.

The religious census showed that 88.49% of the residents of Annville are church members or have a church preference either in or outside of the town. Nearly three-quarters, however, have either membership or preference in Annville. Persaus who were members of a church either in or outside of the community numbered 68.59%. Over 56 per cent are members in Annville and 12.3 per cent are members outside of Annville. This last group is one of the most important from the viewpoint of the purpose of the study. A table of church membership of persons living in Annville who are members of Annville Churches is listed below:

Denomination	Per Cent
Evangelical Congregational	11.5
Evangelical United Brethren	25.0
Evangelical Reformed	17.7
Brethren	5.2
Roman Catholic	14.1
First Evangelical Lutheran	13.0
St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran	10.6
United Christian	2.9

One of the most important facts related to church attendance showed that the total average attendance at Sunday morning services was 55.6% of the total church membership, whereas the Sunday evening services (four churches reporting) totaled 16.2% of the total enrollment, while an average attendance at the midweek services (five churches reporting) was 8.5%.

I, Noem Rides Again! Call Harvard Over Brown

Army, Oklahoma, California, Navy, Northwestern, and Ohio State Picked

Due to the fact that I. Noem has been very busy with those horrors to top all horrors called "mid-semester" he hasn't had time to calculate his prognostication percentage, but the crystal gazer graciously informs his readers, all three of them, that he is far ahead in calling them. In other words the pigskin picking wizard has called many more right than wrong. Now, for this week's gems of wisdom.

Alabama meets Georgia Tech so, purely on the basis of maintaining friendship with my buddy Jaworsky, Noem picks the Crimson Tide by 20-6....Albright surprised Gettysburg last week (they're pretty good at suprising I see) but this Saturday they play a much tougher 'berg therefore it's Muhlenberg by 35-7....Arkansas plays SMU and the way things look it's gonna be a mighty sad day for the Razorbacks. The Mustangs will be on the rebound from those two losses to Texas and Texas A&M so, here's one for Kyle Rote & Company, 33-13....Army will find Stanford rougher than New Mexico but not that rough. The Cadets march on, 38-6....Boston University play Idaho and this is just a waste of energy for the Vandals. They're going to be mighty tired from that cross-country jaunt. Boston, by 27-6....Brown goes to Cambridge to take on Harvard. After that 50-0 loss to Penn, Bruno the Bruin should mangle Johnny Harvard, but Noem envisions ein grosse upset in the making. Here's one out on the limb for the Crimson. Harvard 26-21....Bucknell at Delaware seems as though it will be a good game. Bucknell will feel good anyhow. The Bisons stampede 25-14....California plays host to San Francisco. This is one of those "state wide courtesy games" with Cal able to call the score. Noem sees Cal running it up to 40 but Frisco coming back with 12. Cal, 40-12....Colgate plays Syracuse and we'll stick with the Orange. Syracuse 34-20....Columbia may be the gem of the ocean in a truly it's the Navy. The Middies over the Lions in their best game of the year, 21-0....Cornell has been slipping and Dartmouth has been improving but we think the slipping stops here, the Big Red taking the Oak Green 20-7.

Oho State at Illinois will be one of the better games of the season. Noem sees heap big upset but is chicken to call it so, it's Wesley Fesler's Flashy Buckeyes on the romp 20-13....Indiana over Marquette by 21-0, not very easy as the Hoosiers may assume....Nebraska will shock Iowa State 34-13....Iowa on the other hand will throw a terrific scare into Notre Dame but the Irish will pull through 14-7....Kansas at Kansas State finds the latter severely the underdog. The Jayhawkers in a runaway 39-0....North Dakota at Kentucky will probably be the mismatch of the season. However, can't be any worse than New Mexico-Army. Paul Bryant of Kaintuck could try for 100 but Noem thinks he'll stop at 64-0....Lafayette at Lehigh. Well, well, well, once again the country's steadiest football rivalry comes to be. All we have to say here is that if Lehigh loses this one, then the Engineers can forget about all those they've one. It'll be hard, but Gabriel and Doyné will skin the Leopard and once again the bell will toll in Bethlehem. Lehigh 20-0....Maryland will take West Virginia easily. Let's say 33-7....Miami, Fla. Meets Florida in their annual playboy series. Well, the Miami boys could leave their beaches and basket-weaving long enough to trim their Gainesville friends by about 27-6....Michigan State is host to Pitt and all Noem has to say is, watch that panther. There's going to be trouble before the big cat falls, but Michigan State isn't dropping this one. The Spartans, 27-7....Out of nowhere we pick Northwestern to throttle Michigan 20-7....Bernie Bierman tendered his resignation at Minnesota and Purdue will seal it with 26-6 conquest of the hapless Gophers. Wha' hopen' there Bernie, anyhow?...Ole Miss meets Tennessee and brother them there Colonels will ride. Tennessee 26-7.

Oklahoma plays Missouri. After that comeback against Kansas, Noem fears the Sooners. Oklahoma 34-12....Rutgers travels to Penn State and will give the Nittany Lions a game of it but the Scarlet doesn't have enough to pull through this year. Penn State 20-7....Penn meets Wisconsin in one of the greatest intersectional battles of the year. Reds Bagnell and all of Philadelphia won't stop the Badgers once they get rolling. Wisconsin in a squeaker, 27-20....Temple runs up against Fordham and that's just about all they'll do, run up against them. Fordham 26-13....Texas meets TCU in what will prove to be a typical Southwestern football rodeo. However, the Longhorns get the nod here. Texas 21-7....Tulane will walk all over Virginia. The Green Wave, 28-6....Washington will stop Southern California. Noem sees this one 17-14....Yale meets Princeton and there will be plenty of pressure on those Tigers. Don't kid yourselves, Eli Yale is dangerous. But, the odds favor Princeton too much. Here's one for the boys from the home state, Princeton over the Big Blue 26-13.

later as Henderson cut loose again, this time to Tullai who nabbed it going over to paydirt. Paul Tereshinski's kick was wide of the uprights but the Westminster eleven took over a permanent lead at 12-7.

With the fourth period half gone, Ira Zepp punted and the ball was touched by a Lebanon Valley player on the LV 11. Bruce Rudisill capitalized on this unfortunate L. V. C. miscue and it was just a matter of minutes before the homesters turned the misstep into a score. Henderson drove to the six, but an offside penalty set the ball back to the 11. The ensuing play saw the winners work a double reverse as Tullai scored and Phillips' kick split the uprights to end the fray at 19-7.

Mrs. Laughlin Resigns
As Pol Sci Club Advisor

Mrs. Maud P. Laughlin, head of the Political Science and Sociology Departments of the college, officially tendered her resignation as advisor to the Political Science Club at the regular meeting on November 30. Professor Marvin Wolfgang of the Sociology Department, will take the position held by Mrs. Laughlin for the past two years.

Mrs. Laughlin began her affiliation with the club in the college term 1948-49, when the club was organized. Charter members and members from the last year can never forget the encouragement, the aid during trying days, or the critical but sincere advice given by her during the formative period. The mere presence of an ever-ready firm hand served to steady the course this club has followed in its two year history of achievement. In a moving talk at a previous meeting, Mrs. Laughlin announced her decision to relinquish her post, due to pressing collegiate work, which involves heading the Social Studies Divisional Organization in the plan for reorganizing general education requirements next year. However, the former advisor stated that she intends to maintain her standing as an active member of the club.

Club members were consoled in their loss by the appointment of Professor Marvin Wolfgang. Professor Wolfgang, through his many student contacts and his previous active interest in the Political Science Club, is uniquely qualified to continue the personal and technical excellence of the advisor to the Political Science Club.

President pro tem Robert Moller conducted the meeting, which was of business nature. The meeting concerned final plans for the basketball programs which will be sold again this year at home basketball games.

Miss Dorothy Dando, secretary, gave a report for the Social Committee, and the club approved the recommendation made to hold its first social meeting in January. Instructions to plan an appropriate evening were received by the Social Committee.

Dr. Pooley Confers with Faculty; College Introduces New Courses

Dr. Robert C. Pooley of the University of Wisconsin conferred with faculty members of Lebanon Valley College on December 1 and 2. Dr. Pooley, English professor at the University of Wisconsin, heads that university's Department of Integrated Liberal Studies, a program in general education. In an interview, Dr. Pooley stated: "At present Lebanon Valley College is interested in developing a pattern of general education. I am here as a consultant to offer advice and suggestions."

Dr. Pooley served as a special consultant to the pre-induction training branch of the Army Service Forces from 1943 to 1945. He is assistant editor of the magazine, American Speech, and co-editor of the "Literature and Life" series of books. He is the author of Teaching English Usage and has contributed articles to several professional journals and text books. Dr. Pooley was recently named the first winner of an award established by the National Council of Teachers for his efforts in promoting the teaching of English.

The immediate effect of this program is two new courses in General Educa-

Dr. Pope Continues Lectureship Series

The religion in Life Lectureship series, a new feature at Lebanon Valley this year, will sponsor a special speaker, Dr. Liston Pope of Yale University, on Tuesday, December 12. He will speak at Chapel service in the morning, at a seminar for students at four in the afternoon, and at a joint meeting for the entire town at 7:30 P. M., in the College church. His topic for the day will be, "The Place of Religion in the Field of Labor."

Dr. Pope left the Congregational ministry in 1938 to lecture at Yale. He was selected Professor of Social Ethics in 1947 and Dean of the Divinity School in 1949. He is well qualified to speak on the subject labor, since he served on many Labor Dispute Boards and was chief lecturer at the Presbyterian Institute of Industrial Relations from 1944-48. He also served as a member of the Industrial Relations Committee of the former Federal Council of Churches and edited the magazine "Social Action" from 1944-48.

Though scheduled as second, Dr. Pope will actually be the first speaker of the lectureship series, since Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, the supposed first speaker, was not able to be here because of bad weather. Arrangements are being made to have Dr. Leiper here at some later date.

Chemistry Club Features Movies

On November 16, 1950, the chemistry club held its second meeting of the year. Bob Miller opened the meeting with a short business session after which the following films were shown: "A Short Course in Paper Making," "Drama of Steel," "The Story of Formica," and "Sightseeing at Home."

The meeting was concluded with the serving of refreshments.

tion, required of all students for graduation. One, in the humanities, will be taken in the sophomore year; the other, in social studies, will be taken in the junior year. Dr. George G. Struble, professor of English, will head the Humanities course, and Mrs. Maud P. Laughlin, professor of Political Science and Sociology, will administer the course in Social Studies.

The course in Social Studies will attempt to integrate the fields of economics, political science, and sociology by means of a study of the historical development of the institutions in these areas, and by an examination of their operation in modern society. The course in the humanities will draw material from the ancient and modern literatures of continental Europe, and from English and American literature. In addition it will seek to indicate the significance of the material studied in terms of the developing mind of man and in terms of his search for values. It will also attempt to show how the developments in literature are paralleled by similar developments in art and music.

Conserv Presents
Symphony Orchestra
Concert on Thursday

The Lebanon Valley College Symphony Orchestra will present its annual concert in Engle Hall on Thursday evening, December 14, 1950, at 8:30 P. M., under the direction of Professor Edward P. Rutledge, with John Sant Ambrogio, cellist, as soloist.

To open the program, the orchestra will play Sibelius's famous tone poem, Finlandia. From the opera The Bartered Bride by Smetana, you will hear Three Dances. A picture of rural Bohemia, the music is rustic and jolly, making the Polka, Furiant, and the Dance of the Comedians a delight for the listening audience.

The final work in this first half of the program will introduce John Sant Ambrogio, cellist, to the concert audience. Mr. Ambrogio, a freshman in the Conservatory, will play the Concerto for Violoncello by Boccherini.

After intermission, the orchestra will open the second half of the program with Pique Dame, (Queen of Spades) an overture written by Von Suppe, composer of such overtures as the Light Cavalry and Poet and Peasant. Next, we will hear the Praeludium by Jarnefelt a short composition which is built on Finnish folk-dance tunes. One of the noteworthy aspects of this work is the basso ostinato, a pattern of notes in the bass which does not change time but obstinately remains the same.

Considered by many to be among the most popular works of Tchaikowsky, his ballet suites reflect his originality and mastery in both composition and orchestration. Mr. Rutledge has chosen The Enchanted Lake as the orchestra's next number. Included in this suite are Scene, Dance of the Swans, and Hungarian Dance.

In keeping with the holiday season, a Christmas Carol has been included on the program. The orchestra will play The First Noel as arranged by Morton Gould.

The final selection of the symphony orchestra will be the March and Procession of Bacchus by Delibes. This work is a musical setting of a procession before the Temple of Diana, including the herald trumpets, the military display, flower girls, clowns, and the graceful Muses of the Dance. A fine instrumental work, The March and Procession of Bacchus proves a fitting finale for the concert.

Mrs. Baxstresser Appears in New York
Town Hall Concert

Mrs. Margaret Barthel Baxstresser pianist, will be presented in concert at Town Hall, New York City, on Wednesday afternoon, December 13, 1950 at 3 P. M., under the auspices of the Walter W. Naumberg Musical Foundation, City Center of Music and Drama.

Mrs. Baxstresser was one of the winners of the 1950 Naumberg Musical Foundation Prize last spring. A member of the faculty of the Lebanon Valley College Conservatory from 1946-1950, the pianist made numerous appearances

W & B Presents Thornton Wilder's Prize Winning Play Our Town

The Wig and Buckle Club will present on Friday evening, December 8, in Engle Hall, Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize winning play, Our Town. This play will be the first of two major annual productions presented this year by Lebanon Valley College's amateur dramatic group, the Wig and Buckle Club.

The leading roles in this fall production are portrayed by George DeLong and Darlene Moyer. Featured are the following: Robert Kreig, David Jauss, John Heck, Ruth Sheaffer, and Janet Weidenhammer. The large supporting cast includes Dorothea Cohle, Geraldine Nichols, Katherine Eschenback, Robert Zimmerman, Thomas Henry, George Curfman, Allison Stella, John Mohan, Glenn Woods, Charles Kagey, Lois Adams, Julia Thatcher. The play is directed by Professor Keller and Dr. Sloca.

Our Town was Thornton Wilder's first notable contribution to the American stage. The play opened in New York on February 4, 1938, with Frank Craven and Martha Scott in the leading roles and was an instantaneous success. In his review of the play on the morning following the play's opening, Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times hailed Our Town as a "beautifully evocative play." The New York Sun said, "Our Town reaches into the past of America and evokes movingly a way of life which is lost in our present turmoil." The New York Morning-Telegraph called it "a play of tremendous power. One of the great plays of our day."

The play enjoyed a run in New York of 159 performances, and then was successfully toured. It was selected as the Pulitzer Prize play for the season 1937-38, and later it was filmed with Frank Craven and Martha Scott again re-creating the roles of the Stage Manager and Emily Webb. In the Wig and Buckle production on Friday night, these parts will be enacted by George DeLong and Darlene Moyer.

The play is unusual in that it requires no scenery and makes use of very few properties. This stage simplicity provides a change from the ordinary type of theatrical production and is entirely in keeping with the idea of the play itself. The absence of scenery makes for freshness which Wilder desired, for in the play he examines with simplicity life in America as it is experienced in an average small town in New England just after 1900. In essence, Wilder asks his audience to stop for a moment and look closely at living—at the trivial and the momentous experiences which come to all human beings—and to see life as the fresh and wonderful and magnificent experience that it is.

Clonians Honor Charter Member

Mrs. Ella Rigler Deaner, a resident of Annville for more than ninety years, was honored recently by the Clonian Literary Society of Lebanon Valley College. The Clonian Society, celebrating its 77th anniversary, honored Mrs. Deaner as the oldest living member of Clonian and oldest living alumnus of Lebanon Valley College. Miss Sara Anne Etzweiler of Columbia, president of Clonian, presented Mrs. Deaner with a bouquet of chrysanthemums in behalf of the society.

Mrs. Deaner, lives at 226 W. Main Street, Annville, in the house built by her father and in which she was born. Her husband, the late Professor H. Clay Deaner, was a professor of Latin and astronomy at Lebanon Valley College from 1879 to 1897. Mrs. Deaner was a charter member of Clonian when the society was founded in 1873. She graduated from Lebanon Valley College in 1877.

Jiggerboard and Senate Plan Christmas Dance

The annual gala Christmas dinner-dance will be held December 13, 1950, in the Annville Gym. As usual, this big affair will be sponsored by Jiggerboard and Men's Senate.

The dinner will begin in the college dining hall. Entertainment will be superb with contributions from Joyce Carpenter, Dolores Zarker, Dick Kohler, Martin Trostle, and presidents of the four classes. The speakers will be Professor McKlveen and Professor V. Earl Light. This banquet is for boarding students only.

Christmas Festivities Planned By SCA

Christmas caroling, a candlelight Christmas cantata, and campus decorations will be the S. C. A. contribution to the Christmas activities at L. V. C. this season.

Everyone is welcome to join the carolers on Tuesday evening December 12 to make a tour of Annville with special stops at the professor's homes. The group will assemble in the College Church basement at 9 P. M. Following the singing, refreshments will be served.

A cantata, "The Music of Christmas" by Ira B. Wilson, will be presented in a candlelight setting by the S. C. A. Choir, under the direction of Delores Zarker, on Thursday evening, December 14 at 11 P. M. in Engle Hall.

Outdoor Christmas tree decorations and a lighted star on top of the Ad Building will be supplied and put up by the S. C. A.

Six students are planning to represent Lebanon Valley College at the National Student Assembly of the Student Christian Association Movement to be held from December 27 to January 2 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Those planning to attend are Sara Latsha, Betsy Brodhead, Martha-Marie Rapp, Robert Guyer, William Miller, and Martin Trostle.

Dr. Lindquist Returns To Address Chapel Service

Dr. Raymond I. Lindquist, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Orange, New Jersey, will speak at a special chapel service at Lebanon Valley to commemorate the National Week of Prayer which will be held January 1 to 5. The special service will be held during open hour at 11 o'clock, on Thursday, January 4.

LVC—Muhlenberg Joint Meetings Point up Weakness of Valley System

Inter-college Session Promotes Goodwill and Useful Exchange of Ideas on Student Government

By Jay Flocken

Recent developments on the Lebanon Valley campus involving student government have resulted in several conferences between representatives of Valley governing bodies and the Student Council of Muhlenberg College in Allentown. Pressed rather heavily with action including all members of the student community, governing leaders were fatally hampered by the incongruous situation existing on this campus in which no less than five separate bodies handle matters pertaining to student affairs. Consequently, at a meeting arranged by the presidents of the Men's Senate and the Men Day Students' Congress, men and women from the Jiggerboard, Women's Commuter Council, Senate, and Congress met in a five hour long discussion with the Muhlenberg Student Council to see how a centralized governing body operates and to exchange ideas and questions pertaining to student government in general.

Among the many worthwhile items touched upon were several agreed to be essential for the existence of real student government. These were: (1) student responsibility, (2) centralization of governing powers, (3) cooperation of faculty and administration, and (4) real representation on the governing body.

Students from both schools recognized the necessity to have the average student not only interested in his campus government, but also willing to accept the obligations which naturally proceed from any extension of privileges.

This acceptance, in addition to being an individual character problem, was agreed to be dependent on the centralization of all the governing powers granted by the school to the students. This makes for efficiency of time, effort, and comparative ease of executing policies.

And of course, basically, student government to be student government must be by the students. This requires a certain amount of cooperation and encouragement from faculty members and administrative officers, for after all, from them come the delegated powers and responsibilities student governments possess.

Finally, to attain the ends possible by the existence of the other three, there must be a representative system which truly voices student opinion on the governing body, a system which has the respect of the students. A campus-wide election for representatives to a student council offers the most democratic way of achieving campus-wide representation of a practical nature.

The representatives from Lebanon Valley were most favorably impressed with the system of student government at Muhlenberg and—more important—were equally impressed with the practical application they observed in the regular council meeting.

Muhlenberg opinion was unanimous that our basic problem on this campus is the need for centralization—an opinion widely shared by students here.

Since this inter-college meeting, the four governing bodies mentioned have had three joint meetings, attempting to more adequately perform their functions. It is to be hoped that this year something tangible may be accomplished in making student government on the Lebanon Valley campus more of an actuality; at least taking the first short steps in that direction. Short steps they probably will be, for growth of this kind is gradual; we hope it will be noticeable evolution, however.

The oft lamented pride and spirit of the Valley could benefit from such evolution; leadership and maturity could greatly be encouraged.

Sophomores at the State Teacher's College at Indiana, Pennsylvania reported a novel dance—the couples were chaperoned by a life-sized image of Satan, complete with floating cloud and pitchfork. Not to be outdone the juniors at Iowa State College used free form art as their theme—"the duo theme will be carried out by the backdrops centered around two abstract forms of white and fuschia on a black background—silver glitter will emphasize the simplicity of the forms—a revolving color wheel will dramatize the effect—" The agriculture majors at the University of Idaho were a little more conservative and based their "Ag Brawl" on Harvest Time.

The University of Idaho also claims to have the most beautiful co-eds in the country.

On the stages of other campuses we find: My Sister Eileen, December 14 and 15 at Baltimore University—Angel Street, December 1 and 2 at Drexel Institute—Our Town, December 8 at Moravian College—remember that it's at Lebanon Valley College Friday, December 8, in Engle Hall.

A poll of Muhlenberg students indicated that their ideal newspaper would have: 1. joke column; 2. capsule reviews of current movies with a uniform rating scale; 3. less advertising; 4. more articles about the frosh; 5. more religious articles; 6. new editors; 7. more personal interviews; 8. news concerning G. I.'s and changes in the draft laws; 9. better, more efficient distribution; 10. more publicity for campus clubs.

Chemical Society Holds Dinner-Meeting

Thursday evening, December 7, 1950, the Southeastern Pennsylvania Section of the American Chemical Society held its December meeting at Lebanon Valley College. It was the Section's first visit to this campus since the addition of the Lebanon area to the southeastern territory in the early part of this year.

A dinner was served at 6:45 P. M., in the college dining room after which the meeting was held in Engle Hall at 8:00 P. M. The speaker, Dr. Philip J. Elving, Professor of Chemistry, Pennsylvania State College spoke on the subject, "Some Phases of Analytical Chemistry."

L. V. Participates In College Nights

D. Clark Carmean, Director of Admissions at Lebanon Valley College, and Professors Howard Neidig, Chemistry, and Carl Ehrhart, Philosophy, visited Dover, Delaware, where they represented the college at "College Night."

"College Night" is a night set aside by the state when parents and children can meet with the representatives of various colleges. The Lebanon Valley College representatives journeyed to Hagerstown, Maryland, November 20 for another "College Night."

Mr. Carmean also represented the college at the 1950 Convention of the Middle State Association of Collegiate Registrars and Officers of Admissions held in Atlantic City, November 24 and 25.

L. W. R. Begins Series Of Volunteer Shows

The Life Work Recruits went to the Old Peoples Home, Avon, to present their annual Thanksgiving program, Monday, November 20. The program included Bernard Fogle as speaker with special music furnished by the S. C. A. octet.

Monday, December 11, the Life Work Recruits will present their annual Christmas program at the Children's Hospital, Elizabethtown.

FTA Host To Reading High School Students

The newly organized Lebanon Valley College chapter of the Future Teachers of America, under the leadership of their president, Fred Sample, was host to the Reading High School chapter of the FTA upon their visit to our campus on Tuesday, December 5, 1950. The guests included 55 students, and two faculty.

They arrived on the campus at about 10:00 A. M., attending chapel, and had lunch here on campus. Among the activities planned later in the afternoon was a tour of the college campus, including the new physical education building, special conferences concerning the seven or eight different fields in which these high school people have expressed their interests, and a recital in the Conservatory to round out their visit here.

New Members Initiated Into Pi Gamma Mu

Seven new members were initiated into Pi Gamma Mu at a meeting of that society held on November 16 at 7:30 P. M. in Philo Hall. President Roland Garvin presided over the Candlestick rite initiation service. The Bell Rite was used in inauguration of the officers for the present year. Plans were discussed for the formulation of the year's program. Professor Carl Ehrhart was appointed chairman of a committee for the preparation of the Christmas meeting.

Psych Club Solicits New Members

The Psychology Club is campaigning for an increased and more active membership. The Club hopes that its activities will interest not only the psychology majors but other students as well. The club meets once a month and a tentative schedule of programs has been arranged under the direction of Mim Gottlieb.

To all students of William Fairlamb:

My wife and I should like to express to all of you our sincere appreciation for your most wonderful gift. It was most generous of you to express your best wishes in such a completely delightful manner. Since it would be almost impossible for us to write a note of thanks to each of you—which is exactly what we should like to do—we are taking this means of conveying our most sincere thanks and appreciation for your gift.

How To Stay in College

1. Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. This demonstrates fiery interest and gives him timely items to mention to the class. If you can't find any clippings dealing with his subject, bring in any clippings at random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.

2. Look alert! Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievably and shake it.

3. Nod frequently and murmur "How true!" To you, this seems exaggerated. To him, it's quite objective.

4. Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake.) If you are going to all the trouble to make a good impression, you might as well let him know who you are, especially in a large class.

5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.

6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.

7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the class. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.

8. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do math in psychology and psychology in math class, match the books for size and color.

9. Ask any questions you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he couldn't answer, and in your younger brother's second grade reader at that.

Oh, well there's always summerschool!—Have a nice vacation? Some students had to take skiing lessons to get back to civilization and then there were those who went on hunting trips and were marooned! Better luck at Christmas!

The Play's the Thing

Ever hear of Grover's Corners? Well, that's Our Town. You'll meet the Gibbs and the Webbs tonight when Wig and Buckle presents Our Town on the Engle Hall stage at 8:15. "Completely different—top play with top cast—with two directors how can we go wrong?—has that human touch—with no stage setting the audience's attention will be on the play and the characters"—these are the remarks and comments of the cast from the leading role down to the prompter. George DeLong has the lead and from all indications he will top his roles in John Loves Mary and The Hasty Heart. The other leads are portrayed by Bob (the fellow with the spring-maid shirts) Kreig and Darlene Moyer. Remember them in the Homecoming Plays? One of the most beautiful scenes is the wedding of Darlene and Bob. Bob Zimmerman is everything in this play including the chickens and the crickets. Professor Keller and Dr. Sloca are directing this production. All roads lead to Our Town. Good luck cast!

There's No Business Like Show Business

This was proved when the conserv presented LV'S A-Poppin' several weeks ago. This musical was written, directed and presented entirely by the students. Some of the highlights included Rhein's "Orange Colored Sky"—Kenny Keiser's marimba playing—Ritner and Carpenter's rendition of "Thinking of You" Kline and Getz's clowning at the piano—Darlene (This gal's got talent) Moyer's dancing—Hornberger and his accordion—Don Peiffer at the organ. Why not have more musicals like this on the campus?

Santa Claus is Coming to Town

Who was seen standing in line to see Santa Claus? None other than Prof. McKlveen—Have that date for the Christmas Dance? You still have a few days yet—Don't forget to join the fun next week at the annual Christmas carolling on campus—Still puzzled about a gift for that best boy friend? See the new zodiac jewelry or the new "symphonies in satin" ties—And for the girl? Diamonds seem to be the most popular gift this year—Need any greetings? The Knights of the Valley are selling some nice selections.

Here and There

See those new Philo jackets? Neatest thing in styling!—Helen MacFarland is known these days as "Sparkle Plenty"—Hear that these are "GOLDEN" days for Barb Hess—Mark Raessler will trade an album of Shostakovich for Patti Page's "Tennessee Waltz"—Hear George Ritner on Horace Heidt's show from Charleston, S. C.? He also appeared on TV. Congrats!—The Metzger-Kline-Redding-Hostetter merry-go-round has stopped. (I think!) But the Zarker-Bomgardner-Moore spin is still spinning! Dorie was at the conserv formal with Schiemer—Speaking of the formal, Miss Gillespie was the most popular person on the dance floor—"Does anyone know what Klim is?" That was the question Dr. Struble asked his class last week. Not a member of the class knew. It is milk spelled backwards—The Palmyra Legion was the scene of a gala affair this week when the four societies joined forces for a party. Jane Lutz did a fine job with the games. Seems like Dankowski was the top winner (in the jacket dance he was always getting a jacket 6 sizes too big for him) Dave Dundore was there with Shirley Shaffer—Members of Phi Lambda Sigma have been invited to attend an inter-frat dance this week-end at Gettysburg College—The frosh lost to the sophs in the football game—Hear that a student teacher has Rosalind Russell in his class attend the Symphony Concert next Thursday night? They have a good program scheduled—"Bloomer Girls" lost to the football players in the hockey game—The new gym is really getting into shape for the basketball game Saturday night—Newest couple on the campus—John Heck and Grace Mohn—Ask Sara Latsha about the "big surprise" she had the other night—Record of the week—"The Thing" by Phil Harris—Evelyn Eby is really "gleaming" over her date to the—News from North Hall? Nope! Peg says "No news is good news!"—Plan to Christmas Dance—Troistle is taking art lessons by the way of Allentown—Frank DeAngelis is going into the barber business. So I hear!—See the latest issue of College Fun? It is terrific! Its book cover of the month is great—Will see you at Our Town.

Conserv Features First Student Recital

The Lebanon Valley College Conservatory of Music presented the first student recital of the 1950 season in Engle Hall, Monday, December 4, at 8:00 p. m.

Joan Mattern, pianist, played Beethoven's "Sonata Op. 2 No. 1." Brahms' "Second Sonata" was presented by Harold Rothenberger, clarinetist, accompanied by Nancy Cramer, from Lebanon; and Thomas Israel, from Cleona, interpreted "Yon's Toccata in D" on the organ. Joyce Carpenter, soprano, accompanied by Dorothy Witmer, sang Curran's "What is a Song." Strauss' "To You," "We'll to the Woods and Gather May" by Griffes, and "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" by Saint-Saens.

Pianist Jean Frantz, from Myerstown, played two mazurkas by Chopin and Debussy's "General Lavine-eccentric." Donald Coldren, on the clarinet, accompanied by Elaine Bolinger, presented Levy's "Grand Russian Fantasia." Ruth Evans, pianist from Lebanon, played Chopin's "Prelude in D Major" and "Prelude in G Minor." The concluding selection was Vivaldi's "Concerto for Two Violins and Piano," played by Wilbert Hartman, violin, Arlene Shuey, violin, and Pierce Getz, piano.

Knights and SCA Join In Old Clothes Drive

The Knights of the Valley took up the appeal for clothes and text books made by the Student Christian Association and decided to carry the drive to the limits of Annville. After a short conference with President Martin Troistle of the S. C. A., Reverend Dave Gockley, and Principal Starr, of the Annville High School, it was decided to ask the students to bring in their contributions to the high school where they were picked up by the Knights. President Guy Euston wrote a letter to the students and parents asking for their co-operation in this drive. Tuesday was the official date set for the collection of the clothes. The college jeep, loaded to capacity, was then turned over to the S. C. A. They are storing the articles until the drive on campus is completed.

The text books will be sent to a library in the Philippines while the clothing will be distributed by the World Student Service Fund among the needy throughout the world.

The Knights wish to thank all those who have contributed in every way to make this undertaking a success.

Glaubit 6 — Freshmen 0

On Saturday the sophomores won the inter-class football game. It was a complete reversal of last year's game when the present junior class triumphed. The sophs capitalized on the breaks of the game which, incidentally, they made themselves. This was due greatly to the superb effort which the team as a whole put forth, although the frosh did show keen spirit throughout the game.

One of the main features was the touchdown pass from slinging Bob Miller to big Bob Glaubit which covered about forty yards. The frosh put up a great fight, but the power put their way by the sophs was just too much for them. However, there was some spectacular running by Hendrichs, Brightbill, Sellers and company.

One of the main reasons for the outcome of the game was the fact that the slugging sophs managed to play better ball when the chips were down. This was seen clearly when they held the frosh on the one yard line for four downs just before the half.

Considering the condition of the field, the teams did exceedingly well. There were few fumbles, good passing, and good running.

Conserv Notes . . .

by DOTTIE COHLE

Repercussion of LV'S A-Poppin': "Terrific show!" That seemed to be the general consensus of opinion following the Conserv show... Played to a capacity crowd... received a tremendous ovation...

Credit for that snappy dialogue go to Joyce Carpenter, and the male members of the chorus... can't overlook their ad-libbing... Lois Shetter and George Ritner put the chorus through their paces... did a good job.

A big handshake for John Heck, who prepared the score and rehearsed the chorus and orchestra... and Tritch's arrangements... "Sentimental Journey"—Cohle, Tritch, Hamor.

Highlights of the evening: Eurythmics class... The "Orchestra"... George and Joyce... Darlene Moyer's dancing... That marimba madman Kenny Keiser... Dick Kline's impersonations... Bob Rhein's "Orange Colored Sky"... Cider and pretzels afterwards... dancing in Kalo... Don Troistle and his gang making with the music. "I got my 35c worth in the first three minutes"... "Are they going to give another one next year?... "Great! Really great!"... "Marvelous piece of work" "An all-student production you say? Good job! They should have things like this more often" You get the general idea.

Professor Fairlamb showing off his bride Joann, the former Joann Kessler, class of '49... Congratulations.

Everybody that attended the Pennsylvania Music Educator's Association convention in Harrisburg must agree that it was interesting and entertaining. Praises rising for the fine job done by Mrs. Mary Jane (Eckert) Streapy, class of '48, on the student panel last Friday afternoon... Bruce Weiser and George adding their thoughts to the discussion... All are looking forward to the National Convention.

The Flanagan News Flash, a publicity pamphlet concerning Ralph Flanagan's band tells about Walter Levinsky, former Valleyite, who is playing lead clarinet with the band. The Baby, he's 21, was with Tommy Dorsey, prior to his present position.

Words still flying about the Conserv Formal... a great success... Miss Gillespie, the belle of the ball.

December 14 is the date set for the L. V. Symphony Concert, featuring John Sant Ambrogio, cellist. That's next Thursday evening... A good way to finish the week and start you on your vacation! See you there.

Merry Christmas plus a Happy New Year from your Conserv staff, faculty, students.

"Hutch" Plays In Girls Field Hockey Tourney

Jeanne DeCon Hutchinson, a junior at Lebanon Valley College, was selected for a position on the Mid-Eastern Field Hockey Team, for competition in the national tourney held November 23, 24, and 25. in Rochester.

The girls picked for the Mid-Eastern team were selected from 6 all-star teams from the Central Penn Association, Fingers Lake (Rochester) Association, and the Pittsburgh Association.

Miss Hutchinson is playing her third year of varsity hockey at Lebanon Valley. This year Jeanne was high scorer for the Flying Dutchgirls with 8 goals. She was an outstanding basketball player last year, scoring 212 points in 11 games, 32 of which were scored in the game against Moravian. She is one of the college cheerleaders, a member of the Delphian Society, and the Women's Athletic Association.

Miss Hutchinson is a graduate of Pemberton High School, where she played four years of varsity basketball and hockey, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hutchinson of Wrightstown, N. J.

Basketballers Open Home Campaign Against Albright

Kinsella and Zimmerman Co-Captain Valley Quintet

Opening their 1950-51 basketball season against Upsala at Orange, N. J. Wednesday night, the latest variety of Coach Ralph Mease's basketballers meet their first home opponent in the new Physical Education Building Gymnasium on Saturday when Lebanon Valley's foremost rival, Albright, takes the floor against the Flying Dutchmen. This game marks the forty-ninth basketball contest between the two schools in a series that began in 1902 when the Dutchmen lost to the Roaring Lions 18-17. Since then the trend towards the fast-break has changed Valley basketball and lately the majority of the Dutchman court battles have ended in astronomical figures. Last year the Measemen tallied 1528 points in twenty games for a seasonal average of 76.4 which turned out to be the fifth highest recorded among the small colleges in the nation. The highpoint came when the Blue and White cut loose with all their fury in a blistering second half and all but ran Moravian's Greyhounds off the floor 102-79.

This year Lebanon Valley opened with the team they ended their past campaign with, Upsala. It was that evening last March when Henry DiJohnson, Lebanon Valley's greatest athlete, and Floyd Becker, the first LVC dribbler to score over 1,000 points, ended their brilliant careers as co-captains at the Valley. DiJohnson was honored with "Di Day" while Becker brought his four year total to 1,016. With those two fine co-captains gone the Dutchmen have selected two other capable leaders who will guide them through their present schedule, these being Lawrence Michael Kinsella of Linden, N. J., and Charles L. Zimmerman of Lebanon. Both seniors, they are of the same height, tipping the marker at 6' 1" each. Kinsella has been a consistently high scorer on Valley basketball aggregations, this marking his third year of varsity basketball at LVC. Last year Larry scored a total of 274 points for an average of 13.7 per game. Noted for his driving-in one hand shots Larry plays a hard aggressive game. A graduate of Linden High School, Larry earned varsity letters there in football, basketball, and baseball. He also attempted the latter sport in college as a southpaw pitcher but Larry finds that the basket is more appealing than the plate. Zimmerman, more appropriately known as "Chuck" or "Chuzzie," is one of those calm guys who plays the game with what one may term quiet characteristics. Perhaps this may be due to the fact that he is the only married man on the team. "Chuzzie's" precise play has proven an invaluable asset in Dutchmen victories in the past and this should be the best year this co-captain has had as yet. Lebanon Valley can look forward to a successful season under these dependable co-captains.

Other lettermen returning to the squad are Richie Furda, Don "Red" Langstaff, Al Murawski, and Bill Tomilen. Furda and Murawski both hail from Elizabeth, N. J., where they were graduated from the same high school, St. Patrick's. Richie and Al played basketball and baseball for the Shamrocks and proved adept at both, excelling in the former as they led their team to the New Jersey Class C Catholic Championship in their senior year. Richie joined the Valley varsity as a freshman and in his first year with the Blue and White this diminutive cager has dropped 164 points through the nets. Looking vastly improved in recent scrimmages, Furda will undoubtedly be one of the main cogs in the Valley's wheel of basketball success. Murawski enlisted in Mease's crew at the start of the second semester and established himself as one of the finer players on the squad almost immediately. Standing 6' 3", Murawski is excellent in the pivot position and under the boards. He has developed a deadly one-handed hook shot and time and again his sterling play on the court has won the applause of the fans. Last year Al got off to a slow start scoring only, and we use that term loosely, 170 points in ten games. This should be a banner year for Murawski on the hardwoods and his fine play has given an indication that there is All-Pennsylvania material here on our campus. This has been augmented by the fact that in one of the early scrimmage games this year, Al sent thirty points through the cords. Really a man to watch!

Don "Red" Langstaff calls Roselle Park, N. J., his home and this will be "Red's" third year of varsity play, he being a junior. Midway through his freshman year "Red" was promoted from the Reserves to the senior group and has played with the major quintet since. Red has a variety of eye-opening shots with which he dazzles the fans now and then. Noted for his wonderful team play and classy faking along with good work around the boards, Red is looking for a better season than last when he was continually hampered by injuries.

Probably possessing more spirit than any other player on the floor, junior Bill Tomilen has proven helpful in his one year on the varsity. This will mark Bill's second cage campaign and although he didn't participate in a few of the contests last year we are looking for his inspired team play to be evident on the boards this season. Bill attended Sweeney High in Bayonne, N. J., and learned his basketball at that institution.

Up from the Reserve Team of last season to bolster the varsity are two of its high scorers, Leon Miller and Joe Oxley. Leon, who calls Palmyra, his home, was one of the better junior varsity netmen last year and his jump to the varsity in his sophomore semester demonstrates how highly the coaching staff regards his ability. Joe Oxley played two years of Reserve ball and like Miller moves up to the varsity as a result of his excellent basketball know how. Joe is from Long Branch, N. J., and was a standout athlete there. Aside from football, there is nothing Joe likes better than basketball and his hard playing has won the respect of the fans.

Thus far the Valley has held three practice scrimmages. They lost the first to Mt. St. Mary's but defeated them the second time and have also registered a practice win over Millersville State Teachers College. The squad has been working out daily and on Monday held their first inter-squad scrimmage in the new gym. All this being in preparation for last night's opener and Saturday's more important game against Albright.

This, then, has been a brief preview of the Valley Varsity for 50-51. Look for individual write-ups and pictures on our stars of the hoop and hardwood in the ensuing copies of LA VIE.

The Sports Department of LA VIE joins with the rest of the college in congratulating fullback Walt Shonovsky and guard Tom Quinn on their receiving honorable mention in the 1950 Associated Press' All-Pennsylvania football selections.

College to Sponsor Cage Tourney In New Gym

The weekend of December 28, 29, and 30 will find the Lebanon Valley campus buzzing with basketball players from eight other institutions as the first Lebanon Valley College Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament will be taking place. Director of Athletics, Ralph R. Mease, has lined up this unique affair and has invited the following colleges to participate in the tournament: Albright, Dickinson, Elizabethtown, Franklin & Marshall, Lehigh, Moravian, Pennsylvania Military, and Scranton. The basketball personnel of these participating schools will reside in the Men's Dormitory while on campus and will take their meals in North Hall.

The affair commences on Thursday afternoon, the 28 with three games being played and will continue that evening with two more contests. Keeping in line with the eliminating trend there will be two games on Friday night and the final two on Saturday evening. The winning college will be awarded a trophy as well as the third place team trophy. The runner-up will also receive a trophy as will the third place team. Upon completion of the tournament, an Invitation All-Star Team composed of five men from the nine combines will be selected and they will be awarded plaques. An Outstanding Player will also be chosen and he will be presented with a fitting trophy.

The three day session will not be assigned to playing the game alone. Since all the local high school basketball teams and their coaches are invited, a coaches discussion panel will be held on Friday afternoon with the high schoolers attending.
